UP HIGH A catwalk housir was replaced after Scott County Milling Company explosion tore galvanized sheet from the walk that leads to newer bins on the right. The blast and fire occurred Oct 9, 1967.

A NEW GRAIN DRYER has been completed and is ready for use at the Scott County Milling Company. It is 72 feet high and will handle 1,500 bushels of grain per hour, pulling five per cent moisture from grain passing through. At upper left is a cone-shaped collector that draws dust from grain.

Burglary Attempt Foiled

SCOTT CITY--A breakin last night at 11:30 p.m. at the Saveway Oil company warehouse, by two white men was halted by the watchman, Maurice Uelsmann, 51, Scott City.

Uelsmann awakened in time to see the men attempting to haul a safe through a door.

The watchman was in an adjoining room and heard a noise. As he entered the room where the safe was being moved, he was struck over the head by a sharp instrument. The two men escaped.

The burglars tore a telephone off the wall before they escaped but left empty handed.

Uelsmann was treated, by an Illmo physician, where ten stitches were required to close a wound in his head.

Investigation by the Scott county sheriff's office disclosed that the two men had moved the four foot by three foot iron safe on rollers only a few inches.

At the loading dock old auto tires had been placed on concrete below to reduce noise when the safe dropped from the platform.

Found in the room near the safe were a six-foot pry bar, a pick, single-bit ax, eight-pound sledge, 30-inch chisel, all believed to have been obtained from a construction job. The watchman was believed to have been hit with one of these tools.

Judge Grants Probation In Arson Conspiracy Case

NEW MADRID--David Gilliland and Michael DuBois, both of Sikeston, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of conspiring to commit arson in connection with the Oct. 28, 1966, burning of a house owned by Bill and Joe Fisher about three miles west on New Hamburg Tuesday in Circuit Court.

Judge William L. Ragland presided.

Gilliland and DuBois each were sentenced to one year in the county jail, and were placed on probation for one year on payment of court costs and good bahavior.

The charge had been reduced from an original charge of arson. Another charge of arson in connection with the burning of a barn on the John Spooler farm on the same night in the same general area was dismissed.

The house had been estimated to be worth about $3,000. The barn and its contents were valued at about $5,000.

The case came to New Madrid county on a change of venue from Scott county.

The only state witness in the case against Gilliland and DuBois, a youth named Danny Stribbler of Chaffee, who testified at a preliminary hearing on Dec. 20, 1966, has died, assistant prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore said.

In other court action:

Taken under advisement by the court was a motion for new trial in the case of Hazel Perry against National Trust Life Insurance Company.

Harriman Tells Hanoi Recognition Of South Viet Regime Necessary

PARIS (AP) - Ambassador W. Averell Harriman bluntly told North Vietnamese negotiators today that to progress toward peace "you must be prepared to recognize the role" of South Vietnam's government in working out a settlement of the Vietnam war.

harriman's assertion in the 14th session of the Paris peace talks followed directly on President Johnson's Honolulu meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the end of last week. North Vietnam regularly denounces the Saigon goverment as an American "puppet."

Harriman told newsmen he had not seen definitive evidence that the lull in the war around Saigon, which began in mid-June was finally coming to an end.

But he added: "What is disturbing is that the terrorist actions on theaters around Saigon have started again. People have been killed. I intend to call attention to that." The Viet Cong bombed four theaters in Saigon and nearby towns Sunday, killing 12 Vietnamese and wounding 91.

Going into the 14th session of the talks, Harriman said he would present to the North Vietnamese negotiators the appeal issued in Honolulu by President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu "for a peaceful settlement and an end of the violence."

"I intend," he continued, "to point to the violence that is continuing on the part of the Viet Cong, and I hope this will make some impression."

Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a new lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

U.S. officials think the possilities of any real change are slight. Thuy has brushed aside bilities of any real change are slight. Thuy has brushed aside suggestions that his government was modifying the statement of its basic position that has stood for more than four years. Nevertheless, new language has been used and U.S. officials think that eventually it could be important.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and fourth the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for "the right of selfdetermination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs." Previously this point specified that the South Vietnamese people would settle their own affairs "in accordance with the program of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong. U.S. officials always said they could not accept that condition because it would mean acceptance of the Communist program for South Vietnam.

Early this year a new organization which claimed to include non-Communist elements, the Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Vietnam, was launched with acclaim from Hanoi. North Vietnam stopped calling the Liberation Front the "sole" representative of the South Vietnamese people and began calling it the "authentic representative." Some U.S. officials believe that elimination of the reference to the Liberation Front's program in Hanoi's new statement of its four points could be another maneuver to make space for the alliance.

North Vietnamese officials in Paris have sought to promote the Alliance as a compromise political body for the South. But U.S. officials say it is a Communist front, and one of the Saigon government's military courts has condemned 10 of its leaders to death in absentia.

U.S. officials are anxious, nevertheless, to find out all they can about the Alliance and the relative value which North Vietnam attaches to it and to the Liberation Front.

Court Asked To Reconsider Toll Road-Ruling

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Supreme Court was asked Tuesday to reconsider its decision invalidating the 1967 toll road law.

The State Turnpike Authority created by the law and the State Highway Commission petitioned for a new hearing. They said the court misinterpreted the facts when it held a Turnpike Authority road leased to the State Highway Commission is not a state highway.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes also has attacked the July 8 decision, charging the court ignored the great economic impact of toll roads. He was the chief sponsor of the 1967 turnpike law.

Watson Says Mail May Not Be Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster Gen. W. Marvin Watson said today action by two congressional committees has encouraged him to believe mail service will not have to be curtailed.

But Watson indicated Congress will have to do still more before the Post Office Department rescinds its announced cutbacks in service, the first of which takes effect Saturday.

"The support of these two committees—composed of men most knowledgeable on this complex subject—was to me further evidence of the credibility of our crisis," Watson said.

"It remains now for the Congress to make its decision," he added. "But I believe there is now some light being cast into what is a somber situation.

Watson's comments were in a speech prepared for 2,000 delegates to the National Postal Forum.

Watson repeated arguments he made before congressional committees in the past two weeks seeking an exemption for the department from manpower cutbacks dictated by President Johnson's 10 per cent income surtax bill.

The beginning of postal cutbacks that Watson has said could lead to closing of 12,000 small branches and eventual four-day delivery in residential areas, comes this Saturday when window service will be cut to a maximum of two hours and street-box pickups will be made on Sunday schedules.

Exemptions for the Post Office Department have been approved by committees in the House and Senate with the most recent action Tuesday.

The Senate Post Office Committee wrote the exemption into a minor House-passed bill. This paved the way for quick actions possibly by week's end, a committee source said.

School Merger Rejected

ADVANCE--The proposed merger of school districts in three counties into a single school district was defeated Tuesday 891, to 1,170.

The districts involved were Advance R-IV in Stoddard county, Chaffee R-II in Scott county, and Delta V in Cape Girardeau county.

The Delta and Chaffee districts posted a three-to-one majority in light voting in favor of the merger. Advance votes came out in numbers to ballot almost 15 to 1 against it.

The vote by districts was Advance 60 to 890, Chaffee 489 to 167 and Delta 342 to 113.

It is not expected the issue will be put to a vote again.

Bid to Hurry Action on Fortas Fails

Washington (AP) — An attempt to get immediate action by the Senate Judiciary Committee on President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice was blocked today.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, DMich., told newsmen that he moved at a closed meeting of the committee to report the nomination to the Senate favorably.

Sen. John L. McClellan, DArk., invoked a committee rule under which a single member can have a matter put over for a week.

The result was to delay at least until next Wednesday any chance for a vote on the nomination of Fortas to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren and there is no assurance the committee will meet then.

Some of the Republican members of the committee, including Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, planned to leave early next week for Miami Beach for platform hearings in advance of the Republican National Convention.

If no committee session is held next week, action on the Fortas nomination presumably will be delayed until after Congress returns in September following the national party conventions.

Eban Accuses Nasser of Looking for War

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said today that President Gamal Abdel Nasser is looking for a new war to liquidate Israel.

The Egyptian president told the inaugural congress of his Arab Socialist Union in Cairo Tuesday that the Middle East crisis "could explode any minute" into a world conflict.

He said prospects for a settlement with Israel were slim and U.N. efforts to bring about peace in the area had gained nothing.

Eban called Nasser's speech "a brutally clear and conducive picture of ... a policy of total, unreserved and uncompromising opposition to peace."

"This statement ... destroys any possible illusion about Egyptian moderation," Eban declared. "Nasser's policy is to have a new war in the Middle East for the purpose of bringing about Israel's complete liquidation."

"He is against peace, against agreement, against negotiation, against the recognition of Israel's sovereignty," he added.

Nasser declared once again that there can be no peace as long as Arab lands are occupied by Israel. He also praised the Soviet Union for rearming Egypt after its defeat in the six-day war in June, 1967.

Cape Motorist Seriously Hurt

Harry Rexford Brown, 34, Cape Girardeau, is reported in serious condition in the Madison County Memorial hospital in Fredericktown, from injuries received in a single car accident today at 2:30 a.m. on highway 72, two miles west of Fredericktown.

He was driving a 1968 Oldsmobile when he apparently went to sleep when rounding a curve. He lost control, his car went off the road and turned over.

He received a concussion and scalp cuts.

Mill Repairs Will Be Completed Aug. 1

Repairs to the Scott County Milling Company will be completed Aug. 1. Buildings and machinery were damaged by an Oct. 29, 1967 explosion and fire, which cost the life of one employe and injured another.

Estimated cost of the replacement was $350,000.

Grain buying then will be resumed.

In charge of repairing damaged parts of storage bins and elevators is the Kansas City Millwright Co. Dale Arduser, Kansas City, is superintendent.

The explosion resulted in the death of Leonard Hornback, 30, and injury to Orville Hopp, 43.

Heaviest damage was to a square storage bin that contained grain in the upper portion, and machinery that operated a 30-inch belt to 16 round bins, each 85 feet high and each having a capacity of 27,000 bushels of grain.

In the center of the round bins, are seven star bins, each with a capacity of 7,000 bushels.

One of the bins was damaged when the upper third of it was blown off. A few of the remaining bins were damaged and repaired with reinforced concrete.

The bins and conveyor system were damaged mainly by the explosion. Concrete bins and tunnels weren't vulnerable to fire.

Fire damage was on the east side of the bins, where the wooden truck loading structure once stood. Fire damaged surrounding bins and machinery.

Heaviest damage was confined to square bin, more than one-third replaced with reinforced concrete, and the lower third of the structure that housed machinery. The machinery has been replaced.

All the grain in the most of the 16 bins was emptied, and graded. The undamaged grain has been sold.

The bins emptied had a capacity of 600,000 bushels of grain. None of the bins were more than two thirds full at the time of the explosion.

LBJ Vows Firm Stand Against War Critics

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson has declared he will not waver from a Vietnam policy he called just and reasonable, despite "the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year."

The nation's governors who heard that pledge had no plans to attempt to match it with one of their own. The 60th National Governors Conference held its final session today, and the agenda did not touch on Vietnam.

One Democrat who praised the Johnson stand said any attempt to put the conference on record in support of U.S. policy on the war and negotiations would stir dissension which could do more harm than good.

Johnson spent an hour Tuesday night at the conference which has been marked by the political maneuvering by and for candidates to succeed him when he retires from the White House next Jan. 20.

"Our nation wants peace, our government wants peace, our men in Vietnam want peace and your President wants peace. Yet some among us seem to feel that I or we alone can bring peace to Vietnam. They seem to ignore the presence and irreconcilability of the enemy."

Johnson said he had promised battleground restraint in announcing he would not run again for the White House, and has kept that promise.

"We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go," he said. "But we are not going to impose a coalition government—or any kind of government—on the people of South Vietnam.

"Nor are we going to let the totalitarians impose a Communist government of their direction either," the President said. That drew one of only two rounds of applause which came during his address.

"The days we're going through and the days ahead are going to be difficult ones," Johnson said. "But we are determined to press the search for peace even as we resist aggression on the battlefield. We are going to continue to resist the efforts to split our country wide open and divide our citizens."

Outside the Cincinnati convention center, scores of pickets marched the sidewalk, many waving placards critical of Johnson and the war. "Peace now," they chanted intermittently.

"With all the power at my command I am going to do my duty as I see it, regardless of the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year," Johnson said.

He said he and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam agreed that a cease fire, with effective controls and guarantees, could be part of a war settlement. They agreed also, Johnson said, "that an honorable and secure peace will assure the right of the South Vietnamese people to decide their own affairs without external interference...

"That is the position of the U.S. government," Johnson said. "It is fair, it is just, it is reasonable and it is firm. We hope and pray for the best and are prepared for whatever comes."

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who had talked of a possible conference resolution supporting the current Vietnam peace talks in Paris, called Johnson's speech magnificent.

But Hughes said he was not going to seek any conference action on the war issue. He said to do any good it would have to be supported unanimously or overwhelmingly, and that is not possible.

"It seems to be the consensus of everyone that I've talked to that a resolution wouldn't do any good and indeed one might be harmful," Hughes said.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, a Republican, said no Vietnam policy measure had come before his executive committee, which screens conference resolutions.

Johnson got a silver plaque from the governors, inscribed with words of "appreciation for his long and devoted public service" and his leadership in establishing ties between Washington and the states.

He urged the governors to work at the state level to deal with problems of jobs, slums, education, health and the like—saying that the federal government has in the past taken responsibility by default, because no one else would act.

In that context, he mentioned the problem of crime. "The federal government does not seek the responsibility of policing our streets—and I hope and pray it will never accept it," he said. "But if the American people look to Washington in a matter so clearly defined as this, it may betray a weakness in our partnership."

Johnson asked for the governors' help in getting congressional action on legislation to "protect our people from guns in criminal hands."

A resolution now before it would recommend state action to stiffen gun control laws, but would not advocate specific laws, leaving that to the individual state.

ANYTHING IS OKAY IF YOU DON'T GET CAUGHT?

The American people have been given a snow-job that violence and vandalism is the result of poverty and some people now assume that the growing trend toward anarchy can be arrested by guaranteeing everyone economic security.

But the evidence is becoming more obvious every day that the rise in all forms of law-breaking, including rioting and looting, involves far more than the actions of desperate poverty-stricken people. Studies are showing that in cities such as Washington, D.C., most of the rioters and looters were in far from depressed economics circumstances. Many of those arrested held good jobs.

Another bit of evidence indicating the whys of our social troubles other than poverty is contained in a startling Satevepost article by Bill Davidson on shoplifting. Davidson's findings reveal an astounding decline in the character and integrity of a whole people.

Retailers lose from $1 billion to $3 billion annually to shoplifters. More than half of these thieves are teenagers. Where a decade ago there were only a few thousand shoplifting arrests among teenagers each week, there are now about 100,000 a week. These are the statistics. They are not nearly as chilling as the story behind them.

In the words of the Post, "The typical teenage shoplifter in the U.S. is a girl (girls outnumber boys by about 20 to 1 in this particular area of crime) . . . she is likely to be 16 years old . . . and her father probably in a business or professional man earning up to $15,000 a year or more. She gets a sizeable allowance and has enough money to buy all she needs." The teenage shoplifter does not think her particular form of theft is a crime, but rather a game. There is no moral understanding of right or wrong. At least part of the blame lies with parents. As a former FBI agent says, "Children learn by example. They see their mothers eating grapes in a supermarket without paying for them, or slipping sticks of butter into a margarine carton before going to the checking counter, and they develop the philosophy that it's all right to steal from a big, rich organization because nobody misses it. Then they hear Dad at home bragging about cheating his company on his expense account and the government on his income tax return. They're taught from childhood that anything's o[illegible] just so long as you don't get caught."

So now merchants in many areas of the country are cooperating with police by prosecuting all offenders. They are also endeavoring to make their stores less vulnerable to would-be shoplifters. Several communities have educational campaigns to show the tragic consequences of petty thievery. Davidson cites the case of a 17-year-old physician's daughter who shoplifted a two-dollar costume jewelry brooch. The girl wants to become a lawyer but her police record may keep her out of college and prevent her from getting a good job.

An educational pamphlet entitled, "Teenagers Beware: Shoplifting Is A Crime," tells how a boy was denied entrance to Annapolis because a military security check revealed his conviction for stealing three cases of soda pop. Also how with a police record it can be difficult, in some cases impossible, to go into any business or profession where a special license is required, such as law or real estate brokerage.

There will be some folks who will see no connection between the Post story on shoplifting and the riots and looting, but there are many who will recognize the symptoms of a social ailment that has nothing to do with poverty.

ST. LOUIS WARD SUPPORT GOING UP IN COST

If stories coming out of St. Louis, written by knowledgeable reporters, are correct, this years Democratic Senatorial primary race may surpass all previous ones in amounts of money spent. The reports claim that in some St. Louis wards the leaders are demanding $10,000 to $15,000 as the price of support of a candidate. It has been customary for a candidate to supply $1,500 to $2,000 in some wards to pay campaign costs, but no such figures as these have ever before been suggested. If such amounts are paid by any candidate for the nomination, it's a fairly sure thing that much of it will go into the pickets of the leaders instead of into legitimate campaign expenses..

Fortunately for those in Monroe County and elsewhere in the state who support Tom Eagleton for the nomination, his name has not even been mentioned in connection with these proposed large payments -- neither Eagleton nor his supporters can afford it, and we don't believe Eagleton would attempt to buy votes that way even if he could afford to do so.

It will be a sad state of affairs in Missouri if it comes to the point where the candidate with the most money and often the fewest qualifications -- gets the nomination. That's another reason most Monroe Countians are for Eagleton. They want to nominate a man because of his ability, not money.

A FLIGHT FROM REALITY

In this Presidential election year, it is almost incredible that neither party's candidates and the public are showing concern towards what should be a major campaign issue—America's declining military strength relative to Russia's.

There is a lot of oratory about ending the Vietnam war and about the need for avoiding such entanglements in the future. But the announced candidates have had very little to say so far about the Soviet Union's determined drive for strategic superiority and what this may portend for the future security of this country and its closest allies.

The Presidential aspirants, it appears, are convinced that the American people don't want to hear about it. If this signifies an illusion that we can retreat to a "fortress America" while allowing the fortress itself to deteriorate, then we are truly engaged in a national flight from reality.

The basic facts are plain enough. During the last three years, while we have been concentrated on Vietnam, the Russians have pursued a crash program of missile-building. They have more than doubled their stock of inter-continental ballistic missiles in the past 18 months, according to informed sources. Thus, whereas, the U.S. has enjoyed as 3-to-1 lead as recently as 1966, Russia is now expected to surpass us in long-range, land-based missiles some time next year.

The Pentagon notes that we are still ahead in deliverable warheads, when bombers and submarine-fired missiles are taken into account. But the Soviet armaments industry continues to produce new bombers. Polaris-type missiles have been developed, and Russian installation of an anti-missile system is far ahead of our own.

In addition, the Kremlin has developed and tested an orbital missile which can be fired from space.

Our own strategic weapons programs, meanwhile, have starved for funds as part of the budget squeeze brought on by heavy spending for Vietnam.

The fact is that the emerging Soviet threat to the United States and the Free World is, by any standard, as serious as the one posed ten years ago by the first generation of Soviet missiles.

Defense officials are confident that the United States can stay ahead—but not without heavy investments, which, of course, must compete with demands for higher spending to alleviate poverty and the like.

National security may not get its share, even after the war in Vietnam ends, unless national leaders speak up on the subject. But the ominous Soviet build-up has been given surprisingly little public attention by any of our Presidential candidates.

Possibly the people don't want to hear about a subject so dire to our personal safety, for there appears to be no sense of national urgency as yet.

But we cannot afford to stick our heads in the sand and hope to avoid a national defense problem, and Presidential candidates should lay the facts on the line.

NEW YORK (AP) — What's the use of being middle-aged if you can't brag about it?

Oddly enough, some people can't. They take their entrance into the middle years of life as a defeat rather than a victory, as a kind of dead end rather than as just another interesting corridor.

Others retreat into pretense and try to hide the fact they are middle-aged. Trying to hide middle age is like trying to smuggle an elephant through a subway turnstile. It isn't an easy thing to do, and it can be very wearing on the spirit.

If you are middle-aged and are trying to disguise it, you must limit your conduct in many careful ways. For example you can't—

T'AIN'T FUNNY, MCGEE

Americans have always had a soft spot in their hearts for performers who worked in teams, Fibber McGee and Molly, Weber and Fields, Amos and Andy, Laurel and Hardy, and others too numerous to mention. This friendly feeling is not being extended to another team of performers who operate on the Justice Department circuit. On three different occasions that we know about this team of Turner and Spivack, which rehearses in the Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department, has treated weary company executives to singularly unfunny and ham-handed performances. Recently they hammed-it-up real good down in Texas, and that one has left the audience of businessmen from Texas to Maine wondering when The Boss will give them the hook.

Everyone knows that The Boss doesn't like to see anyone acting up down Texas way in a manner that might prove offensive to the neighbors. And the Turner and Spivack team did just that in one of the finales for which they have become noted. On this occasion, just as a Houston bank merger was about to be completed, the Anti-Trust team came screeching into court with a chorus of "Stop the merger!"

That ain't funny, son, especially down in Texas where banking is on a plane with home and mother. Indeed, you might say that Turner and Spivack suffered a political prattfall as a result of that show. They splattered the President's image among the homefolks.

This followed at least two other public appearances of the team which received a lot of publicity, but neither rave reviews nor loud acclaim. One of these routines dealt with advertising, and the script called for having the Justice Department tell American companies how much they'd be allowed to spend for newspaper space, TV commercials, etc. You can imagine how businessmen applauded that proposal.

Then they got up another routine, this one a real cliffhanger. After months of investigation and hearings, International Telephone and Telegraph and the American Broadcasting Company were told by the FCC that they could merge. Turner and Spivack rushed onstage as the curtain was coming down and said they couldn't do any such thing. And this proved to be a real show-stopper — in reverse.

NO SPECTATOR SPORT

Saving freedom is not a spectator sport. If Republic USA is to survive, it will be because courageous Americans of all ages are willing to pit their strength against the anti-freedom conspiracy. That is the only way.

Active patriotism is a road open to every citizen who believes in the principles so forcefully stated by the Founders of Freedom. Indifference can result in the loss of all that we cherish most.

For a long time freedom's enemies have been able to advance their cause by creating an atmosphere in which everyday Americans were made to feel that there was something not quite right about patriotism. But now a change is taking place.

The enthusiastic reception given young people involved in the speading Youth Freedom Speakers movement shows that the public will pay attention to freedom messages and constructive leadership. More and more patriots are speaking their minds in the "Letters to the Editor" columns of daily newspapers. Customers of business are taking the trouble to commend commercial firms that use patriotism in their advertising. Pro-freedom books are finding a larger audience than ever before.

These are good signs that patriotism is in fact bringing about a turn to the right in America. This patriotism means love of one's own country without hating any other. Constructive citizens have neither heart nor time for hate. There is too much to be done on the positive side to waste time on hate. Active patriots, who understand that saving freedom is not a spectator sport, are our hope for the future. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - The senate's most idefatigable sightseer, 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has worked out a unique scheme for letting the taxpayers pay for his amateur movies.

Ellender totes a movie camera around the world and takes dozens of reels for the wonderment of those at home who, out of respect for his senate seniority, let themselves be collared into attending his illustrated lectures. He also packs a supply of little black notebooks, in which he jots his most trivial impressions, later to be published at the taxpayers' expense as official senate reports.

It had always been thought that Ellender's movie-making was a personal hobby paid out of his own picket. But the secret has now leaked out that the taxpayers also help foot the bill for "Ellender's productions."

As senate agriculture chairman, Ellender has enormous influence over the destiny of the agriculture department. It may not be altogether surprising, therefore, that one of the agriculture department's unmentioned services for the nation's farmers is to process Ellender's movies.

The agriculture department splices Ellender's fascinating footage, and adds a sound track featuring the voice of none other than Allen Ellender narrating his own travelogue. For three films this has now cost the taxpayers $20,687.

The agriculture department is prohibited from doing work for individuals, so Ellender arranged for the department to bill the senate recording studio. This is a technicality which saves the taxpayers exactly nothing.

Ellender's first effort to make a travelogue out of his home movies, back in 1963, cost the taxpayers $7,840. The taxpayers paid $11,000 last year for a lengthier Ellender production. And he has just completed a short documentary of his latest trip for $1,847. He expropriated the senate caucus room the other day for a preview, which was attended by dutiful senate employees, a few senators who couldn't think of an alibi and one or two devoted Ellender fans.

Note: The main attractions in Ellender's travelogues, according to first nighters, are sceneu of native markets.

--NEW PROTECTION IN MIAMI--

The shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy in a crowded hotel has caused secret security reappraisals at the Miami Beach hotels where the Republican candidates will be staying. Both the Hilton Plaza hotel, where Richard Nixon has reservations, and the Americana hotel, where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will stay, have arranged elaborate new security precautions. The entire floors where the candidates' rooms are located will be sealed off. Both hotels have also given their employees a thorough new screening since the Kennedy assassination.

--CONGRESSIONAL VACATIONS--

Members of congress are about to take a month off from their $30,000 jobs at the busiest time of the year, to head for Miami and Chicago. This, however, is only part of the vacation schedule.

What most people don't know is that senators and congressmen are absent from Washington much of the time -- for holidays, long weekends and foreign junkets at the taxpayers' expense. The only group which does more vacationing is the international "jet set."

Industrious members object to the gold-bricking, which has become a way of life to most of their senior colleagues. Hard-working, young Reps. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., and Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, circulated a petition some time back for a five-day work week. They got nowhere. Scheuer and Mink wanted to outlaw the "Tuesday-Thursday club," whose members, chiefly from New York and the east, leave town on Thursday and return Tuesday.

Result is that work which should be done early in the year piles up near adjournment. Senate and house members are now complaining about the backlog of legislation that is holding up adjournment. But the truth is that they themselves created the backlog by neglecting their duties earlier in this session.

Official holidays, as distinct from long weekends, begin in February, with Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Many go home again for the Jefferson-Jackson day dinners in the spring. Then there is Easter, when congress takes a recess, followed by a long weekend on Memorial Day and another on the Fourth of July.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, who foot the bills for all this, the political conventions, which bring the longest vacation of all, occur only once every four years.

--HHH'S EMPTY CHEST--

Lack of campaign funds has slowed down Hubert Humphrey's campaign for President. He was unable to come up with the down payment that his New York advertising agency, Doyle, Dane & Bernbach, had required to start an advertising barrage. As a result, the campaign is already three weeks behind schedule.

At first, the money poured into Humphrey's campaign chest, largely from businessmen who were afraid of Robert Kennedy and not enthusiastic about Richard Nixon. Since Kennedy's death this money has dried up. Businessmen are bank-rolling Rockefeller instead.

Humprhey's treasurer, Sidney Weinberg, who raised funds for the Eisenhower campaign and is now supposed to be tapping Wall Street for Humphrey, is coming up almost empty-handed.

Incidentally, Humphrey has told friends that he definitely intends to speak to Sen. Ted Kennedy about the vice presidential nomination. Humphrey didn't want to rush matters after Bobby's death. But the vice president is on warm terms with Ted Kennedy and thinks Kennedy would add the most strength to his ticket. The man he would really prefer as his running mate, however, is Sen. Ed. Muskie of Maine.

BACK TO STALIN

Soviets Building New Network Of Forced Labor Concentration Camps

Prague: -- Even with someone from the underground, it is an easy drive now from the intrigue-laden Hotel Yalta here to the shoddy square in Pilsen for good beer, and a run back to a midpoint rendezvous at the site of the Czech version of a hot dog stand.

In my picket were several copies of an AFL-CIO document containing a map of the Soviet Union, on which are pinpointed today's forced labor camps. Actually these are old-fashioned stalags, prototypes of the Nazi-Soviet political concentration camps of the '30s.

There are 56 of these concentration camps. Inside, guarded by the Soviet secret police, are men, women and children from the Baltic states and Middle and Eastern Europe, and "enemies of the state."

I wanted to show this map to a chap who had been inside the Soviet Union, and had traveled considerably through Siberia and, later, into Communist China. He must stay anonymous, but to pinpoint him just as far as is safe, he is a Frenchman in the heavy transport industry.

He corroborated the existence of most of the 56 slave labor camps, including the most notorious and heavily reported one at Vorkuta which many of us thought had faded into history with Nicolai Lenin.

There are camps where the political prisoners work at skilled trades. There are installations from which the faceless Orwellian non-people are dispatched to build airports, roads, hack at quarries, make cement and dig tunnels.

There are camps from which no one returns.

To all of these camps go political offenders as well as those charged with "hooliganism." The more important and better known personalities are kept in the big cities, however, as inmates of mental institutions.

The Moscow politburo no longer goes in for the old-fashioned heavy concentrations of prisoners, or the Stalin-era torturers of old Lubianka prison. Most of the concentration camps now have anywhere from 3,000 to 8,000 men, women and children.

The AFL-CIO's current mapping of these concentration camps updates an old chart which some of us tried to hand former Foreign Minister (now non-person) V. Moloto who contrived the Nazi-Soviet pact.

The original slave camp map was handed to him at the UN for comment years ago. This was the second time he merely threw the document to the floor as though it were a broadside by Thomas Jefferson.

Now this map is available to Kosygin and Brezhnev. It was mailed to them.

The first map was presented to the United Nations which investigated as best it could and finally condemned the USSR for its slave compounds in this 20th century.

Then in 1956, after Nikita Khruschev denounced Stalin's sadism at the Soviet party's 20th Congress, the Soviet Union began reducing the number of forced labor camps, "largely because they were uneconomical, and some of the inmates who were technically skilled were badly needed in speeding the development of Soviet economy, particultarly in arms production," says the AFL-CIO Free Trade Union Committee.

But in the past few years Khrushchev's "light" hand was replaced by the heavy fist of the Soviet Communist Party's Stalin-worshipping traditionalists.

Intellecturals have been persecuted and incarcerated in mental institutions. Minority nationals have been deprived of rights and dispatched to the concentration camps.

Dissident workers, taking seriously the talk of civil rights and freedom of action in the factories, also are shifted to the Eastern slave camps.

Most of these prisoners are sentenced under the July 26, 1966 decree known as "Increased Liability for Hooliganism."

To implement the decree the Soviets created a central "United Republican (federal) Ministry for the Preservation of Public Order." This, too, was set up on July 26, 1966.

Previously, each of the 15 Soviet Socialist Republics had it own security ministry. But on July 26 this police power again was centralized in the Kremlin as in Stalin's day.

There just is no doubt of the existence of these concentration camps as we race towards Orwell's 1984. The AFL-CIO's map proves this. And just to pick a few which the Soviets can open to newsmen, let me point out:

There are the Lumbovka Main Campsites Two and Three, and Lumbovka's Transient Camps (subcamps). Here, imprisoned Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Germans and Russians number some 8,000 including women and children. Here the prisoners mine precious metals, work on aircraft parts and construct roads.

There is Saborovo (this name may have been changed recently), with about 5,000 worker-prisoners. Here are Poles, Russians and a few Germans. They mine precious metals, build houses and roads.

There is Lebmorskaia, and several other sites under the same name. There are about 3,000 in each concentration camp in this grouping. They are moved out to build factories, airfields, railroads and roads, drill for oil and dig canals.

At Berezniki there is a heavy industry concentration worked by thousands of Poles, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians and Germans. Major product is heavy machinery.

And at Uka, there are some 6,000 Poles, Hungarians, Rumanians, Bulgarians, Germans and Russians.

What distinguishes this Soviet contribution to contemporary civilization is the fact that at Uka the prisoners are predominantly women.

The map is available. Have ticket. Will travel. All the orators and critics in the Kremlin need do is to permit some public inspection. Then we all will know that they have moved out of the 15th century.

A Scramble tournament for members of the Sikeston Golf Association will be held at the Country Club tomorrow.

Registration must be made before teeoff at 5:15 p.m. at the pro shop.

A meeting in hopes of forming a SEMO duck hunting association is set for 8:30 p.m.Thursday at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building in Cape Girardeau.

A retriever trial meet will be held Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the Marquette Cement Lakes near Cape Girardeau.

Everyone is invited to attend, whether they want to run their dogs or view the trial.

Allen Blanton and Bernard Rice, brothers-in-law, made away with the prizes over the weekend during the Missouri Press Association golf tournamanet.

Bernard won first place in class B while Allen took the trophy with the disgusted golfer breaking his club over his knee for the second straight year.

Here comes the judge....Sickal that is.

Judge James Sickal, won fourth place in class D of Sunday's invitational at the Country Club.

Walt Hazzard, seventh — leading scorer in the National Basketball Association last season, signed a new one-year contract with the Seattle Supersonics Monday.

Maris Makes Presence Felt

ST. LOUIS AP - Everybody is trying to retire Roger Maris and the Philadelphia Phillies are having as tough a time as the sports writers trying to do it.

Maris is roaming around right field for the St. Louis Cardinals again after watching several games from the bench. And he's doing the big job at the plate again, too. He did it Tuesday night with a pair of doubles that drove in four runs in three innings as the Cardinals trounced the Phillies 11-5.

"I see it a lot and I'm aware of it," Maris admitted, "but I don't pay much attention to it. It's been all speculation so far and as long as I put on this uniform I have to do the best I can."

Among his best was a two - run double in the first inning as the Cardinals scored five runs off starter Rick Wise, 6-7. The Cards collected an unearned run in the second, then four more runs the next inning. Maris had another two - run double in the third.

The 33-year-old outfielder has a beer distributorship and a comforable future to look forward to, and he's aware some people believe he's dogging it.

"Every dog has his day," Roger grinned.

"That's one thing I don't want to have happen," Maris said quietly. "I don't want to look bad. No one ever goes out there to look bad. You give it the best you can and sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't."

It was working pretty good for Orlando Cepeda also. The Cardinal first baseman was pulled out for a pinch hitter the night before, the first time it's even happened to him. And he wasn't supposed to play Tuesday night but he was in the line-up.

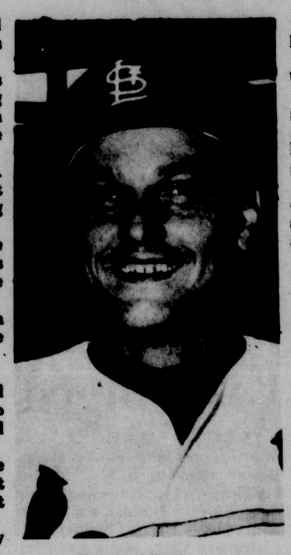

Cepeda had two hits and scored three runs to help winner Larry Jaster, 8-5, and Dick Hughes, who worked the last four innings.

"I didn't have to tell him Manager Red Schoendienst I wanted to play," Orlando said. "I was going to, but I saw my name was in the line - up."

Cepeda admittedly has had a bad time of it at the plate lately. Schoendienst was going to rest him, but Orlando said he doesn't need any rest.

"I felt great tonight," Orlando said. "I was tired last week. I felt good last night Monday too."

Roger Maris

"I don't have any patience, I'm rushing. Unusually, when I go up to the plate I challenge anybody."

Jaster was rapped for all of Philly's runs, but he wasn't about to give back the victory.

"I'll take it," the Cardinals' quiet man said. "They beat me 1-0 last time I faced them, so I'll take this one. My control wasn't good. Everything was either up or not in a good spot."

Tony Gonzales drove in two runs off Jaster and Roberto Pena drove another pair. But when Rick Joseph hit a pinch hit homer to start the sixth that was it for Jaster. Dick Hughes held Philadelphia scoreless the rest of the way.

"I felt a little strange," Hughes laughed. "I'm usually good when I have my control. This time I was lucky to throw the ball where I wanted 50 per cent of the time."

Phillies' Manager Bob Skinner said it was just another case of his pitching not holding up. The hitting, he said, has been pretty consistent.

Grier Calls It Quits

By The Associated Press

A Los Angeles Rams' spokesman said Tuesday the 36-yearold Grier, a defensive tackle for 11 National Football League seasons, has retired to devote his time to show business.

When McDowell, an offensive tackle who was the Miami Dolphins' ninth-round draft choice, signed his contract, it was stipulated that he report to camp

McDowell reported Tuesday, stepped on the scales and the needle bounced to the maximum 350 pounds. His total weight could be only estimated.

He was held out of the American Football League's first fullscale workout, and Joe Thomas, director of player personnel, said a decision on McDowell's status would be made shortly.

In a National Football League trade Tuesday, the Dallas Cowboys acquired kicker Mike Clark from the Pittsburgh Steelers for an undisclosed draft choice. Clark is expected to fill a vacancy created when Danny Villanueva retired last week.

Defensive safety Jerry Richardson quit the Atlanta Falcons and defensive tackle Dennis Randall left the New York Jets' camp.

Officials of the NFL Falcons said Richardson quit when his demand for a three-game guarantee for the 1968 season was refused. Richardson needed to be activated for at least three more games to be eligible for a five-year NFL pension.

A spokesman for the AFL Jets said he didn't expect Randall to return. Club officials said he was unhappy and had several business opportunities.

Tackle John Johnson, a fiveyear NFL veteran, and rookie halfback Gary Lyle still had not reported to the Chicago Bears' camp, and Coach Jim Dooley said each would be fined $250 for every day they are absent.

Dooley also announced that defensive back Roosevelt Taylor had signed.

And George Halas Jr. announced the Bears are willing to trade defensive back Richie Pettibon to New Orleans for the Saints' No. 1 draft pick. Pettibon recently announced he would retire if not traded to the Saints because he cannot leave New Orleans for business reasons.

Veterans John Wooten and Ross Fichtner, put on waivers by Cleveland recently after stories broke concerning an alleged racial slight, became free agents after no other NFL club claimed them. Wooten, a guard, is a Negro. Defensive back Fichtner is white.

Girl Arrested With $1,400 From LSD Sales

OLIVETTE, Mo. (AP) — Police reported Thursday they arrested a 16-year-old girl and seized $1,400 in a shoe box which she said she made selling LSD and other drugs to high school students in Ladue, Olivette and other well-to-do high schools in west St. Louis County.

The girl was booked suspected of violating the juvenile code by sale of stimulant drugs. Her name was withheld.

Two officers said they saw a youth, who agreed to work with them in the case, receive an amphetamine capsule which the girl handed out her bedroom window. The sale was approved by telephone. The youth gave her two marked $5 bills.

The girl told officers she made the money during the last three weeks selling drugs. Police said she admitted obtaining the drugs from a man she met through a student at Washington University.

She said she paid the man $350 for 100 capsules of LSD, sending him a portion of the payment at an address in Oakland, Calif.

Police said they have been investigating reports of drug sales in the area for the last seven months.

MRS. WILLIAM POPE, 115 South Martin, East Prairie, arranges potato dumplings around sauerbraten.

Mrs. William Pope, East Prairie, Sews, Gardens

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 96th in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By RUTH DILLENDER

Mrs. Pope and her husband, William, have two sons, Billy, a graduate of Murray State University, Murray, Ky., and Tommy, who will be a senior at East Prairie high school this fall. The younger son is a member of the band, madrigal singers and mixed chorus. He served Boy Scout camp counselor last summer.

Pope ownes Pope Motor Sales. The family lives at 115 South Martin.

Mrs. Pope says her hobbies are gardening, reading, sewing and painting. She grows flowers and vegetables.

She is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Women's Improvement club.

The family attends Nelson Memorial Methodist church.

Receipes Mrs. Pope suggests are:

SAUERBRATEN

3 to 3½ pound boneless beef rump

Heat 1½ cups red wine vinegar and 2½ cups water to boiling. Remove from heat.

In large, deep crock or ovenware glass bowl, combine 2 bay leaves, ½ teaspoon peppercorns, 8 whole cloves, 1 large sliced onion, 1 small minced carrot and 1 stalk chopped celery.

Rub beef thoroughly with 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Place in crock. Pour hot vinegar mixture over beef. Cool. Refrigerate for 24- 48 hours, turning meat at least twice daily.

When ready to cook, remove meat from bowl. Dry with paper towels. Melt about ¼ cup of shortening in Dutch oven or large kettle and brown on all sides. Strain the liquid marinade and pour over meat. Cover tightly and simmer slowly 2½-3 hours or until tender.

Remove from kettle, slice and keep warm while making gingersnap gravy. Serve with the gravy and potato dumplings.

GINGERSNAP GRAVY

Melt 2 tablespoons sugar in skillet, stirring constantly until golden brown. Gradually stir in 1½ cups hot marinade from sauerbraten and ½ cup water. Add ½ cup gingersnap crumbs, about 6-8 gingersnaps. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens. This is a rather thin gravy. If desired, add ½ cup sour cream. Salt to taste. Ladle some oversauerbraten and pass remainder to gravy bowl.

WATERMELON PICKLE

3 cups vinegar
4 cups sugar
1 stick cinnamon, broken small
1 tablespon nutmeg
1 tablespoon mace, whole cloves
3 pounds watermelon rind
2 lemons

Boil vinegar and sugar. Add spices in a cheesecloth bag. Dice the watermelon rind which has been cut with a little of the pink left on. Cook the syrup for a few minutes. Pour over the watermelon and let stand overnight.

Next morning, drain off syrup, boil spices and syrup for a few minutes and again pour over rind. Repeat this for 2 more days. Then boil the rind in syrup for 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, cook 5 minutes and pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

STUFFED WHOLE CABBAGE

1 head cabbage
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup bread crumbs
1 beaten egg
1-1½ cups cooked pork or chicken
Salt and pepper

Cut out the heart of the cabbage. Mix together crumbs, egg and meat and season highly.

Place cabbage in plastic bag to keep leaves in place and place in deep saucepan or kettle. Cover with boiling water. Simmer until cabbage is tender, about ½ hour. Remove from water, take off bag, melt butter on top of cabbage.

Serves six to eight.

CORN SALAD OR RELISH

10 ears corn
1 green pepper
½ red pepper
2 onions
½ teaspoon celery seed
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
1 and one third cups vinegar
1 and one third cups sugar
One third teaspoon turmeric

Select fresh corn, remove from cob and mix with other ingredients. Boil all together, slowly for ½ hour. Seal in sterilized jars.

Zest for Living Keeps Albert on Go

EDITOR'S NOTE — Actor Eddie Albert's public personality at the moment is that of the innocent city sucker being victimized by the country slickers in the CBS comedy series, "Green Acres." Everyone knows, however, that it is merely acting, for in recent months he appeared with an inspirational reading on a variety show or as the narrator of a special "How Life Begins," describing sex for young viewers. Here Albert reveals his serious, offcamera self.

By EDDIE ALBERT

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I don't want to be the biggest star in the entertainment world, and the main reason is that there's so little time. The bigger you are, the more of your time it takes up, and the less time you have to investigate the world around you and its wonders.

In my youth I deliberately set out to become a vagabond and a drifter as part of my growth, but after I'd had my fill I realized that there are more subtle ways of exploring.

Once Burl Ives and I got the urge to see what it was like to be alone in a Mexican desert with a gun, a guitar and two cans of tomato juice. We got lost and came back across the border on Dec. 7, 1941.

My urge for adventure was taken care of for the next two years in the Pacific, where I saw action on Tarawa and came out of the war with spiritual shell shock.

For the past 12 years my major hobby has been horticulture. I practice two techniques, liquid culture and organic gardening. I grow normal and abnormal plants, giving the latter the chemical treatment, and I take special pride in the size and beauty of the flowers.

I get some of the seeds from the research people at Oak Ridge who study the effects of radiation on various substances. The mutations are unpredictable — I never know if I'm going to rear a monster or a marvel.

I read about a trip down the Danube in a canoe, so I flew to Europe and paddled my own canoe over the same route in 1965. I once read a book which sent me on an introspective journey to a tiny island off Nova Scotia to meditate. Unfortunately, I became ill and had to be brought out by oxcart.

I made a film called "Human Growth" which caused some controversy in 1947 because it taught 12-year-olds about sex. It is now something of a classroom classic, I understand, and to my great joy it won a prize at the Venice Film Festival in 1965.

I want to make a film short in which a Catholic boy explains Judaism to a Protestant boy, a Protestant boy explains Catholicism to a Jewish boy and a Jewish boy explains Protestantism to a Catholic boy.

I'd like to take that canoe trip down the Danube again, this time with my son, and stop at Budapest and sing with the Gypsies in Romania.

I want to live to be 100.

Foreign Aid Bill Runs Into Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's foreign aid program, a continuing target of an economy-minded Congress, has suffered another setback.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday refused to restore the nearly $1 billion cut by the House last week from the President's original $2.9 billion request. In fact, the committee trimmed another $22.9 million on its own.

Observers said by the time the overseas proposals get through being worked over in today's committee hearings, future debate on the Senate floor, and certain reduction in separate appropriations bills the program might barely total half of what was asked.

The foreign assistance program has been in increasing difficulties since a year ago when Congress first demanded multibillion-dollar spending cuts in return for passage of the President's 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has predicted the money bill may be $400 million under the authorization an ultimate appropriation of less than $1.6 billion.

The authorization measure sets policy and money ceilings. The appropriations bill fixes the amount that may actually be spent.

A combination of factors has sent the aid program to its lowest level in its 21-year history.

It has its longtime critics who have termed it a giveaway that made no friends for this country.

They have been joined in recent years by former supporters who now oppose the program to register opposition to the Vietnam war and its costs. The bill contains substantial amounts for the civilian economy of Vietnam, but the major war costs are in the Defense Department budget.

Thompson Cited for Vietnam Service

FORT ORD, Calif. -- Major Joseph E. Thompson Jr., son of Mrs. Leon Payne, 619 Greer, Sikeston, Mo., and Joseph E. Thompson Sr. of Morehouse, Mo., received the bronze star medal and the air medal for meritorious service. He is an army 4th Brigade executive officer.

Major Thompson served with the 5th special forces in Vietnam from November of 1966 to November of 1967. He was cited for "his rapid assessment and solution of numberous problems inherent in a counter - insurgency environment.

From January of 1967 to May of 1967, Major Thompson participated in more than 25 aerial missions.

Thompson was reared in the Morehouse area. He has been in the service 19 years.

A LOT OF BOATS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — There are 200,000 registered pleasure boats in Florida, according to John T. Lowe, member of the Jacksonville-Duval County Recreation Planning Committee.

At present there is no age limit in Florida for owning or piloting a boat. All boats must be registered with the State Board of Conservation and are required to display the registration number at all times.

Otto Richmond, 87, a retired farmer, suffered a heart attack late Saturday at his home. He was taken by ambulance Saturday to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau and placed in the intensive care unit. He is responding to treatment.

RAY CROMLEY

Do-It-Yourself Path Leads Young to Self-Reliance

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A short time back a young college student approached a friend of mine with these astounding words:

"You were lucky. You grew up in the depression. You had a challenge that we don't have."

We have concentrated on giving our children knowledge. We have made certain they have had the educational, recreational and cultural opportunities we did not have. We have given them the best medical care in history. We have sheltered them from rough knocks, struggle and defeats.

Yet a number of young people this reporter knows believe they have been cheated by these advantages their parents struggled so hard to give them.

They feel they haven't had the opportunity of fending for themselves.

This reporter's three-year-old son doesn't want people doing things for him. He wants to do everything for himself, even when he falls flat on his face in the attempt.

When he succeeds, his face lights up with a look what's wonderful to behold. When he can't make it, he cries and shouts in frustration, but keeps on trying and continues to push away impatiently, even angrily, any sympathetic adult or child who wants to help him.

He gets a great deal more satisfaction out of what he does himself, even if he does it poorly, than anything his father does for him.

This is typical of three-year-olds. It is also typical of those five, eight, 10, 15, 19, 28, 35, 58 and 76-year-old who haven't been smothered by people who wanted, out of love and kindness, to do things for them they could have done for themselves, in order to save them bruises, worries, heartaches and failures.

Many young people have told me they have no confidence in themselves; so much has been done for them, and their heads so cleared of bumps, that they aren't sure of what they will be able to do when they have to do it alone.

Defeats, failures, responsibilities and rough goes are crucial to men and women. Books and higher education are very important things. Without them, our civilization would die. But they are no substitute for failing on your face when trying to do something on your own.

Even Mao Tse-tung has seen this on the other side of the world. The problem with Red China's youth, he says, is that they haven't had to struggle as did the young people in his revolutionary days.

Senate Hikes Aid for Air Congestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve air congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety, it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $363.4 million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to come in.

The traffic jams, which have will be necessary if the measure is to go into effect before fall since Congress takes a break for much of August due to the national political conventions.

In a related development, FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Oranization, a new union, to discuss the air tieups.

F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the union, said after the session his organization would seek meetings with industry and other interested parties this week to talk over immediate steps to end the problem.

Also, FAA administrator William F. McKee said a three-day meeting, starting today, would consider proposals on ways to relieve the congestion.

The bill was $153 million higher than a measure passed previously by the House and its sponsors said the extra money would allow the hiring of some 1,627 air-traffic controllers. The House bill allowed for only 1,631.

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an overall $1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 32 to 2. Only Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., dissented.

An informed Senate source said he expects the House will agree to much, if not all, the increases in the Senate bill.

Quick action in the House you suggest we stand in ranks as the British did or perhaps a large bomb on innocent people.

I know why I'm here. To help in a small part to preserve the life of our young Americans, the people who desire peace, want peace and live in terror and hell, and also our allies who are assisting. If a person isn't capable of helping himself. He wants help. This is Viet Nam. Have you ever been nauseated to see children with their heads missing. Put yourself, Mr. Greer in their father's place, where you have your own. My suggestion is as the younger set would say, "Come to where the active is and judge for yourself.

I'm sorry, I can't land you my helmet or flak fragmentation jacket. They're my pajamas. However, I'll save a place in the bunker for you, provided your fast enough to get there.

To all at home, God Bless and pray for Peace.

I to am an American and a Missourian.

Sincerely,
Jim Walls
HM1 U. S. Navy.

Dear Colonel Blanton,

This is forwarded in reference to an article written by a young Mr. Greer of Chaffee on July 20, 1968 concerning his points of political interest. His thinking is to be commended, however logic sometimes overpowers radical thinking.

Gun legislation would be wonderful, but let us also consider the criminal - minded person who doesn't adhere to the laws of the land. What protection would you have if a person with criminal intentions tried to enter your home forcefully? Legal relinquishment of fire arms places a frying pan in your hand a loaded revolver and a sick mind.

Also the sport of hunting is to be considered. Knowing a fire - arm is available, places rest into the first laws of nature. Self - preservation and remembering the old perable "Guns don't kill people - People kill people."

Each individual has opinion on civil rights. And that is exactly where correction and self - improvement should begin. The individual.

Mass involvements create a confusion of class. Therefore corrective discussion and decision begin in the township, and city, according to the problems.

Where there is a will, there is a way. I might add, here I don't hold a man and his ways to the color of his skin. In fact, a black face in Viet Nam is helpful on night patrols of your caucasian. Now why can't we live together in harmony at home.

In view of the United Nations, its still a place of communication to foreign powers and where no communication exist. Problems follow.

When I was eighteen, I was beginning to make own way of life on my own. I was a time of learning. I firmly believe that at voting at eighteen would be more personality than fact. True college service and working enter the picture, but the "green" is still there.

I personally don't know any eighteen year olds, who were forced into the service, they freely of their own decision entered voluntarily. They die because it's God's will. This is the supreme sacrifice for peace. When fighting in another's backyard, his environment and tactics prevail. Mr. Greer, do

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have a lovely, new, taffeta slip but it rustles every time I take a step. I wonder if any of the readers can tell me how to eliminate this rustle.—LAURA

DEAR POLLY—Last winter, when I got on a bus downtown to go home, I discovered my wallet was missing. The gentleman ahead of me saw my plight and paid my bus fare. Between that time and the next morning, I could call the store where I had been, I kept thinking about how many things are in a wallet that must be replaced or might be used by others. Aside from $24 in mine, there were credit cards, driver's license, I.D. card (my husband is overseas and this would present difficulties) and other valuables and necessities. It dawned on me that one is very foolish to keep everything together in one wallet. I took the card case out of my wallet and put it in the zipper compartment in my purse, large bills were put in a money clip and then in the zipper compartment. My wallet now holds only change and small bills and I feel much safer about the situation. By the way, some honest person returned my wallet completely intact. —WANDA

DEAR WANDA— As an added precaution, you might try what one of my sons recently suggested to me and that was to copy the numbers and names of all credit cards you carry and have the list safely put away at home so time would be saved when reporting such a loss and none would be overlooked.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—How about the following message to mothers who take children to the beauty shop: "Ladies, please remember you are in a shop of beauty/So kindly do your duty. Before the children begin to jump and hop/Make them STOP, STOP, STOP."—BESSIE

DEAR POLLY—My son in Vietnam was always writing some for stationery. He often had to borrow paper from a buddy. I solved this by enclosing some in each of the three letters I write him each week and there have been no more requests.—ETHEL

Broiled Chicken Patties Become Colorful Choice

Green, the most restful color to the eye, is one of the most appetite-whetting colors also. During the summer months, many green vegetables are readily available to enhance main dishes. One entree particularly appealing for such warm-weather serving is Broiled Chicken Patties framed with asparagus.

The patties are light in texture because of the addition of Sunshine Krispy Crackers and because they are broiled, rather than fried. And happy is the homemaker who can include nourishing hot dishes on summer menus with the blessing of only eight minutes' cooking time! As if these plusses weren't enough, the cook's shelf of quick foods can turn up cans of the necessary chicken on a moment's inspiration.

A tossed salad will complement as well as nourish. Watch your family and friends respond to your attention to both the taste palate and the artist's pallette!

Broiled Chicken Patties

6 double Krispy Crackers
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups ground or finely minced cooked chicken*
½ cup light cream
1 egg yolk beaten
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced parsley
½ cup melted butter (about)

Crush crackers into fine crumbs between two sheets of waxed paper. Mix with salt and pepper and set aside. Blend remaining ingredients together, except butter, and work in prepared crumbs. Shape into four patties about ½ to ¾ inch thick. Place on broiler rack and brush tops with butter. Brown about 3 inches from the broiler preheated to 450 F. for about 4 minutes. Turn, butter other side and finish browning, during another 4 minutes. Serve with asparagus and a tossed salad.

Yield: 4 servings.

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

CUTTING FEDERAL SPENDING -- In several talks in the Senate recently, I have presented the need for this Administration to come up to the reality of our growing economic problems.

It is no secret now that we are currently running at a budgetary deficit for this year of over $20 billion.

Nor is it any secret that our balance of payments situation, on the downgrade for a great many years, continues to deteriorate.

This first priority decision for the new Administration that comes into office some six months from now will be to bring our governmental financial commitments at home and abroad into some reasonable line with our financial capacity. This can be much less difficult for the next President if we in the Congress act now by expressing some financial responsibility.

NON-PROLIFERATION TREATY -- The Secretary of State and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were among the first witnesses heard this past week as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee began hearings on the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. Recently signed by the United States, this Treaty is subject to the advice and consent of the Senate.

In broad terms, the international agreement is designed to help stop the spread of nuclear weapons to nations which do not have them now; also to assure that such nations will benefit from the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

The Treaty provides a system for safeguards on the peaceful nuclear activities so as to assure that nuclear materials are not diverted to weapons. In other provisions, nuclear state signatories affirm their intention to work for agreements on arms control and disarmament.

Fifty-six other nations have already signed the Treaty, including the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom.

POULTRY INSPECTION -- The Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a Housepassed poultry inspection bill similar to the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967. Federal assistance would be provided to states to help assure minimum poultry inspection of poultry in interstate markets.

In states not meeting these standards in two years, Federal inspection laws would apply directly to plants processing poultry for distribution within the states.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION AMENDMENTS -- The Senate has approved a $2.6 billion four-year program designed to broaden assistance for vocational assistance. The House had previously passed a $1.3 billion, two-year plan, and differences must now be worked out in a joint conference between the two chambers.

The measure would authorize funds for State grant programs, research in vocational education, exemplary vocation education programs and homemaking education.

HEAD START TRANSFER -- An amendment approved by the Senate would transfer the Head Start program from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Office of Education, effective July 1, 1969.

The Senate also voted $50 million a year authorization for two years in emergency funds for free - or reduced-price meals for needy children, just half the amount previously voted by the House.

GREASED-POLE climbing calls for inventiveness if you're to succeed. This fellow uses a shirt to wipe the pole and a spread-legged technique to boost himself upward.

Coworkers Learn to Talk To Deaf Employe by Signs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The the photogrammetric engineering office this spring.

That's because many of the employes are clustered in a corner ta[illegible] in sign language. [illegible] is a deaf mute and has to talk with his hands, but the others are learning just so they can communicate with Miller.

"It just sort of happened said Derald Sarratt, unit supervisor. "Actually, sign language isn't as difficult as I thought it would be. We're still slow at it, of course, but we're learning."

He's a cartographic draftsman and etches maps on film for reproduction, a process called scribing.

At first others in the office communicated with Miller by writing notes.

"Then one day I noticed he he had a book that looked interesting, and I asked him about it," said Linda Farr, a petite 20-year-old coworker.

"I got tired of writing notes, and anyway my writing isn't the easiest thing to read. So he showed me this card with the alphabet in sign language. I finally got the nerve to try it, and pretty soon the others were doing it, too."

The others say Linda is the best in the office at sign language--besides Miller--but she claims she's still pretty clumsy.

From simple alphabetical signs, the government employes are progressing to hand symbols which translate into whole words or phrases.

"Making sign language is one thing," Sarratt reported, "and reading it is something else. Everything is backward to the person watching, and you have to get used to it."

By now most of the office force can ask Miller simple questions and give brief replies to his queries. Carl Moore and Willie Godfrey at nearby desks even try an occasional joke in sign language.

"It's unbelievable that the whole unit is making such an effort," Miller wrote in reply to a question. "Usually you'll find maybe one or two interested-but not everyone."

Sarratt added Miller is quick to grasp a colleague's intent and often anticipates a question or statement before the coworker finishes laboriously spelling it out on his fingers.

"It's kind of deflating when I get all wound up to spell out a sentence, and halfway through Johnny's already nodding to show he understands," the supervisor chuckled.

Miller's fellow employes shrug off expressions of amazement that an entire office force would learn sign language to communicate with one person.

"It shouldn't be so unusal," said Miss Farr. "We just think enough of him to do it, that's all."

DANCE THERAPY

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — New techniques in dance therapy for the handicapped were taught to visiting teachers and nurses from all over the nation in the first clinic of its kind, held at the University of Dayton.

Students attending the three-day session will initiate or strengthen dance therapy programs in their community. At the clinic, they learned dancing techniques for deaf, blind and retarded people and those with cerebral palsy.

Kirkpatrick Only Unopposed Candidate

JEFFERSON CITY -- Unusual, but not unprecedented.

That is Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick's situation as the only unopposed candidate for state elective office in the 1968 Democratic primary.

Since the direct primary election came into being in Missouri in 1908, 17 candidates have reached this status. In baseball terms, this is 17- for 96, if the opportunities can be called times at bat.

Auditor Haskell Holman wears the triple crown, having been unopposed in 1954, 1958 and 1962. Doubles have been hit by the late Forrest Smith, who was unopposed as auditor in 1932 and 1944, and the late Walter Toberman, secretary of state, in 1952 and 1956.

The real world series year was 1936, when Frank Harris for lieutenant - governor, Bob Winn for treasurer, Dwight Brown for secretary of state and Roy McKittrick for attorney general all went through the primary without opposition. This was the year when a candidate had little chance unless he carried the endorsement of the late Tom Pendergast of Kansas City.

Others who have "soloed" to Democratic nominations were the late James T. Blair, Jr., for lieutenant - governor in 1948, J. E. Taylor for attorney general in the same year, and M. E. Morris for treasurer in 1956.

James Cowgill of Kansas City for treasurer and Elliott Major of Bowling Green for attorney general were unopposed in the first Democratic primary in 1908. Secretary of State Cornelius Roach, a Carthage newspaper publisher, had no opponent in 1912. George H. Middelkamp of Lincoln County had no opposition in 1916 for treasurer, Secretary of State John L. Sullivan of Sedalia had none in 1920, and Richard R. Nacy, Sr., of Jefferson City went without an opponent for treasurer in 1932.

$2 Million Fire Razes Records

CAIRO -- Fire early Monday swept through the First Bank and Trust Co. here, destroying or heavily damaging the quarters of 13 businesses and destroying city and school district financial records.

Estimates of damage ranged from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The bank resumed operations at 10 a.m. Monday in the Masonic Temple a block north of the bank building.

All services were available except for access to safety deposit boxes.

Harry Emerson, chairman of the board of directors of the bank, said that as soon as authorities determine that it is safe, someone will be stationed at the bank building to serve safety deposit box customers.

Emerson said all records, documents and currency in the bank were saved.

The Cairo municipal and Cairo school district financial records were in the Tracy - Cunningham accounting office for audit and were destroyed.

School and city officials indicated that there are no duplicate records.

Fire, which broke out about 3 a.m., was thought to have started on one of the two vacant floors above the drugstore, Fire Chief Lewis Edwards said.

Two firemen were injured. One suffered a hand cut and the other smoke inhalation. They were treated and returned to the scene.

The drugstore section of the building, originally the J. C. Penney store, was erected in 1911 and the bank portion was built in 1913.

Other businesses whose offices were destroyed were Dr. Wm. M. Kobler, a dentist; the L. J. Kleb Insurance Co., Profilet Insurance Co., Public Loan Co., and Wm. F. Means, a lawyer, all on the second floor; and the Washington National Insurance Co., the Metropolitan Insurance Co. John Holland, a lawyer, Dr. Emmett J. Gillespie, a dentist, and the Marinello Beauty Shop, all on the third floor.

The Kleb company, Tracy Cunningham and Public Loan Co. had found new quarters by 11 a.m. Monday.

Fortas Law Firm Aided Callanan

ST. LOUIS - In an article on St. Louis steamfitter boss Lawrence Callanan this week, Life magazine discusses the role that Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas' law firm has played in Callanan's history.

Callanan was convicted in 1954 of extortion and sentenced to 12 years in federal prison and five years probation specifying he could not hold union office or serve in "any representative capacity" in a labor organization during the probation.

"From the day of sentencing it became Morris Shenker's mission to return Callanan to control his local," Life says. "To join him as counsel in that effort, Shenker brought in Thurman Arnold, of the prestigious Washington law firm of Arnold, Fortas and Porter.

"(PARTNER ABE Fortas, confidant and adviser to President Johnson, was named to the Supreme Court in 1965 and more recently has been under rigorous questioning by he Senate as Johnson's nominee for Chief Justice. The remaining partner is Paul A. Porter, a prominent Democratic fund-raiser.)

"Callanan eventually was granted commutation (by President Johnson) in curious circumstances," the magazine, dated July 26 and on the newsstands Monday, reports.

"The request to the Justice Department was processed by an aide in the office of Deputy Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach," the article goes on. "Katzenbach was virtually running the department in the absence of Robert Kennedy following President Kennedy's death.

"It had not even been checked as was the rule in such cases, with Assistant Attorney General Herbert J. Miller Jr., head of the criminal division."

The Commutation was also a fait accompli when William Hundley, head of the organized crime section, who would normally have been consulted, heard of it.

"President Johnson signed the commutation order on April 17, 1964, and Larry Callanan was once again-openly-in control of Local 562 and its overflowing cashboxes," Life says.

". . . Larry Callanan was eager to show his gratitude," the article says. "Within a few months, he and (John) Lawler (assistant business manager of 562 and under indictment with Callanan) met with Democratic National Chairman John Bailey and treasurer Richard R. Maguire in Washington to offer help in the 1964 Johnson-Humphrey campaign.

"On Oct. 16 Lawler drew a check for $25,000 on the Pipefitters' fund and, in accord with Maguire's instructions, sent it to Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc., the New York advertising agency handling the campaign."

Twelve days later, Lawler sent another $25,000 check to Fortas' partner Porter as treasurer of a committee called "Friends of LBJ."

It was Porter who found it so easy to convince the Justice Department there was nothing wrong with the contribution, apparently an individual donation from Lawler.

Steelworkers Arm Union With Vote to Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers union members have armed their negotiators with an overwhelming vote of confidence as they race against a strike deadline a week away.

Thousands of the rank and file, in meetings, by voice, and by ballot across the nation, told their bargainers they would walk out of the mills if no contract is signed by Aug. 1.

Although the negotiations are secret, no money is believed to be on the table for the big dollar items like wages, pensions, vacations and unemployment insurance.

"This will shake the money loose," said one union district director as he reported his men better than 90 per cent in favor of a strike.

The vote, taken Tuesday in 600 union halls across the country, was the first of its kind for the nation's third largest union.

Reports from 83 locals representing about 180,000 men showed that some 3,700, or just over 2 per cent, were opposed. Figures from a dozen that took secret paper ballots showed 14 per cent opposed.

Each local was allowed to take the vote as it pleased. Most held meetings as the shifts changed and asked for a show of hands, yeas and nays, or standup vote.

Most meetings were attended by a third or less of the total membership but union rules allowed the vote to stand for the entire local.

Union leadership is under strong pressure to match the 6 per cent it won in the can and aluminum industries earlier this year, despite President Johnson's plea for wage restraint.

Steelworkers averaged $3.84 an hour in May, and the industry says fringe benefits added another $1.09. But the union has lost ground in recent years to other big industrial unions, especially the autoworkers, who also won a 6 per cent increase this year.

The steel industry says a 6 per cent increase each year over a three-year contract will wipe out two-thirds of its profits and put some companies out of business.

YOUTHFUL APPRECIATION

The youngsters wrote:

"We enjoyed seeing all the fire trucks, boots and boat, and most of all the men sliding down the pole. We are glad God planned for friends who keep us safe from fires. We are glad you work all night so we can sleep."

NOAH AT IT AGAIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — When the Florida Times-Union headlined a weather story concerning 10 days of rain, "You Started Building That Ark Yet, Noah?" they got a swift answer.

The letter stated, "In reply to your caption in today's paper, yes I am building my ark here at the beach, and it's about 90 percent complete. If you have any doubt about it you can call Tommy Sheets at the Beach Marine Service...and ask him if he knows Cmdr. Noah's Ark Bartell or the dry land admiral and ask him if it isn't true. He will also show you the ark if you wish."

The letter was signed by "Cmdr. Fred J. Bartell Ret." The ark turned out to be a houseboat being constructed by the retired Navy Commander. Bartell, 69 and a bachelor, has been working on the houseboat for a year and a half. He figures that he will be able to launch the houseboat in the fall. The boat measures 34 feet long and 13½ feet wide.

Bus-Train Crash Kills 9 Migrants

NEWTONVILLE, N.J. (AP) — A two-car passenger train plowed into a farm labor bus Tuesday night, killing nine of the migrants and injuring 20 others in this South Jersey community.

State police said the two selfpropelled diesel cars of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, carrying some 100 passengers, tore the old school bus in two and threw the rear half 300 feet down the track. No one on the train was injured.

State police accounted for 39 bus passengers, but did not know exactly how many were aboard.

State police said the train was southbound from Philadelphia to Jersey shore points where it passed the crossing, which is marked with painted railroad warning signs but no lights. It was not known how fast the train was traveling.

The speed limit for trains in that section is 70 miles an hour, according to state police.

The farm bus was returning migrant workers from a dairy farm to Chester, Pa., according to Mayor John Krokos of Buena Vista Township.

State Trooper John Caruso said the bus driver, Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, Del., had with him a Delaware driver's license which had expired in March 1968.

Clark was in Kessler Memorial Hospital, Hammonton, with injuries, and no statement had been taken from him.

Hearnes Birthday Dinner Sell Out

Approximately 1,400 persons have paid more than $51,000 for tickets to the event at Ramada Inn's Pepper Mill restaurant, he said. More than 200 have bought $100 sponsor's tickets. Others are $25 each.

Closed circuit television will carry proceedings throughout the dining rooms.

Congressman James E. Wright, Fort Worth, will be principal speaker.

Hahn said the previous birthday dinners have netted for the Democratic state committee more than $129,000.

"This dinner will add at least $40,000 to that," Hahn said. "Governor and Mrs. Hearnes are to be complimented for dedicating all these funds to the state committee, especially in this year when they have their own campaign to finance."

Hahn said he will present a check for $40,000 to the state committee Saturday night. Remaining net proceeds will be given as soon as all expenses are paid.

Credit Card Business Booming

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to hunt polar bear in Alaska, entertain your mother-in-law at a Paris restaurant, rent a houseboat for a Mississippi cruise, hire a big-name orchestra for your daughter's wedding reception—and charge it?

All you need is a credit card.

These are some of the more bizarre ways you can use a credit card but their purchasing power covers the whole gamut of goods and services.

It's estimated that Americans are carrying 200 million credit cards and using them to spend around $50 billion a year.

As a result of the proliferation of credit cards, there has been widespread speculation about the possibilities of a checkless, cashless society in the future.

Some bankers envision a nationwide system in which a single identification card would be used in place of all checks and almost all cash.

But American Express, a big name in the credit card industry, says, "The single-card system couldn't be further from reality today. The most striking feature of our present system of transferring money is the multiplicity of credit cards."

Credit cards as we know them today were pioneered in 1950 by Diners' Club, which was created with 200 members, an initial investment of $18,000 and a handful of restaurants in the New York City area. Within a year it had grown to 10,000 members who could charge at more than 1,000 establishments.

Credit cards now fall into three categories:

—Travel and entertainment. Operators in this field are American Express, Diners' Club and Carte Blanche. These cards are held primarily by business and professional men.

—Private label. Oil companies, airlines, hotels, car rental companies and department stores offer these cards primarily to promote their services or products.

—Revolving credit cards. These cards, largely regional or local in nature, are issued mainly by banks and financial organizations and are meant primarily for use by housewives for shopping.

Cinch the Waist for Summer

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

Now there's no hideaway at the waist for a bulge or spare tire. It simply has to be smoothed away for summer clothes.

For most of us, this summer shape-up must include the old one-two. Exercise is essential in maintaining a trim figure, especially for anyone over 21.

Persuasive foundations are important, too. It's amazing what a stretch of elastic can do in sculpting a waistline, shaping a bustline or narrowing a hipline.

Co-ordinate under with outer silhouettes, covering what you want to control. A long-line bra or a high-rising girdle will be ideal under a dress that belts or sashes the waistline.

The sinuous 1930s styles being revived offer an excellent reason why a one-piece foundation should be in every woman's wardrobe—a second-skin type for the youthful figure; a more controlling type for the more rounded woman.

Co-ordinate under with outer necklines. Plenty of brassieres now are scooped out under the arms or plunge in front or back to accommodate the most daring of decolletages.

Lingerie should also coordinate with outer fabrics. Under knits and crepes you'll want not only a smooth, seam-free bra and girdle but also a simply tailored slip.

Bulkier or fuller outer fashions permit foundations and lingerie to be ruffled or lavish with lace.

Team under with outer colors. This means far more today than merely observing the old rule of "white under light, black under dark dresses." Now you can match prints under solids or solids under prints. The color and pattern range is a delight in both lingerie and foundation departments.

Underpinnings have come out into the light and are big fashion news this season.

SUMMER HOUSES along New York's Long Island are certainly individual and architecturally unconventional. They share only one similarity: all comply with a local law requiring they be built on pilings as a safety measure against high tides. Building lots in the area start at about $30,000. June-to-September rentals range from $1,100 to $12,000. A high-priced neighborhood in which to build "castles" in the sand. These photos, made at Westhampton Beach and Quoque, show a sampling of the odd shapes including one that resembles a flying saucer and a non-barn barn.

Wise Women Learn about Electricity

NEW YORK (AP) — Although women use electricity every day, the basics of this universal power sometimes seems to be beyond most female comprehension.

You put a plug into the socket and the vacuum works. If all the lights blow out a thingamajig called a fuse seems to be the villain. Sometimes you can get a shock from electrical equipment and sometimes not. Why?

Perhaps because little girls play with dolls and boys with electric trains, men are more familiar with the virtues and dangers of electricity. But the woman who is a wife and mother owes it to the safety of her family to know what precautions should be taken with electricity, and why. Her ability to understand labeling of electrical products and to spot potentially dangerous conditions in her home can prevent accidents.

When purchasing appliances, keep in mind that rubber is the best cord insulation. The products of reputable manufacturers will usually carry a label of approval from the Underwriter's Laboratory, which sets up safety standards.

Faulty electric cords can cause shocks or start fires. They should be handled gently to preserve their insulation. Pull out a cord by the plug, not the wire. You may coil the cord, but excessive bending or sqeezing can crack the insulation. Plugs should never be pried out of an outlet with a metal tool. And don't switch cords between appliances; an iron must have a heavier insulated cord than a food mixer.

Inspect appliance and lamp cords regularly. Disconnect cords where wires are beginning to show through wrapping and have them repaired.

Octopus wiring, where an outlet meant for two plugs is being used for six or seven, isn't just unsightly, it's dangerous. Too many appliances drawing power from one electrical circuit can generate heat and cause fires. A fuse is a safety valve which breaks the circuit when it overloads and before it can overheat. If a short circuit occurs, find the cause, disconnect the culprit that has caused the overload or which is faulty, and replace the fuse.

If a handy husband or son uses portable power tools, or if you are thinking of buying one as a gift, double insulation is a safety necessity. Power tools must sometimes be used around wet surfaces such as damp grass or a wet driveway after the car has been washed, both unsafe situations. Therefore the tool should offer two types of insulation: to prevent short circuits, and to prevent shocks.

Shock-proof electric drills, saws or sanders provide the hobbyist the greatest protection against electrical accident. Since women purchasers know so little about electric tools, it is wisest to consider only products made by reputable firms and to check double insulation and safety factors with the salesman.

Water and metal are conductors of electricity, that is, they serve as a channel to transmit the current. A metal lightning rod attracts lightning away from the house and channels it harmlessly through wires into the ground. Otherwise conductors should be avoided in conjunction with electric current. Don't handle a connected plug or light switch with wet hands or when standing in water.

If you must remove an obstruction from a socket, use a wooden or plastic tool and wear rubber gloves. These are all non-conductors. But it is best to call an electrician.

Most houses or apartments offer several electric circuits. Often all outlets in one room are part of the same circuit. Where you might have the most need for power, the kitchen perhaps, an electrician can install another socket drawn from a second circuit to share the power load and forestall blown fuses.

PEACE OF MIND. . .This wife is relaxed as her husband begins a building project because he's using a shock-proof electric drill that provides double insulation.

DOUBLE DANGER. . .Too many cords drawing power from one circuit and pulling a plug out by its cord can cause serious trouble. Looks like a second circuit is needed.

California Population Outnumbers Canada

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's population is 20 million, larger than Canada's, and 1.5 million ahead of New York's, the Chamber of Commerce reported.

Almost half of the state's 20 million people live in the five counties surrounding Los Angeles, said the chamber's research committee. The report Monday was based on census and state agency figures.

For eight years California has averaged a gain of approximately 500,000 a year and the state's population could double by the year 2000, the report said.

Canada's population is 19.9 million.

Numerous Appeals for Gifts Cause Unhappiness in Family

Dear Ann Landers: Six months ago my husband's sister Janet announced that her mind was made up -- she was going into a convent. The family decided to give her a big going away shower. We all figured since we wouldn't have to buy her a wedding present or baby gifts we'd go all out.

Two weeks ago Janet came out of the convent and decided to marry the boy she had been going with before she chose the religious life. They plan to marry in September. There are now plans for a big bridal shower. Then, of course, there will be the wedding gift, and naturally baby gifts will follow. Do you think this is fair? -- MEAGER BAND ACCOUNT

Dear Meager: Do you feel Janet should stay single to save friends and relatives the price of a shower gift? I don't. Those in the family who don't wish to spend any more money on her can convey their best wishes and let it go at that.

Dear Ann Landers: Sometimes I think you take a stand you don't believe just to provoke controversy. I strongly suspect you did just that when you told the daughter whose father had been a selfish, no good bum all of his life that she should take care of him in his old age.

I have lived through the same hell as the person who write and I consider myself an authority on rotton fathers. Unless you have grown up with alcoholism, screaming, fighting, breaking of furniture and dishes, you can't imagine what it's like. I remember Mama taking me and my little brother next door -- in the middle of the night, wrapped in a blanket. Father had been beating her with his fists and threatened to set the house on fire.

Mom died when I was 13. My brother and I went to live with an aunt. Father disappeared for 10 years and I can truthfully say nobody missed him. Now I am happily married and have two small children.

Father turned up six months ago. He lives in a shabby rooming house on the other end of town. He has criticized me to the family because I will not take him into our nice home and let him enjoy his grandchildren. I have him to dinner once in a while and it's all I can stand. My husband has nothing to say to him and my children fear him. He told me last time he was here that I should read the Bible more, especially the part that says, "Honor thy father and thy mother."

Please stop playing to the grandstand and answer me honestly. Is a married daughter obligated to take in an aged parent who has never done anything but cause misery and trouble? -- WAITING TO HEAR

Dear Waiting: I have never recommended that a married daughter or son move an aged parent into the home when the relationship is poor. This can only lead to trouble. What I did say, however, is that a child has the moral obligation to see to it that parents do not go hungry or without shelter -- and the advice stands.

Dear Ann Landers: My cousin who is always putting on airs got a fur stole for Mother's Day. She told everyone it was Siberian mink. The first time she wore it she got caught in the rain. It has smelled musty -- like skunk -- ever since. Can it be that her stole is actually not mink, but something a little less fancy? -- SUSPICIOUS

Dear Sis: Mink is a member of the weasel family and so is the skunk, the muskrat and a few other less glamorous cousins. They all smell musty when rained on -- even their Siberian relatives.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Big Air Conditioner Unfair to Neighbor

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Some like it hot, but Hector liked it cold; real cold. Consequently, he wasn't satisfied with just installing the normal air-conditioning unit in his home. He installed a unit that had a BTU capacity almost six times greater than the average air-conditioner and, while this made him and his family very comfortable, it made his next door neighbors very uncomfortable, particularly at night.

The noise, they claimed, was loud enough to make a clam clamor. It prevented them from sleeping and, in general, was driving them nuts. What's more, Hector refused to heed their complaints.

The result? The neighbors finally went to court demanding damages and an order that Hector tone down his air-conditioner.

"The air-conditioner is completely on my property," was Hector's answer, "and a person has a right to use his property as he sees fit. If I want my house to be as cool as an ice box, that's my business!

"We don't care if he freezes to death," retorted the irate neighbors, "but he's killing us with insomnia in doing it. While science hasn't been able to abolish sleep, he has. We haven't had a night's sleep in two months."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you award damages to the neighbors and make Hector cut down the noise of his air-conditioner?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that a person may not install and unreasonably use air-conditioning equipment that materially affects the comfort, enjoyment and occupancy of a neighbor's home and interferes with the neighbor's use and enjoyment of his property. Therefore, the neighbor, in this case, is entitled to the order and money for damages as well.

(Based upon a 1968 Conn. Supreme Court Decision)

Under a recent Interstate Commerce Commission order, Class I railroads include all carriers with annual operating revenues of $5 million or more. Previous revenue dividing line between Class I and Class II roads was $3 million.

State License Plates To Be Black and White

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri's automobile license plates for 1969 will feature black characters on a white background, the State Department of Revenue announced last week. Plates for local farm trucks will have yellow characters on a black background.

Robert Debo, of the State Revenue dept., explained that they are alternating colors so that the new plates will be easy to distinguish from old plates. He also said that, although the 1969 plates are not of the reflector type, the department intends to stick to colors that are used in reflector plates, "Just in case" a law should be passed requiring them.

Another change that has been suggested is to provide each car with two plates, but the 1969 plates will still be one to a car.

A third suggested change came from the direction of the Missouri Tourism Commission. They wanted a tourism slogan to be placed on the plates.

The reflectorization, two plates and the tourism slogan many come at some time in the future, but Debo doesn't know of any specific moves to introduce legislation to bring them about.

Debo said the major consideration of plate design is to make the job of law officers easier. Reflectorization and two plates would probably do this, but a tourism slogan would require smaller numbers that would be harder to ead.

A change to two plates would, of course, about double the cost of production which is nw about nine cents a plate. The prison, where the plates are made, has the capability of producing twice as many plates, Debo said.

Reflectorization is even more expensive. It would triple the production cost. Reflectorization and two plates per car would increase the nine cents per plate to over 50 cents per set. Although this increase in the production costs for plates for more than 2.3 million vehicles would be substantial, Debo said it would be a minor cost compared to the cost of plate registration.

UP HIGH A catwalk housir was replaced after Scott County Milling Company explosion tore galvanized sheet from the walk that leads to newer bins on the right. The blast and fire occurred Oct 9, 1967.

A NEW GRAIN DRYER has been completed and is ready for use at the Scott County Milling Company. It is 72 feet high and will handle 1,500 bushels of grain per hour, pulling five per cent moisture from grain passing through. At upper left is a cone-shaped collector that draws dust from grain.

Mill Repairs Will Be Completed Aug. 1

Repairs to the Scott County Milling Company will be completed Aug. 1. Buildings and machinery were damaged by an Oct. 29, 1967 explosion and fire, which cost the life of one employe and injured another.

Estimated cost of the replacement was $350,000.

Grain buying then will be resumed.

In charge of repairing damaged parts of storage bins and elevators is the Kansas City Millwright Co. Dale Arduser, Kansas City, is superintendent.

The explosion resulted in the death of Leonard Hornback, 30, and injury to Orville Hopp, 43.

Heaviest damage was to a square storage bin that contained grain in the upper portion, and machinery that operated a 30-inch belt to 16 round bins, each 85 feet high and each having a capacity of 27,000 bushels of grain.

In the center of the round bins, are seven star bins, each with a capacity of 7,000 bushels.

One of the bins was damaged when the upper third of it was blown off. A few of the remaining bins were damaged and repaired with reinforced concrete.

The bins and conveyor system were damaged mainly by the explosion. Concrete bins and tunnels weren't vulnerable to fire.

Fire damage was on the east side of the bins, where the wooden truck loading structure once stood. Fire damaged surrounding bins and machinery.

Heaviest damage was confined to square bin, more than one-third replaced with reinforced concrete, and the lower third of the structure that housed machinery. The machinery has been replaced.

All the grain in the most of the 16 bins was emptied, and graded. The undamaged grain has been sold.

The bins emptied had a capacity of 600,000 bushels of grain. None of the bins were more than two thirds full at the time of the explosion.

Newer bins, holding an estimated 900,000 bushels of grain, in the east section of the property were not affected by the fire and explosion.

Burglary Attempt Foiled

SCOTT CITY--A breakin last night at 11:30 p.m. at the Saveway Oil company warehouse, by two white men was halted by the watchman, Maurice Uelsmann, 51, Scott City.

Uelsmann awakened in time to see the men attempting to haul a safe through a door.

The watchman was in an adjoining room and heard a noise. As he entered the room where the safe was being moved, he was struck over the head by a sharp instrument. The two men escaped.

The burglars tore a telephone off the wall before they escaped but left empty handed.

Uelsmann was treated, by an Illmo physician, where ten stitches were required to close a wound in his head.

Entrance was gained to the building by breaking in a back door.

Investigation by the Scott county sheriff's office disclosed that the two men had moved the four foot by three foot iron safe on rollers only a few inches.

At the loading dock old auto tires had been placed on concrete below to reduce noise when the safe dropped from the platform.

Found in the room near the safe were a six-foot pry bar, a pick, single-bit ax, eight-pound sledge, 30-inch chisel, all believed to have been obtained from a construction job. The watchman was believed to have been hit with one of these tools.

Tire tracks were found on the runway below the dock.

Robbers Hit Pool Hall

About $20 was reported taken in an armed robbery Tuesday morning of Vinson's Pool Room, 835 West Malone, police reported today.

Tommy Raines, 131 North Frisco, who was working at the pool hall when the robbery occurred at 11:10 a.m. yesterday, told police two Negro men forced him to give them about $10 in change from the cash register and took about $10 in change from a vending machine.

The older Negro held a large knife on Raines he told police. The older man was 50 to 55 years old, about 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighed about 165. He was wearing a blue coverall uniform, police reported. The younger Negro was about 15 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, of medium build, and was wearing a fancy shirt and blue and black pants, he told police.

In other activity, Paul Taylor, 432 East Kathleen, was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving following an accident at Malone and Pine streets. Taylor was proceeding west on east Malone and sturck an eastbound car driven by Jane Vandivort, 18, 8 Bel Air Dr., when he made a left turn onto Pine St., police reported.

Herbert Reno, 138 North West St., was charged at 7:45 a.m. today with public intoxication. He was arrested on South New Madrid, police reported.

Fire Burns Lint

Sikeston firemen extinguished a fire in the Planters Delinting building, 521 Murray Lane at 8:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Lint from cotton seed and sacks were burning, but no damage was caused to the building, firemen reported.

The fire was believed to have been started by small children, because matches and firecrackers were found inside the building.

Judge Grants Probation In Arson Conspiracy Case

NEW MADRID--David Gilliland and Michael DuBois, both of Sikeston, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of conspiring to commit arson in connection with the Oct. 28, 1966, burning of a house owned by Bill and Joe Fisher about three miles west on New Hamburg Tuesday in Circuit Court.

Judge William L. Ragland presided.

Gilliland and DuBois each were sentenced to one year in the county jail, and were placed on probation for one year on payment of court costs and good bahavior.

The charge had been reduced from an original charge of arson. Another charge of arson in connection with the burning of a barn on the John Spooler farm on the same night in the same general area was dismissed.

The house had been estimated to be worth about $3,000. The barn and its contents were valued at about $5,000.

The case came to New Madrid county on a change of venue from Scott county.

The only state witness in the case against Gilliland and DuBois, a youth named Danny Stribbler of Chaffee, who testified at a preliminary hearing on Dec. 20, 1966, has died, assistant prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore said.

In other court action:

Taken under advisement by the court was a motion for new trial in the case of Hazel Perry against National Trust Life Insurance Company.

Harriman Tells Hanoi Recognition Of South Viet Regime Necessary

PARIS (AP) - Ambassador W. Averell Harriman bluntly told North Vietnamese negotiators today that to progress toward peace "you must be prepared to recognize the role" of South Vietnam's government in working out a settlement of the Vietnam war.

harriman's assertion in the 14th session of the Paris peace talks followed directly on President Johnson's Honolulu meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the end of last week. North Vietnam regularly denounces the Saigon goverment as an American "puppet."

Harriman told newsmen he had not seen definitive evidence that the lull in the war around Saigon, which began in mid-June was finally coming to an end.

But he added: "What is disturbing is that the terrorist actions on theaters around Saigon have started again. People have been killed. I intend to call attention to that." The Viet Cong bombed four theaters in Saigon and nearby towns Sunday, killing 12 Vietnamese and wounding 91.

Going into the 14th session of the talks, Harriman said he would present to the North Vietnamese negotiators the appeal issued in Honolulu by President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu "for a peaceful settlement and an end of the violence."

"I intend," he continued, "to point to the violence that is continuing on the part of the Viet Cong, and I hope this will make some impression."

Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a new lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

U.S. officials think the possilities of any real change are slight. Thuy has brushed aside bilities of any real change are slight. Thuy has brushed aside suggestions that his government was modifying the statement of its basic position that has stood for more than four years. Nevertheless, new language has been used and U.S. officials think that eventually it could be important.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and fourth the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for "the right of selfdetermination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs." Previously this point specified that the South Vietnamese people would settle their own affairs "in accordance with the program of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong. U.S. officials always said they could not accept that condition because it would mean acceptance of the Communist program for South Vietnam.

Early this year a new organization which claimed to include non-Communist elements, the Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Vietnam, was launched with acclaim from Hanoi. North Vietnam stopped calling the Liberation Front the "sole" representative of the South Vietnamese people and began calling it the "authentic representative." Some U.S. officials believe that elimination of the reference to the Liberation Front's program in Hanoi's new statement of its four points could be another maneuver to make space for the alliance.

North Vietnamese officials in Paris have sought to promote the Alliance as a compromise political body for the South. But U.S. officials say it is a Communist front, and one of the Saigon government's military courts has condemned 10 of its leaders to death in absentia.

U.S. officials are anxious, nevertheless, to find out all they can about the Alliance and the relative value which North Vietnam attaches to it and to the Liberation Front.

Court Asked To Reconsider Toll Road Ruling

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Supreme Court was asked Tuesday to reconsider its decision invalidating the 1967 toll road law.

The State Turnpike Authority created by the law and the State Highway Commission petitioned for a new hearing. They said the court misinterpreted the facts when it held a Turnpike Authority road leased to the State Highway Commission is not a state highway.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes also has attacked the July 8 decision, charging the court ignored the great economic impact of toll roads. He was the chief sponsor of the 1967 turnpike law.

Watson Says Mail May Not Be Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster Gen. W. Marvin Watson said today action by two congressional committees has encouraged him to believe mail service will not have to be curtailed.

But Watson indicated Congress will have to do still more before the Post Office Department rescinds its announced cutbacks in service, the first of which takes effect Saturday.

"The support of these two committees—composed of men most knowledgeable on this complex subject—was to me further evidence of the credibility of our crisis," Watson said.

"It remains now for the Congress to make its decision," he added. "But I believe there is now some light being cast into what is a somber situation.

Watson's comments were in a speech prepared for 2,000 delegates to the National Postal Forum.

Watson repeated arguments he made before congressional committees in the past two weeks seeking an exemption for the department from manpower cutbacks dictated by President Johnson's 10 per cent income surtax bill.

The beginning of postal cutbacks that Watson has said could lead to closing of 12,000 small branches and eventual four-day delivery in residential areas, comes this Saturday when window service will be cut to a maximum of two hours and street-box pickups will be made on Sunday schedules.

Exemptions for the Post Office Department have been approved by committees in the House and Senate with the most recent action Tuesday.

The Senate Post Office Committee wrote the exemption into a minor House-passed bill. This paved the way for quick actions possibly by week's end, a committee source said.

LBJ Vows Firm Stand Against War Critics

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson has declared he will not waver from a Vietnam policy he called just and reasonable, despite "the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year."

The nation's governors who heard that pledge had no plans to attempt to match it with one of their own. The 60th National Governors Conference held its final session today, and the agenda did not touch on Vietnam.

One Democrat who praised the Johnson stand said any attempt to put the conference on record in support of U.S. policy on the war and negotiations would stir dissension which could do more harm than good.

Johnson spent an hour Tuesday night at the conference which has been marked by the political maneuvering by and for candidates to succeed him when he retires from the White House next Jan. 20.

"Our nation wants peace, our government wants peace, our men in Vietnam want peace and your President wants peace. Yet some among us seem to feel that I or we alone can bring peace to Vietnam. They seem to ignore the presence and irreconcilability of the enemy."

Johnson said he had promised battleground restraint in announcing he would not run again for the White House, and has kept that promise.

"We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go," he said. "But we are not going to impose a coalition government—or any kind of government—on the people of South Vietnam.

"Nor are we going to let the totalitarians impose a Communist government of their direction either," the President said. That drew one of only two rounds of applause which came during his address.

"The days we're going through and the days ahead are going to be difficult ones," Johnson said. "But we are determined to press the search for peace even as we resist aggression on the battlefield. We are going to continue to resist the efforts to split our country wide open and divide our citizens."

Outside the Cincinnati convention center, scores of pickets marched the sidewalk, many waving placards critical of Johnson and the war. "Peace now," they chanted intermittently.

"With all the power at my command I am going to do my duty as I see it, regardless of the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year," Johnson said.

He said he and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam agreed that a cease fire, with effective controls and guarantees, could be part of a war settlement. They agreed also, Johnson said, "that an honorable and secure peace will assure the right of the South Vietnamese people to decide their own affairs without external interference...

"That is the position of the U.S. government," Johnson said. "It is fair, it is just, it is reasonable and it is firm. We hope and pray for the best and are prepared for whatever comes."

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who had talked of a possible conference resolution supporting the current Vietnam peace talks in Paris, called Johnson's speech magnificent.

But Hughes said he was not going to seek any conference action on the war issue. He said to do any good it would have to be supported unanimously or overwhelmingly, and that is not possible.

"It seems to be the consensus of everyone that I've talked to that a resolution wouldn't do any good and indeed one might be harmful," Hughes said.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, a Republican, said no Vietnam policy measure had come before his executive committee, which screens conference resolutions.

Johnson got a silver plaque from the governors, inscribed with words of "appreciation for his long and devoted public service" and his leadership in establishing ties between Washington and the states.

He urged the governors to work at the state level to deal with problems of jobs, slums, education, health and the like—saying that the federal government has in the past taken responsibility by default, because no one else would act.

In that context, he mentioned the problem of crime. "The federal government does not seek the responsibility of policing our streets—and I hope and pray it will never accept it," he said. "But if the American people look to Washington in a matter so clearly defined as this, it may betray a weakness in our partnership."

Johnson asked for the governors' help in getting congressional action on legislation to "protect our people from guns in criminal hands."

A resolution now before it would recommend state action to stiffen gun control laws, but would not advocate specific laws, leaving that to the individual state.

School Merger Rejected

ADVANCE--The proposed merger of school districts in three counties into a single school district was defeated Tuesday 891, to 1,170.

The districts involved were Advance R-IV in Stoddard county, Chaffee R-II in Scott county, and Delta V in Cape Girardeau county.

The Delta and Chaffee districts posted a three-to-one majority in light voting in favor of the merger. Advance votes came out in numbers to ballot almost 15 to 1 against it.

The vote by districts was Advance 60 to 890, Chaffee 489 to 167 and Delta 342 to 113.

It is not expected the issue will be put to a vote again.

Bid to Hurry Action on Fortas Fails

Washington (AP) — An attempt to get immediate action by the Senate Judiciary Committee on President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice was blocked today.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, DMich., told newsmen that he moved at a closed meeting of the committee to report the nomination to the Senate favorably.

Sen. John L. McClellan, DArk., invoked a committee rule under which a single member can have a matter put over for a week.

The result was to delay at least until next Wednesday any chance for a vote on the nomination of Fortas to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren and there is no assurance the committee will meet then.

Some of the Republican members of the committee, including Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, planned to leave early next week for Miami Beach for platform hearings in advance of the Republican National Convention.

If no committee session is held next week, action on the Fortas nomination presumably will be delayed until after Congress returns in September following the national party conventions.

Eban Accuses Nasser of Looking for War

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said today that President Gamal Abdel Nasser is looking for a new war to liquidate Israel.

The Egyptian president told the inaugural congress of his Arab Socialist Union in Cairo Tuesday that the Middle East crisis "could explode any minute" into a world conflict.

He said prospects for a settlement with Israel were slim and U.N. efforts to bring about peace in the area had gained nothing.

Eban called Nasser's speech "a brutally clear and conducive picture of ... a policy of total, unreserved and uncompromising opposition to peace."

"This statement ... destroys any possible illusion about Egyptian moderation," Eban declared. "Nasser's policy is to have a new war in the Middle East for the purpose of bringing about Israel's complete liquidation."

"He is against peace, against agreement, against negotiation, against the recognition of Israel's sovereignty," he added.

Nasser declared once again that there can be no peace as long as Arab lands are occupied by Israel. He also praised the Soviet Union for rearming Egypt after its defeat in the six-day war in June, 1967.

Cape Motorist Seriously Hurt

Harry Rexford Brown, 34, Cape Girardeau, is reported in serious condition in the Madison County Memorial hospital in Fredericktown, from injuries received in a single car accident today at 2:30 a.m. on highway 72, two miles west of Fredericktown.

He was driving a 1968 Oldsmobile when he apparently went to sleep when rounding a curve. He lost control, his car went off the road and turned over.

He received a concussion and scalp cuts.

Doors, Falls and Nail Injure Five

UP HIGH A catwalk housir was replaced after Scott County Milling Company explosion tore galvanized sheet from the walk that leads to newer bins on the right. The blast and fire occurred Oct 9, 1967.

A NEW GRAIN DRYER has been completed and is ready for use at the Scott County Milling Company. It is 72 feet high and will handle 1,500 bushels of grain per hour, pulling five per cent moisture from grain passing through. At upper left is a cone-shaped collector that draws dust from grain.

Mill Repairs Will Be Completed Aug. 1

Repairs to the Scott County Milling Company will be completed Aug. 1. Buildings and machinery were damaged by an Oct. 29, 1967 explosion and fire, which cost the life of one employe and injured another.

Estimated cost of the replacement was $350,000.

Grain buying then will be resumed.

In charge of repairing damaged parts of storage bins and elevators is the Kansas City Millwright Co. Dale Arduser, Kansas City, is superintendent.

The explosion resulted in the death of Leonard Hornback, 30, and injury to Orville Hopp, 43.

Heaviest damage was to a square storage bin that contained grain in the upper portion, and machinery that operated a 30-inch belt to 16 round bins, each 85 feet high and each having a capacity of 27,000 bushels of grain.

In the center of the round bins, are seven star bins, each with a capacity of 7,000 bushels.

One of the bins was damaged when the upper third of it was blown off. A few of the remaining bins were damaged and repaired with reinforced concrete.

The bins and conveyor system were damaged mainly by the explosion. Concrete bins and tunnels weren't vulnerable to fire.

Fire damage was on the east side of the bins, where the wooden truck loading structure once stood. Fire damaged surrounding bins and machinery.

Heaviest damage was confined to square bin, more than one-third replaced with reinforced concrete, and the lower third of the structure that housed machinery. The machinery has been replaced.

All the grain in the most of the 16 bins was emptied, and graded. The undamaged grain has been sold.

The bins emptied had a capacity of 600,000 bushels of grain. None of the bins were more than two thirds full at the time of the explosion.

Burglary Attempt Foiled

SCOTT CITY--A breakin last night at 11:30 p.m. at the Saveway Oil company warehouse, by two white men was halted by the watchman, Maurice Uelsmann, 51, Scott City.

Uelsmann awakened in time to see the men attempting to haul a safe through a door.

The watchman was in an adjoining room and heard a noise. As he entered the room where the safe was being moved, he was struck over the head by a sharp instrument. The two men escaped.

Uelsmann was treated, by an Illmo physician, where ten stitches were required to close a wound in his head.

Investigation by the Scott county sheriff's office disclosed that the two men had moved the four foot by three foot iron safe on rollers only a few inches.

At the loading dock old auto tires had been placed on concrete below to reduce noise when the safe dropped from the platform.

Found in the room near the safe were a six-foot pry bar, a pick, single-bit ax, eight-pound sledge, 30-inch chisel, all believed to have been obtained from a construction job. The watchman was believed to have been hit with one of these tools.

Robbers Hit Pool Hall

About $20 was reported taken in an armed robbery Tuesday morning of Vinson's Pool Room, 835 West Malone, police reported today.

Tommy Raines, 131 North Frisco, who was working at the pool hall when the robbery occurred at 11:10 a.m. yesterday, told police two Negro men forced him to give them about $10 in change from the cash register and took about $10 in change from a vending machine.

The older Negro held a large knife on Raines he told police. The older man was 50 to 55 years old, about 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighed about 165. He was wearing a blue coverall uniform, police reported. The younger Negro was about 15 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, of medium build, and was wearing a fancy shirt and blue and black pants, he told police.

In other activity, Paul Taylor, 432 East Kathleen, was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving following an accident at Malone and Pine streets. Taylor was proceeding west on east Malone and sturck an eastbound car driven by Jane Vandivort, 18, 8 Bel Air Dr., when he made a left turn onto Pine St., police reported.

Herbert Reno, 138 North West St., was charged at 7:45 a.m. today with public intoxication. He was arrested on South New Madrid, police reported.

Fire Burns Lint

Sikeston firemen extinguished a fire in the Planters Delinting building, 521 Murray Lane at 8:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Lint from cotton seed and sacks were burning, but no damage was caused to the building, firemen reported.

The fire was believed to have been started by small children, because matches and firecrackers were found inside the building.

Judge Grants Probation In Arson Conspiracy Case

NEW MADRID--David Gilliland and Michael DuBois, both of Sikeston, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of conspiring to commit arson in connection with the Oct. 28, 1966, burning of a house owned by Bill and Joe Fisher about three miles west on New Hamburg Tuesday in Circuit Court.

Judge William L. Ragland presided.

Gilliland and DuBois each were sentenced to one year in the county jail, and were placed on probation for one year on payment of court costs and good bahavior.

The charge had been reduced from an original charge of arson. Another charge of arson in connection with the burning of a barn on the John Spooler farm on the same night in the same general area was dismissed.

The house had been estimated to be worth about $3,000. The barn and its contents were valued at about $5,000.

The case came to New Madrid county on a change of venue from Scott county.

The only state witness in the case against Gilliland and DuBois, a youth named Danny Stribbler of Chaffee, who testified at a preliminary hearing on Dec. 20, 1966, has died, assistant prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore said.

In other court action:

Taken under advisement by the court was a motion for new trial in the case of Hazel Perry against National Trust Life Insurance Company.

Harriman Tells Hanoi Recognition Of South Viet Regime Necessary

PARIS (AP) - Ambassador W. Averell Harriman bluntly told North Vietnamese negotiators today that to progress toward peace "you must be prepared to recognize the role" of South Vietnam's government in working out a settlement of the Vietnam war.

harriman's assertion in the 14th session of the Paris peace talks followed directly on President Johnson's Honolulu meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the end of last week. North Vietnam regularly denounces the Saigon goverment as an American "puppet."

Harriman told newsmen he had not seen definitive evidence that the lull in the war around Saigon, which began in mid-June was finally coming to an end.

But he added: "What is disturbing is that the terrorist actions on theaters around Saigon have started again. People have been killed. I intend to call attention to that." The Viet Cong bombed four theaters in Saigon and nearby towns Sunday, killing 12 Vietnamese and wounding 91.

Going into the 14th session of the talks, Harriman said he would present to the North Vietnamese negotiators the appeal issued in Honolulu by President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu "for a peaceful settlement and an end of the violence."

"I intend," he continued, "to point to the violence that is continuing on the part of the Viet Cong, and I hope this will make some impression."

Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a new lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

U.S. officials think the possilities of any real change are slight. Thuy has brushed aside bilities of any real change are slight. Thuy has brushed aside suggestions that his government was modifying the statement of its basic position that has stood for more than four years. Nevertheless, new language has been used and U.S. officials think that eventually it could be important.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and fourth the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for "the right of selfdetermination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs." Previously this point specified that the South Vietnamese people would settle their own affairs "in accordance with the program of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong. U.S. officials always said they could not accept that condition because it would mean acceptance of the Communist program for South Vietnam.

Early this year a new organization which claimed to include non-Communist elements, the Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces of Vietnam, was launched with acclaim from Hanoi. North Vietnam stopped calling the Liberation Front the "sole" representative of the South Vietnamese people and began calling it the "authentic representative." Some U.S. officials believe that elimination of the reference to the Liberation Front's program in Hanoi's new statement of its four points could be another maneuver to make space for the alliance.

North Vietnamese officials in Paris have sought to promote the Alliance as a compromise political body for the South. But U.S. officials say it is a Communist front, and one of the Saigon government's military courts has condemned 10 of its leaders to death in absentia.

U.S. officials are anxious, nevertheless, to find out all they can about the Alliance and the relative value which North Vietnam attaches to it and to the Liberation Front.

Court Asked To Reconsider Toll Road Ruling

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Supreme Court was asked Tuesday to reconsider its decision invalidating the 1967 toll road law.

The State Turnpike Authority created by the law and the State Highway Commission petitioned for a new hearing. They said the court misinterpreted the facts when it held a Turnpike Authority road leased to the State Highway Commission is not a state highway.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes also has attacked the July 8 decision, charging the court ignored the great economic impact of toll roads. He was the chief sponsor of the 1967 turnpike law.

Watson Says Mail May Not Be Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster Gen. W. Marvin Watson said today action by two congressional committees has encouraged him to believe mail service will not have to be curtailed.

But Watson indicated Congress will have to do still more before the Post Office Department rescinds its announced cutbacks in service, the first of which takes effect Saturday.

"The support of these two committees—composed of men most knowledgeable on this complex subject—was to me further evidence of the credibility of our crisis," Watson said.

"It remains now for the Congress to make its decision," he added. "But I believe there is now some light being cast into what is a somber situation.

Watson's comments were in a speech prepared for 2,000 delegates to the National Postal Forum.

Watson repeated arguments he made before congressional committees in the past two weeks seeking an exemption for the department from manpower cutbacks dictated by President Johnson's 10 per cent income surtax bill.

The beginning of postal cutbacks that Watson has said could lead to closing of 12,000 small branches and eventual four-day delivery in residential areas, comes this Saturday when window service will be cut to a maximum of two hours and street-box pickups will be made on Sunday schedules.

Exemptions for the Post Office Department have been approved by committees in the House and Senate with the most recent action Tuesday.

The Senate Post Office Committee wrote the exemption into a minor House-passed bill. This paved the way for quick actions possibly by week's end, a committee source said.

LBJ Vows Firm Stand Against War Critics

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson has declared he will not waver from a Vietnam policy he called just and reasonable, despite "the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year."

The nation's governors who heard that pledge had no plans to attempt to match it with one of their own. The 60th National Governors Conference held its final session today, and the agenda did not touch on Vietnam.

One Democrat who praised the Johnson stand said any attempt to put the conference on record in support of U.S. policy on the war and negotiations would stir dissension which could do more harm than good.

Johnson spent an hour Tuesday night at the conference which has been marked by the political maneuvering by and for candidates to succeed him when he retires from the White House next Jan. 20.

"Our nation wants peace, our government wants peace, our men in Vietnam want peace and your President wants peace. Yet some among us seem to feel that I or we alone can bring peace to Vietnam. They seem to ignore the presence and irreconcilability of the enemy."

Johnson said he had promised battleground restraint in announcing he would not run again for the White House, and has kept that promise.

"We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go," he said. "But we are not going to impose a coalition government—or any kind of government—on the people of South Vietnam.

"Nor are we going to let the totalitarians impose a Communist government of their direction either," the President said. That drew one of only two rounds of applause which came during his address.

"The days we're going through and the days ahead are going to be difficult ones," Johnson said. "But we are determined to press the search for peace even as we resist aggression on the battlefield. We are going to continue to resist the efforts to split our country wide open and divide our citizens."

Outside the Cincinnati convention center, scores of pickets marched the sidewalk, many waving placards critical of Johnson and the war. "Peace now," they chanted intermittently.

"With all the power at my command I am going to do my duty as I see it, regardless of the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year," Johnson said.

He said he and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam agreed that a cease fire, with effective controls and guarantees, could be part of a war settlement. They agreed also, Johnson said, "that an honorable and secure peace will assure the right of the South Vietnamese people to decide their own affairs without external interference...

"That is the position of the U.S. government," Johnson said. "It is fair, it is just, it is reasonable and it is firm. We hope and pray for the best and are prepared for whatever comes."

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who had talked of a possible conference resolution supporting the current Vietnam peace talks in Paris, called Johnson's speech magnificent.

But Hughes said he was not going to seek any conference action on the war issue. He said to do any good it would have to be supported unanimously or overwhelmingly, and that is not possible.

"It seems to be the consensus of everyone that I've talked to that a resolution wouldn't do any good and indeed one might be harmful," Hughes said.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, a Republican, said no Vietnam policy measure had come before his executive committee, which screens conference resolutions.

Johnson got a silver plaque from the governors, inscribed with words of "appreciation for his long and devoted public service" and his leadership in establishing ties between Washington and the states.

He urged the governors to work at the state level to deal with problems of jobs, slums, education, health and the like—saying that the federal government has in the past taken responsibility by default, because no one else would act.

In that context, he mentioned the problem of crime. "The federal government does not seek the responsibility of policing our streets—and I hope and pray it will never accept it," he said. "But if the American people look to Washington in a matter so clearly defined as this, it may betray a weakness in our partnership."

Johnson asked for the governors' help in getting congressional action on legislation to "protect our people from guns in criminal hands."

A resolution now before it would recommend state action to stiffen gun control laws, but would not advocate specific laws, leaving that to the individual state.

School Merger Rejected

ADVANCE--The proposed merger of school districts in three counties into a single school district was defeated Tuesday 891, to 1,170.

The districts involved were Advance R-IV in Stoddard county, Chaffee R-II in Scott county, and Delta V in Cape Girardeau county.

The Delta and Chaffee districts posted a three-to-one majority in light voting in favor of the merger. Advance votes came out in numbers to ballot almost 15 to 1 against it.

The vote by districts was Advance 60 to 890, Chaffee 489 to 167 and Delta 342 to 113.

It is not expected the issue will be put to a vote again.

Bid to Hurry Action on Fortas Fails

Washington (AP) — An attempt to get immediate action by the Senate Judiciary Committee on President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice was blocked today.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, DMich., told newsmen that he moved at a closed meeting of the committee to report the nomination to the Senate favorably.

Sen. John L. McClellan, DArk., invoked a committee rule under which a single member can have a matter put over for a week.

The result was to delay at least until next Wednesday any chance for a vote on the nomination of Fortas to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren and there is no assurance the committee will meet then.

Some of the Republican members of the committee, including Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, planned to leave early next week for Miami Beach for platform hearings in advance of the Republican National Convention.

If no committee session is held next week, action on the Fortas nomination presumably will be delayed until after Congress returns in September following the national party conventions.

Eban Accuses Nasser of Looking for War

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said today that President Gamal Abdel Nasser is looking for a new war to liquidate Israel.

The Egyptian president told the inaugural congress of his Arab Socialist Union in Cairo Tuesday that the Middle East crisis "could explode any minute" into a world conflict.

He said prospects for a settlement with Israel were slim and U.N. efforts to bring about peace in the area had gained nothing.

"This statement ... destroys any possible illusion about Egyptian moderation," Eban declared. "Nasser's policy is to have a new war in the Middle East for the purpose of bringing about Israel's complete liquidation."

"He is against peace, against agreement, against negotiation, against the recognition of Israel's sovereignty," he added.

Nasser declared once again that there can be no peace as long as Arab lands are occupied by Israel. He also praised the Soviet Union for rearming Egypt after its defeat in the six-day war in June, 1967.

Cape Motorist Seriously Hurt

Harry Rexford Brown, 34, Cape Girardeau, is reported in serious condition in the Madison County Memorial hospital in Fredericktown, from injuries received in a single car accident today at 2:30 a.m. on highway 72, two miles west of Fredericktown.

He was driving a 1968 Oldsmobile when he apparently went to sleep when rounding a curve. He lost control, his car went off the road and turned over.

He received a concussion and scalp cuts.

ANYTHING IS OKAY IF YOU DON'T GET CAUGHT?

The American people have been given a snow-job that violence and vandalism is the result of poverty and some people now assume that the growing trend toward anarchy can be arrested by guaranteeing everyone economic security.

But the evidence is becoming more obvious every day that the rise in all forms of law-breaking, including rioting and looting, involves far more than the actions of desperate poverty-stricken people. Studies are showing that in cities such as Washington, D.C., most of the rioters and looters were in far from depressed economics circumstances. Many of those arrested held good jobs.

Another bit of evidence indicating the whys of our social troubles other than poverty is contained in a startling Satevepost article by Bill Davidson on shoplifting. Davidson's findings reveal an astounding decline in the character and integrity of a whole people.

Retailers lose from $1 billion to $3 billion annually to shoplifters. More than half of these thieves are teenagers. Where a decade ago there were only a few thousand shoplifting arrests among teenagers each week, there are now about 100,000 a week. These are the statistics. They are not nearly as chilling as the story behind them.

In the words of the Post, "The typical teenage shoplifter in the U.S. is a girl (girls outnumber boys by about 20 to 1 in this particular area of crime) . . . she is likely to be 16 years old . . . and her father probably in a business or professional man earning up to $15,000 a year or more. She gets a sizeable allowance and has enough money to buy all she needs." The teenage shoplifter does not think her particular form of theft is a crime, but rather a game. There is no moral understanding of right or wrong. At least part of the blame lies with parents. As a former FBI agent says, "Children learn by example. They see their mothers eating grapes in a supermarket without paying for them, or slipping sticks of butter into a margarine carton before going to the checking counter, and they develop the philosophy that it's all right to steal from a big, rich organization because nobody misses it. Then they hear Dad at home bragging about cheating his company on his expense account and the government on his income tax return. They're taught from childhood that anything's okay, just as long as you don't get caught."

So now merchants in many areas of the country are cooperating with police by prosecuting all offenders. They are also endeavoring to make their stores less vulnerable to would-be shoplifters. Several communities have educational campaigns to show the tragic consequences of petty thievery. Davidson cites the case of a 17-year-old physician's daughter who shoplifted a two-dollar costume jewelry brooch. The girl wants to become a lawyer but her police record may keep her out of college and prevent her from getting a good job.

An educational pamphlet entitled, "Teenagers Beware: Shoplifting Is A Crime," tells how a boy was denied entrance to Annapolis because a military security check revealed his conviction for stealing three cases of soda pop. Also how with a police record it can be difficult, in some cases impossible, to go into any business or profession where a special license is required, such as law or real estate brokerage.

There will be some folks who will see no connection between the Post story on shoplifting and the riots and looting, but there are many who will recognize the symptoms of a social ailment that has nothing to do with poverty.

ST. LOUIS WARD SUPPORT GOING UP IN COST

If stories coming out of St. Louis, written by knowledgeable reporters, are correct, this years Democratic Senatorial primary race may surpass all previous ones in amounts of money spent. The reports claim that in some St. Louis wards the leaders are demanding $10,000 to $15,000 as the price of support of a candidate. It has been customary for a candidate to supply $1,500 to $2,000 in some wards to pay campaign costs, but no such figures as these have ever before been suggested. If such amounts are paid by any candidate for the nomination, it's a fairly sure thing that much of it will go into the pickets of the leaders instead of into legitimate campaign expenses..

Fortunately for those in Monroe County and elsewhere in the state who support Tom Eagleton for the nomination, his name has not even been mentioned in connection with these proposed large payments -- neither Eagleton nor his supporters can afford it, and we don't believe Eagleton would attempt to buy votes that way even if he could afford to do so.

It will be a sad state of affairs in Missouri if it comes to the point where the candidate with the most money and often the fewest qualifications -- gets the nomination. That's another reason most Monroe Countians are for Eagleton. They want to nominate a man because of his ability, not money.

A FLIGHT FROM REALITY

In this Presidential election year, it is almost incredible that neither party's candidates and the public are showing concern towards what should be a major campaign issue—America's declining military strength relative to Russia's.

There is a lot of oratory about ending the Vietnam war and about the need for avoiding such entanglements in the future. But the announced candidates have had very little to say so far about the Soviet Union's determined drive for strategic superiority and what this may portend for the future security of this country and its closest allies.

The Presidential aspirants, it appears, are convinced that the American people don't want to hear about it. If this signifies an illusion that we can retreat to a "fortress America" while allowing the fortress itself to deteriorate, then we are truly engaged in a national flight from reality.

The basic facts are plain enough. During the last three years, while we have been concentrated on Vietnam, the Russians have pursued a crash program of missile-building. They have more than doubled their stock of inter-continental ballistic missiles in the past 18 months, according to informed sources. Thus, whereas, the U.S. has enjoyed as 3-to-1 lead as recently as 1966, Russia is now expected to surpass us in long-range, land-based missiles some time next year.

The Pentagon notes that we are still ahead in deliverable warheads, when bombers and submarine-fired missiles are taken into account. But the Soviet armaments industry continues to produce new bombers. Polaris-type missiles have been developed, and Russian installation of an anti-missile system is far ahead of our own.

In addition, the Kremlin has developed and tested an orbital missile which can be fired from space.

Our own strategic weapons programs, meanwhile, have starved for funds as part of the budget squeeze brought on by heavy spending for Vietnam.

The fact is that the emerging Soviet threat to the United States and the Free World is, by any standard, as serious as the one posed ten years ago by the first generation of Soviet missiles.

Defense officials are confident that the United States can stay ahead—but not without heavy investments, which, of course, must compete with demands for higher spending to alleviate poverty and the like.

National security may not get its share, even after the war in Vietnam ends, unless national leaders speak up on the subject. But the ominous Soviet build-up has been given surprisingly little public attention by any of our Presidential candidates.

Possibly the people don't want to hear about a subject so dire to our personal safety, for there appears to be no sense of national urgency as yet.

But we cannot afford to stick our heads in the sand and hope to avoid a national defense problem, and Presidential candidates should lay the facts on the line.

NEW YORK (AP) — What's the use of being middle-aged if you can't brag about it?

Oddly enough, some people can't. They take their entrance into the middle years of life as a defeat rather than a victory, as a kind of dead end rather than as just another interesting corridor.

Others retreat into pretense and try to hide the fact they are middle-aged. Trying to hide middle age is like trying to smuggle an elephant through a subway turnstile. It isn't an easy thing to do, and it can be very wearing on the spirit.

If you are middle-aged and are trying to disguise it, you must limit your conduct in many careful ways. For example you can't—

Dance the Charleston.

Claim that Man O'War could beat Damascus by three lengths in a mile and a quarter race with one hoof tied behind his back.

Argue that golf has gone steadily downhill since Bobby Jones hung up his putter.

Point out how much more useful congressmen were to the people in the days when you could write them a letter and get back a packet of free seeds instead of merely a polite acknowledgment.

Pick up a mandolin or a ukelele and absent-mindedly strum a melody from it no one else has heard in ages.

Yep, if you're trying to hide the truth of your years, there are a lot of things you can't do. But is the effort worthwhile?

What's the use of being middle-aged if you aren't free to brag about the vanished glories of your wayfaring, the souvenirs of your passing that make up your living being?

Americans have always had a soft spot in their hearts for performers who worked in teams, Fibber McGee and Molly, Weber and Fields, Amos and Andy, Laurel and Hardy, and others too numerous to mention. This friendly feeling is not being extended to another team of performers who operate on the Justice Department circuit. On three different occasions that we know about this team of Turner and Spivack, which rehearses in the Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department, has treated weary company executives to singularly unfunny and ham-handed performances. Recently they hammed-it-up real good down in Texas, and that one has left the audience of businessmen from Texas to Maine wondering when The Boss will give them the hook.

Everyone knows that The Boss doesn't like to see anyone acting up down Texas way in a manner that might prove offensive to the neighbors. And the Turner and Spivack team did just that in one of the finales for which they have become noted. On this occasion, just as a Houston bank merger was about to be completed, the Anti-Trust team came screeching into court with a chorus of "Stop the merger!"

That ain't funny, son, especially down in Texas where banking is on a plane with home and mother. Indeed, you might say that Turner and Spivack suffered a political prattfall as a result of that show. They splattered the President's image among the homefolks.

This followed at least two other public appearances of the team which received a lot of publicity, but neither rave reviews nor loud acclaim. One of these routines dealt with advertising, and the script called for having the Justice Department tell American companies how much they'd be allowed to spend for newspaper space, TV commercials, etc. You can imagine how businessmen applauded that proposal.

Then they got up another routine, this one a real cliffhanger. After months of investigation and hearings, International Telephone and Telegraph and the American Broadcasting Company were told by the FCC that they could merge. Turner and Spivack rushed onstage as the curtain was coming down and said they couldn't do any such thing. And this proved to be a real show-stopper — in reverse.

NO SPECTATOR SPORT

Saving freedom is not a spectator sport. If Republic USA is to survive, it will be because courageous Americans of all ages are willing to pit their strength against the anti-freedom conspiracy. That is the only way.

Active patriotism is a road open to every citizen who believes in the principles so forcefully stated by the Founders of Freedom. Indifference can result in the loss of all that we cherish most.

For a long time freedom's enemies have been able to advance their cause by creating an atmosphere in which everyday Americans were made to feel that there was something not quite right about patriotism. But now a change is taking place.

The enthusiastic reception given young people involved in the speading Youth Freedom Speakers movement shows that the public will pay attention to freedom messages and constructive leadership. More and more patriots are speaking their minds in the "Letters to the Editor" columns of daily newspapers. Customers of business are taking the trouble to commend commercial firms that use patriotism in their advertising. Pro-freedom books are finding a larger audience than ever before.

These are good signs that patriotism is in fact bringing about a turn to the right in America. This patriotism means love of one's own country without hating any other. Constructive citizens have neither heart nor time for hate. There is too much to be done on the positive side to waste time on hate. Active patriots, who understand that saving freedom is not a spectator sport, are our hope for the future. HLH

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Sen. Ellender's movie-taking costs taxpayers $20,687; Miami hotels tighten security for GOP candidates; congressional jet set packs for Miami and Chicago

WASHINGTON - The senate's most idefatigable sightseer, 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has worked out a unique scheme for letting the taxpayers pay for his amateur movies.

Ellender totes a movie camera around the world and takes dozens of reels for the wonderment of those at home who, out of respect for his senate seniority, let themselves be collared into attending his illustrated lectures. He also packs a supply of little black notebooks, in which he jots his most trivial impressions, later to be published at the taxpayers' expense as official senate reports.

It had always been thought that Ellender's movie-making was a personal hobby paid out of his own picket. But the secret has now leaked out that the taxpayers also help foot the bill for "Ellender's productions."

As senate agriculture chairman, Ellender has enormous influence over the destiny of the agriculture department. It may not be altogether surprising, therefore, that one of the agriculture department's unmentioned services for the nation's farmers is to process Ellender's movies.

The agriculture department splices Ellender's fascinating footage, and adds a sound track featuring the voice of none other than Allen Ellender narrating his own travelogue. For three films this has now cost the taxpayers $20,687.

The agriculture department is prohibited from doing work for individuals, so Ellender arranged for the department to bill the senate recording studio. This is a technicality which saves the taxpayers exactly nothing.

Ellender's first effort to make a travelogue out of his home movies, back in 1963, cost the taxpayers $7,840. The taxpayers paid $11,000 last year for a lengthier Ellender production. And he has just completed a short documentary of his latest trip for $1,847. He expropriated the senate caucus room the other day for a preview, which was attended by dutiful senate employees, a few senators who couldn't think of an alibi and one or two devoted Ellender fans.

Note: The main attractions in Ellender's travelogues, according to first nighters, are sceneu of native markets.

--NEW PROTECTION IN MIAMI--

The shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy in a crowded hotel has caused secret security reappraisals at the Miami Beach hotels where the Republican candidates will be staying. Both the Hilton Plaza hotel, where Richard Nixon has reservations, and the Americana hotel, where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will stay, have arranged elaborate new security precautions. The entire floors where the candidates' rooms are located will be sealed off. Both hotels have also given their employees a thorough new screening since the Kennedy assassination.

--CONGRESSIONAL VACATIONS--

Members of congress are about to take a month off from their $30,000 jobs at the busiest time of the year, to head for Miami and Chicago. This, however, is only part of the vacation schedule.

What most people don't know is that senators and congressmen are absent from Washington much of the time -- for holidays, long weekends and foreign junkets at the taxpayers' expense. The only group which does more vacationing is the international "jet set."

Industrious members object to the gold-bricking, which has become a way of life to most of their senior colleagues. Hard-working, young Reps. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., and Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, circulated a petition some time back for a five-day work week. They got nowhere. Scheuer and Mink wanted to outlaw the "Tuesday-Thursday club," whose members, chiefly from New York and the east, leave town on Thursday and return Tuesday.

Result is that work which should be done early in the year piles up near adjournment. Senate and house members are now complaining about the backlog of legislation that is holding up adjournment. But the truth is that they themselves created the backlog by neglecting their duties earlier in this session.

Official holidays, as distinct from long weekends, begin in February, with Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Many go home again for the Jefferson-Jackson day dinners in the spring. Then there is Easter, when congress takes a recess, followed by a long weekend on Memorial Day and another on the Fourth of July.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, who foot the bills for all this, the political conventions, which bring the longest vacation of all, occur only once every four years.

--HHH'S EMPTY CHEST--

Lack of campaign funds has slowed down Hubert Humphrey's campaign for President. He was unable to come up with the down payment that his New York advertising agency, Doyle, Dane & Bernbach, had required to start an advertising barrage. As a result, the campaign is already three weeks behind schedule.

At first, the money poured into Humphrey's campaign chest, largely from businessmen who were afraid of Robert Kennedy and not enthusiastic about Richard Nixon. Since Kennedy's death this money has dried up. Businessmen are bank-rolling Rockefeller instead.

Humprhey's treasurer, Sidney Weinberg, who raised funds for the Eisenhower campaign and is now supposed to be tapping Wall Street for Humphrey, is coming up almost empty-handed.

Incidentally, Humphrey has told friends that he definitely intends to speak to Sen. Ted Kennedy about the vice presidential nomination. Humphrey didn't want to rush matters after Bobby's death. But the vice president is on warm terms with Ted Kennedy and thinks Kennedy would add the most strength to his ticket. The man he would really prefer as his running mate, however, is Sen. Ed. Muskie of Maine.

Soviets Building New Network Of Forced Labor Concentration Camps

Prague: -- Even with someone from the underground, it is an easy drive now from the intrigue-laden Hotel Yalta here to the shoddy square in Pilsen for good beer, and a run back to a midpoint rendezvous at the site of the Czech version of a hot dog stand.

In my picket were several copies of an AFL-CIO document containing a map of the Soviet Union, on which are pinpointed today's forced labor camps. Actually these are old-fashioned stalags, prototypes of the Nazi-Soviet political concentration camps of the '30s.

There are 56 of these concentration camps. Inside, guarded by the Soviet secret police, are men, women and children from the Baltic states and Middle and Eastern Europe, and "enemies of the state."

I wanted to show this map to a chap who had been inside the Soviet Union, and had traveled considerably through Siberia and, later, into Communist China. He must stay anonymous, but to pinpoint him just as far as is safe, he is a Frenchman in the heavy transport industry.

He corroborated the existence of most of the 56 slave labor camps, including the most notorious and heavily reported one at Vorkuta which many of us thought had faded into history with Nicolai Lenin.

There are camps where the political prisoners work at skilled trades. There are installations from which the faceless Orwellian non-people are dispatched to build airports, roads, hack at quarries, make cement and dig tunnels.

There are camps from which no one returns.

To all of these camps go political offenders as well as those charged with "hooliganism." The more important and better known personalities are kept in the big cities, however, as inmates of mental institutions.

The Moscow politburo no longer goes in for the old-fashioned heavy concentrations of prisoners, or the Stalin-era torturers of old Lubianka prison. Most of the concentration camps now have anywhere from 3,000 to 8,000 men, women and children.

The AFL-CIO's current mapping of these concentration camps updates an old chart which some of us tried to hand former Foreign Minister (now non-person) V. Moloto who contrived the Nazi-Soviet pact.

The original slave camp map was handed to him at the UN for comment years ago. This was the second time he merely threw the document to the floor as though it were a broadside by Thomas Jefferson.

Now this map is available to Kosygin and Brezhnev. It was mailed to them.

The first map was presented to the United Nations which investigated as best it could and finally condemned the USSR for its slave compounds in this 20th century.

Then in 1956, after Nikita Khruschev denounced Stalin's sadism at the Soviet party's 20th Congress, the Soviet Union began reducing the number of forced labor camps, "largely because they were uneconomical, and some of the inmates who were technically skilled were badly needed in speeding the development of Soviet economy, particultarly in arms production," says the AFL-CIO Free Trade Union Committee.

But in the past few years Khrushchev's "light" hand was replaced by the heavy fist of the Soviet Communist Party's Stalin-worshipping traditionalists.

Intellecturals have been persecuted and incarcerated in mental institutions. Minority nationals have been deprived of rights and dispatched to the concentration camps.

Dissident workers, taking seriously the talk of civil rights and freedom of action in the factories, also are shifted to the Eastern slave camps.

Most of these prisoners are sentenced under the July 26, 1966 decree known as "Increased Liability for Hooliganism."

To implement the decree the Soviets created a central "United Republican (federal) Ministry for the Preservation of Public Order." This, too, was set up on July 26, 1966.

Previously, each of the 15 Soviet Socialist Republics had it own security ministry. But on July 26 this police power again was centralized in the Kremlin as in Stalin's day.

There just is no doubt of the existence of these concentration camps as we race towards Orwell's 1984. The AFL-CIO's map proves this. And just to pick a few which the Soviets can open to newsmen, let me point out:

There are the Lumbovka Main Campsites Two and Three, and Lumbovka's Transient Camps (subcamps). Here, imprisoned Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Germans and Russians number some 8,000 including women and children. Here the prisoners mine precious metals, work on aircraft parts and construct roads.

There is Saborovo (this name may have been changed recently), with about 5,000 worker-prisoners. Here are Poles, Russians and a few Germans. They mine precious metals, build houses and roads.

There is Lebmorskaia, and several other sites under the same name. There are about 3,000 in each concentration camp in this grouping. They are moved out to build factories, airfields, railroads and roads, drill for oil and dig canals.

At Berezniki there is a heavy industry concentration worked by thousands of Poles, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians and Germans. Major product is heavy machinery.

And at Uka, there are some 6,000 Poles, Hungarians, Rumanians, Bulgarians, Germans and Russians.

What distinguishes this Soviet contribution to contemporary civilization is the fact that at Uka the prisoners are predominantly women.

The map is available. Have ticket. Will travel. All the orators and critics in the Kremlin need do is to permit some public inspection. Then we all will know that they have moved out of the 15th century.

ANYTHING IS OKAY IF YOU DON'T GET CAUGHT?

The American people have been given a snow-job that violence and vandalism is the result of poverty and some people now assume that the growing trend toward anarchy can be arrested by guaranteeing everyone economic security.

But the evidence is becoming more obvious every day that the rise in all forms of law-breaking, including rioting and looting, involves far more than the actions of desperate poverty-stricken people. Studies are showing that in cities such as Washington, D.C., most of the rioters and looters were in far from depressed economics circumstances. Many of those arrested held good jobs.

Another bit of evidence indicating the whys of our social troubles other than poverty is contained in a startling Satevepost article by Bill Davidson on shoplifting. Davidson's findings reveal an astounding decline in the character and integrity of a whole people.

Retailers lose from $1 billion to $3 billion annually to shoplifters. More than half of these thieves are teenagers. Where a decade ago there were only a few thousand shoplifting arrests among teenagers each week, there are now about 100,000 a week. These are the statistics. They are not nearly as chilling as the story behind them.

In the words of the Post, "The typical teenage shoplifter in the U.S. is a girl (girls outnumber boys by about 20 to 1 in this particular area of crime) . . . she is likely to be 16 years old . . . and her father probably in a business or professional man earning up to $15,000 a year or more. She gets a sizeable allowance and has enough money to buy all she needs." The teenage shoplifter does not think her particular form of theft is a crime, but rather a game. There is no moral understanding of right or wrong. At least part of the blame lies with parents. As a former FBI agent says, "Children learn by example. They see their mothers eating grapes in a supermarket without paying for them, or slipping sticks of butter into a margarine carton before going to the checking counter, and they develop the philosophy that it's all right to steal from a big, rich organization because nobody misses it. Then they hear Dad at home bragging about cheating his company on his expense account and the government on his income tax return. They're taught from childhood that anything's okay, just as long as you don't get caught."

So now merchants in many areas of the country are cooperating with police by prosecuting all offenders. They are also endeavoring to make their stores less vulnerable to would-be shoplifters. Several communities have educational campaigns to show the tragic consequences of petty thievery. Davidson cites the case of a 17-year-old physician's daughter who shoplifted a two-dollar costume jewelry brooch. The girl wants to become a lawyer but her police record may keep her out of college and prevent her from getting a good job.

An educational pamphlet entitled, "Teenagers Beware: Shoplifting Is A Crime," tells how a boy was denied entrance to Annapolis because a military security check revealed his conviction for stealing three cases of soda pop. Also how with a police record it can be difficult, in some cases impossible, to go into any business or profession where a special license is required, such as law or real estate brokerage.

There will be some folks who will see no connection between the Post story on shoplifting and the riots and looting, but there are many who will recognize the symptoms of a social ailment that has nothing to do with poverty.

ST. LOUIS WARD SUPPORT GOING UP IN COST

If stories coming out of St. Louis, written by knowledgeable reporters, are correct, this years Democratic Senatorial primary race may surpass all previous ones in amounts of money spent. The reports claim that in some St. Louis wards the leaders are demanding $10,000 to $15,000 as the price of support of a candidate. It has been customary for a candidate to supply $1,500 to $2,000 in some wards to pay campaign costs, but no such figures as these have ever before been suggested. If such amounts are paid by any candidate for the nomination, it's a fairly sure thing that much of it will go into the pickets of the leaders instead of into legitimate campaign expenses..

Fortunately for those in Monroe County and elsewhere in the state who support Tom Eagleton for the nomination, his name has not even been mentioned in connection with these proposed large payments -- neither Eagleton nor his supporters can afford it, and we don't believe Eagleton would attempt to buy votes that way even if he could afford to do so.

It will be a sad state of affairs in Missouri if it comes to the point where the candidate with the most money and often the fewest qualifications -- gets the nomination. That's another reason most Monroe Countians are for Eagleton. They want to nominate a man because of his ability, not money.

A FLIGHT FROM REALITY

In this Presidential election year, it is almost incredible that neither party's candidates and the public are showing concern towards what should be a major campaign issue—America's declining military strength relative to Russia's.

There is a lot of oratory about ending the Vietnam war and about the need for avoiding such entanglements in the future. But the announced candidates have had very little to say so far about the Soviet Union's determined drive for strategic superiority and what this may portend for the future security of this country and its closest allies.

The Presidential aspirants, it appears, are convinced that the American people don't want to hear about it. If this signifies an illusion that we can retreat to a "fortress America" while allowing the fortress itself to deteriorate, then we are truly engaged in a national flight from reality.

The basic facts are plain enough. During the last three years, while we have been concentrated on Vietnam, the Russians have pursued a crash program of missile-building. They have more than doubled their stock of inter-continental ballistic missiles in the past 18 months, according to informed sources. Thus, whereas, the U.S. has enjoyed as 3-to-1 lead as recently as 1966, Russia is now expected to surpass us in long-range, land-based missiles some time next year.

The Pentagon notes that we are still ahead in deliverable warheads, when bombers and submarine-fired missiles are taken into account. But the Soviet armaments industry continues to produce new bombers. Polaris-type missiles have been developed, and Russian installation of an anti-missile system is far ahead of our own.

In addition, the Kremlin has developed and tested an orbital missile which can be fired from space.

Our own strategic weapons programs, meanwhile, have starved for funds as part of the budget squeeze brought on by heavy spending for Vietnam.

The fact is that the emerging Soviet threat to the United States and the Free World is, by any standard, as serious as the one posed ten years ago by the first generation of Soviet missiles.

Defense officials are confident that the United States can stay ahead—but not without heavy investments, which, of course, must compete with demands for higher spending to alleviate poverty and the like.

National security may not get its share, even after the war in Vietnam ends, unless national leaders speak up on the subject. But the ominous Soviet build-up has been given surprisingly little public attention by any of our Presidential candidates.

Possibly the people don't want to hear about a subject so dire to our personal safety, for there appears to be no sense of national urgency as yet.

But we cannot afford to stick our heads in the sand and hope to avoid a national defense problem, and Presidential candidates should lay the facts on the line.

NEW YORK (AP) — What's the use of being middle-aged if you can't brag about it?

Oddly enough, some people can't. They take their entrance into the middle years of life as a defeat rather than a victory, as a kind of dead end rather than as just another interesting corridor.

Others retreat into pretense and try to hide the fact they are middle-aged. Trying to hide middle age is like trying to smuggle an elephant through a subway turnstile. It isn't an easy thing to do, and it can be very wearing on the spirit.

If you are middle-aged and are trying to disguise it, you must limit your conduct in many careful ways. For example you can't—

Dance the Charleston.

Described the taste of bathtub gin.

Claim that Man O'War could beat Damascus by three lengths in a mile and a quarter race with one hoof tied behind his back.

Argue that golf has gone steadily downhill since Bobby Jones hung up his putter.

Point out how much more useful congressmen were to the people in the days when you could write them a letter and get back a packet of free seeds instead of merely a polite acknowledgment.

Pick up a mandolin or a ukelele and absent-mindedly strum a melody from it no one else has heard in ages.

Muse aloud on the merits of the $2 hotel room and the nickel glass of beer.

Boast that you once shook the hand of a man who had once shook the hand of mighty John L. Sullivan.

Give from personal experience the reasons why you think the Stutz Bearcat was the greatest automobile ever built in America.

Admit that you ever read a novel by Elinor Glyn, Gene Stratton Porter, or John Fox Jr.

Quote a poem by Edgar Guest.

Yep, if you're trying to hide the truth of your years, there are a lot of things you can't do. But is the effort worthwhile?

What's the use of being middle-aged if you aren't free to brag about the vanished glories of your wayfaring, the souvenirs of your passing that make up your living being?

Everyone knows that The Boss doesn't like to see anyone acting up down Texas way in a manner that might prove offensive to the neighbors. And the Turner and Spivack team did just that in one of the finales for which they have become noted. On this occasion, just as a Houston bank merger was about to be completed, the Anti - Trust team came screeching into court with a chorus of "Stop the merger!"

That ain't funny, son, especially down in Texas where banking is on a plane with home and mother. Indeed, you might say that Turner and Spivack suffered a political prattfall as a result of that show. They splattered the President's image among the homefolks.

This followed at least two other public appearances of the team which received a lot of publicity, but neither rave reviews nor loud acclaim. One of these routines dealt with advertising, and the script called for having the Justice Department tell American companies how much they'd be allowed to spend for newspaper space, TV commercials, etc. You can imagine how businessmen applauded that proposal.

Turner and Spivack rushed onstage as the curtain was coming down and said they couldn't do any such thing. And this proved to be a real show-stopper — in reverse.

One of these days, we would expect to find one of those notices in Variety, or on the White House press table, announcing that a certain team is "at liberty."

The woman gasped, giggled, wriggled and writhed as she tried to get the ice cubes out. With all eyes on her she leaped to her feet, overturning the table and knocking her escort to the floor. Then the two hurried out in wild confusion.

"Waiter," called an on-looker on the other side of the room, "we'll have two of whatever they had."

NO SPECTATOR SPORT

Saving freedom is not a spectator sport. If Republic USA is to survive, it will be because courageous Americans of all ages are willing to pit their strength against the anti-freedom conspiracy. That is the only way.

Active patriotism is a road open to every citizen who believes in the principles so forcefully stated by the Founders of Freedom. Indifference can result in the loss of all that we cherish most.

For a long time freedom's enemies have been able to advance their cause by creating an atmosphere in which everyday Americans were made to feel that there was something not quite right about patriotism. But now a change is taking place.

The enthusiastic reception given young people involved in the speading Youth Freedom Speakers movement shows that the public will pay attention to freedom messages and constructive leadership. More and more patriots are speaking their minds in the "Letters to the Editor" columns of daily newspapers. Customers of business are taking the trouble to commend commercial firms that use patriotism in their advertising. Pro-freedom books are finding a larger audience than ever before.

These are good signs that patriotism is in fact bringing about a turn to the right in America. This patriotism means love of one's own country without hating any other. Constructive citizens have neither heart nor time for hate. There is too much to be done on the positive side to waste time on hate. Active patriots, who understand that saving freedom is not a spectator sport, are our hope for the future. HLH

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Sen. Ellender's movie-taking costs taxpayers $20,687; Miami hotels tighten security for GOP candidates; congressional jet set packs for Miami and Chicago

WASHINGTON - The senate's most idefatigable sightseer, 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has worked out a unique scheme for letting the taxpayers pay for his amateur movies.

Ellender totes a movie camera around the world and takes dozens of reels for the wonderment of those at home who, out of respect for his senate seniority, let themselves be collared into attending his illustrated lectures. He also packs a supply of little black notebooks, in which he jots his most trivial impressions, later to be published at the taxpayers' expense as official senate reports.

It had always been thought that Ellender's movie-making was a personal hobby paid out of his own picket. But the secret has now leaked out that the taxpayers also help foot the bill for "Ellender's productions."

As senate agriculture chairman, Ellender has enormous influence over the destiny of the agriculture department. It may not be altogether surprising, therefore, that one of the agriculture department's unmentioned services for the nation's farmers is to process Ellender's movies.

The agriculture department splices Ellender's fascinating footage, and adds a sound track featuring the voice of none other than Allen Ellender narrating his own travelogue. For three films this has now cost the taxpayers $20,687.

The agriculture department is prohibited from doing work for individuals, so Ellender arranged for the department to bill the senate recording studio. This is a technicality which saves the taxpayers exactly nothing.

Ellender's first effort to make a travelogue out of his home movies, back in 1963, cost the taxpayers $7,840. The taxpayers paid $11,000 last year for a lengthier Ellender production. And he has just completed a short documentary of his latest trip for $1,847. He expropriated the senate caucus room the other day for a preview, which was attended by dutiful senate employees, a few senators who couldn't think of an alibi and one or two devoted Ellender fans.

Note: The main attractions in Ellender's travelogues, according to first nighters, are sceneu of native markets.

--NEW PROTECTION IN MIAMI--

The shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy in a crowded hotel has caused secret security reappraisals at the Miami Beach hotels where the Republican candidates will be staying. Both the Hilton Plaza hotel, where Richard Nixon has reservations, and the Americana hotel, where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller will stay, have arranged elaborate new security precautions. The entire floors where the candidates' rooms are located will be sealed off. Both hotels have also given their employees a thorough new screening since the Kennedy assassination.

--CONGRESSIONAL VACATIONS--

Members of congress are about to take a month off from their $30,000 jobs at the busiest time of the year, to head for Miami and Chicago. This, however, is only part of the vacation schedule.

What most people don't know is that senators and congressmen are absent from Washington much of the time -- for holidays, long weekends and foreign junkets at the taxpayers' expense. The only group which does more vacationing is the international "jet set."

Industrious members object to the gold-bricking, which has become a way of life to most of their senior colleagues. Hard-working, young Reps. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., and Patsy Mink, D-Hawaii, circulated a petition some time back for a five-day work week. They got nowhere. Scheuer and Mink wanted to outlaw the "Tuesday-Thursday club," whose members, chiefly from New York and the east, leave town on Thursday and return Tuesday.

Result is that work which should be done early in the year piles up near adjournment. Senate and house members are now complaining about the backlog of legislation that is holding up adjournment. But the truth is that they themselves created the backlog by neglecting their duties earlier in this session.

Official holidays, as distinct from long weekends, begin in February, with Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Many go home again for the Jefferson-Jackson day dinners in the spring. Then there is Easter, when congress takes a recess, followed by a long weekend on Memorial Day and another on the Fourth of July.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, who foot the bills for all this, the political conventions, which bring the longest vacation of all, occur only once every four years.

--HHH'S EMPTY CHEST--

Lack of campaign funds has slowed down Hubert Humphrey's campaign for President. He was unable to come up with the down payment that his New York advertising agency, Doyle, Dane & Bernbach, had required to start an advertising barrage. As a result, the campaign is already three weeks behind schedule.

At first, the money poured into Humphrey's campaign chest, largely from businessmen who were afraid of Robert Kennedy and not enthusiastic about Richard Nixon. Since Kennedy's death this money has dried up. Businessmen are bank-rolling Rockefeller instead.

Humprhey's treasurer, Sidney Weinberg, who raised funds for the Eisenhower campaign and is now supposed to be tapping Wall Street for Humphrey, is coming up almost empty-handed.

Incidentally, Humphrey has told friends that he definitely intends to speak to Sen. Ted Kennedy about the vice presidential nomination. Humphrey didn't want to rush matters after Bobby's death. But the vice president is on warm terms with Ted Kennedy and thinks Kennedy would add the most strength to his ticket. The man he would really prefer as his running mate, however, is Sen. Ed. Muskie of Maine.

Inside Labor

BACK TO STALIN

Soviets Building New Network Of Forced Labor Concentration Camps

Prague: -- Even with someone from the underground, it is an easy drive now from the intrigue-laden Hotel Yalta here to the shoddy square in Pilsen for good beer, and a run back to a midpoint rendezvous at the site of the Czech version of a hot dog stand.

In my picket were several copies of an AFL-CIO document containing a map of the Soviet Union, on which are pinpointed today's forced labor camps. Actually these are old-fashioned stalags, prototypes of the Nazi-Soviet political concentration camps of the '30s.

There are 56 of these concentration camps. Inside, guarded by the Soviet secret police, are men, women and children from the Baltic states and Middle and Eastern Europe, and "enemies of the state."

I wanted to show this map to a chap who had been inside the Soviet Union, and had traveled considerably through Siberia and, later, into Communist China. He must stay anonymous, but to pinpoint him just as far as is safe, he is a Frenchman in the heavy transport industry.

He corroborated the existence of most of the 56 slave labor camps, including the most notorious and heavily reported one at Vorkuta which many of us thought had faded into history with Nicolai Lenin.

There are camps where the political prisoners work at skilled trades. There are installations from which the faceless Orwellian non-people are dispatched to build airports, roads, hack at quarries, make cement and dig tunnels.

There are camps from which no one returns.

To all of these camps go political offenders as well as those charged with "hooliganism." The more important and better known personalities are kept in the big cities, however, as inmates of mental institutions.

The Moscow politburo no longer goes in for the old-fashioned heavy concentrations of prisoners, or the Stalin-era torturers of old Lubianka prison. Most of the concentration camps now have anywhere from 3,000 to 8,000 men, women and children.

The AFL-CIO's current mapping of these concentration camps updates an old chart which some of us tried to hand former Foreign Minister (now non-person) V. Moloto who contrived the Nazi-Soviet pact.

The original slave camp map was handed to him at the UN for comment years ago. This was the second time he merely threw the document to the floor as though it were a broadside by Thomas Jefferson.

Now this map is available to Kosygin and Brezhnev. It was mailed to them.

The first map was presented to the United Nations which investigated as best it could and finally condemned the USSR for its slave compounds in this 20th century.

Then in 1956, after Nikita Khruschev denounced Stalin's sadism at the Soviet party's 20th Congress, the Soviet Union began reducing the number of forced labor camps, "largely because they were uneconomical, and some of the inmates who were technically skilled were badly needed in speeding the development of Soviet economy, particultarly in arms production," says the AFL-CIO Free Trade Union Committee.

But in the past few years Khrushchev's "light" hand was replaced by the heavy fist of the Soviet Communist Party's Stalin-worshipping traditionalists.

Intellecturals have been persecuted and incarcerated in mental institutions. Minority nationals have been deprived of rights and dispatched to the concentration camps.

Dissident workers, taking seriously the talk of civil rights and freedom of action in the factories, also are shifted to the Eastern slave camps.

Most of these prisoners are sentenced under the July 26, 1966 decree known as "Increased Liability for Hooliganism."

To implement the decree the Soviets created a central "United Republican (federal) Ministry for the Preservation of Public Order." This, too, was set up on July 26, 1966.

Previously, each of the 15 Soviet Socialist Republics had it own security ministry. But on July 26 this police power again was centralized in the Kremlin as in Stalin's day.

There just is no doubt of the existence of these concentration camps as we race towards Orwell's 1984. The AFL-CIO's map proves this. And just to pick a few which the Soviets can open to newsmen, let me point out:

There are the Lumbovka Main Campsites Two and Three, and Lumbovka's Transient Camps (subcamps). Here, imprisoned Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Germans and Russians number some 8,000 including women and children. Here the prisoners mine precious metals, work on aircraft parts and construct roads.

There is Saborovo (this name may have been changed recently), with about 5,000 worker-prisoners. Here are Poles, Russians and a few Germans. They mine precious metals, build houses and roads.

There is Lebmorskaia, and several other sites under the same name. There are about 3,000 in each concentration camp in this grouping. They are moved out to build factories, airfields, railroads and roads, drill for oil and dig canals.

At Berezniki there is a heavy industry concentration worked by thousands of Poles, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians and Germans. Major product is heavy machinery.

And at Uka, there are some 6,000 Poles, Hungarians, Rumanians, Bulgarians, Germans and Russians.

What distinguishes this Soviet contribution to contemporary civilization is the fact that at Uka the prisoners are predominantly women.

The map is available. Have ticket. Will travel. All the orators and critics in the Kremlin need do is to permit some public inspection. Then we all will know that they have moved out of the 15th century.

Grier Calls It Quits

By The Associated Press

A Los Angeles Rams' spokesman said Tuesday the 35-yearold Grier, a defensive tackle for 11 National Football League seasons, has retired to devote his time to show business.

When McDowell, an offensive tackle who was the Miami Dolphins' ninth-round draft choice, signed his contract, it was stipulated that he report to camp

McDowell reported Tuesday, stepped on the scales and the needle bounced to the maximum 350 pounds. His total weight could be only estimated.

He was held out of the American Football League's first fullscale workout, and Joe Thomas, director of player personnel, said a decision on McDowell's status would be made shortly.

In a National Football League trade Tuesday, the Dallas Cowboys acquired kicker Mike Clark from the Pittsburgh Steelers for an undisclosed draft choice. Clark is expected to fill a vacancy created when Danny Villanueva retired last week.

Officials of the NFL Falcons said Richardson quit when his demand for a three-game guarantee for the 1968 season was refused. Richardson needed to be activated for at least three more games to be eligible for a five-year NFL pension.

A spokesman for the AFL Jets said he didn't expect Randall to return. Club officials said he was unhappy and had several business opportunities.

Tackle John Johnson, a fiveyear NFL veteran, and rookie halfback Gary Lyle still had not reported to the Chicago Bears' camp, and Coach Jim Dooley said each would be fined $250 for every day they are absent.

Dooley also announced that defensive back Roosevelt Taylor had signed.

And George Halas Jr. announced the Bears are willing to trade defensive back Richie Pettibon to New Orleans for the Saints' No. 1 draft pick. Pettibon recently announced he would retire if not traded to the Saints because he cannot leave New Orleans for business reasons.

Veterans John Wooten and Ross Fichtner, put on waivers by Cleveland recently after stories broke concerning an alleged racial slight, became free agents after no other NFL club claimed them. Wooten, a guard, is a Negro. Defensive back Fichtner is white.

Congratulations to both.

Maris Makes Presence Felt

ST. LOUIS AP - Everybody is trying to retire Roger Maris and the Philadelphia Phillies are having as tough a time as the sports writers trying to do it.

Maris is roaming around right field for the St. Louis Cardinals again after watching several games from the bench. And he's doing the big job at the plate again, too. He did it Tuesday night with a pair of doubles that drove in four runs in three innings as the Cardinals trounced the Phillies 11-5.

"I see it a lot and I'm aware of it," Maris admitted, "but I don't pay much attention to it. It's been all speculation so far and as long as I put on this uniform I have to do the best I can."

Among his best was a two - run double in the first inning as the Cardinals scored five runs off starter Rick Wise, 6-7. The Cards collected an unearned run in the second, then four more runs the next inning. Maris had another two - run double in the third.

The 33-year-old outfielder has a beer distributorship and a comforable future to look forward to, and he's aware some people believe he's dogging it.

"Every dog has his day," Roger grinned.

"That's one thing I don't want to have happen," Maris said quietly. "I don't want to look bad. No one ever goes out there to look bad. You give it the best you can and sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't."

It was working pretty good for Orlando Cepeda also. The Cardinal first baseman was pulled out for a pinch hitter the night before, the first time it's even happened to him. And he wasn't supposed to play Tuesday night but he was in the line-up.

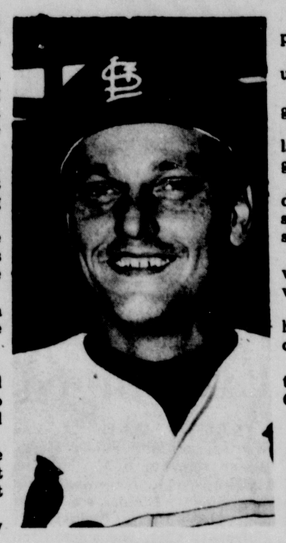

Cepeda had two hits and scored three runs to help winner Larry Jaster, 8-5, and Dick Hughes, who worked the last four innings.

"I didn't have to tell him Manager Red Schoendienst I wanted to play," Orlando said. "I was going to, but I saw my name was in the line - up."

Cepeda admittedly has had a bad time of it at the plate lately. Schoendienst was going to rest him, but Orlando said he doesn't need any rest.

"I felt great tonight," Orlando said. "I was tired last week. I felt good last night Monday too."

But sometimes when he was at bat he felt less than great.

Roger Maris

"I don't have any patience, I'm rushing. Unusually, when I go up to the plate I challenge anybody."

Jaster was rapped for all of Philly's runs, but he wasn't about to give back the victory.

"I'll take it," the Cardinals' quiet man said. "They beat me 1-0 last time I faced them, so I'll take this one. My control wasn't good. Everything was either up or not in a good spot."

Tony Gonzales drove in two runs off Jaster and Roberto Pena drove another pair. But when Rick Joseph hit a pinch hit homer to start the sixth that was it for Jaster. Dick Hughes held Philadelphia scoreless the rest of the way.

"I felt a little strange," Hughes laughed. "I'm usually good when I have my control. This time I was lucky to throw the ball where I wanted 50 per cent of the time."

Phillies' Manager Bob Skinner said it was just another case of his pitching not holding up. The hitting, he said, has been pretty consistent.

Grier Calls It Quits

By The Associated Press

A Los Angeles Rams' spokesman said Tuesday the 35-yearold Grier, a defensive tackle for 11 National Football League seasons, has retired to devote his time to show business.

When McDowell, an offensive tackle who was the Miami Dolphins' ninth-round draft choice, signed his contract, it was stipulated that he report to camp

McDowell reported Tuesday, stepped on the scales and the needle bounced to the maximum 350 pounds. His total weight could be only estimated.

He was held out of the American Football League's first fullscale workout, and Joe Thomas, director of player personnel, said a decision on McDowell's status would be made shortly.

In a National Football League trade Tuesday, the Dallas Cowboys acquired kicker Mike Clark from the Pittsburgh Steelers for an undisclosed draft choice. Clark is expected to fill a vacancy created when Danny Villanueva retired last week.

Officials of the NFL Falcons said Richardson quit when his demand for a three-game guarantee for the 1968 season was refused. Richardson needed to be activated for at least three more games to be eligible for a five-year NFL pension.

A spokesman for the AFL Jets said he didn't expect Randall to return. Club officials said he was unhappy and had several business opportunities.

Tackle John Johnson, a fiveyear NFL veteran, and rookie halfback Gary Lyle still had not reported to the Chicago Bears' camp, and Coach Jim Dooley said each would be fined $250 for every day they are absent.

Dooley also announced that defensive back Roosevelt Taylor had signed.

And George Halas Jr. announced the Bears are willing to trade defensive back Richie Pettibon to New Orleans for the Saints' No. 1 draft pick. Pettibon recently announced he would retire if not traded to the Saints because he cannot leave New Orleans for business reasons.

Veterans John Wooten and Ross Fichtner, put on waivers by Cleveland recently after stories broke concerning an alleged racial slight, became free agents after no other NFL club claimed them. Wooten, a guard, is a Negro. Defensive back Fichtner is white.

A Scramble tournament for members of the Sikeston Golf Association will be held at the Country Club tomorrow.

Registration must be made before teeoff at 5:15 p.m. at the pro shop.

A meeting in hopes of forming a SEMO duck hunting association is set for 8:30 p.m.Thursday at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building in Cape Girardeau.

A retriever trial meet will be held Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the Marquette Cement Lakes near Cape Girardeau.

Everyone is invited to attend, whether they want to run their dogs or view the trial.

Allen Blanton and Bernard Rice, brothers-in-law, made away with the prizes over the weekend during the Missouri Press Association golf tournamanet.

Bernard won first place in class B while Allen took the trophy with the disgusted golfer breaking his club over his knee for the second straight year.

Congratulations to both.

Here comes the judge....Sickal that is.

Judge James Sickal, won fourth place in class D of Sunday's invitational at the Country Club.

A number of golfers were to have sung the judge's favorite song...."Here Come's the Judge"'

Walt Hazzard, seventh — leading scorer in the National Basketball Association last season, signed a new one-year contract with the Seattle Supersonics Monday.

Maris Makes Presence Felt

ST. LOUIS AP - Everybody is trying to retire Roger Maris and the Philadelphia Phillies are having as tough a time as the sports writers trying to do it.

Maris is roaming around right field for the St. Louis Cardinals again after watching several games from the bench. And he's doing the big job at the plate again, too. He did it Tuesday night with a pair of doubles that drove in four runs in three innings as the Cardinals trounced the Phillies 11-5.

"I see it a lot and I'm aware of it," Maris admitted, "but I don't pay much attention to it. It's been all speculation so far and as long as I put on this uniform I have to do the best I can."

Among his best was a two - run double in the first inning as the Cardinals scored five runs off starter Rick Wise, 6-7. The Cards collected an unearned run in the second, then four more runs the next inning. Maris had another two - run double in the third.

The 33-year-old outfielder has a beer distributorship and a comforable future to look forward to, and he's aware some people believe he's dogging it.

"Every dog has his day," Roger grinned.

"That's one thing I don't want to have happen," Maris said quietly. "I don't want to look bad. No one ever goes out there to look bad. You give it the best you can and sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't."

It was working pretty good for Orlando Cepeda also. The Cardinal first baseman was pulled out for a pinch hitter the night before, the first time it's even happened to him. And he wasn't supposed to play Tuesday night but he was in the line-up.

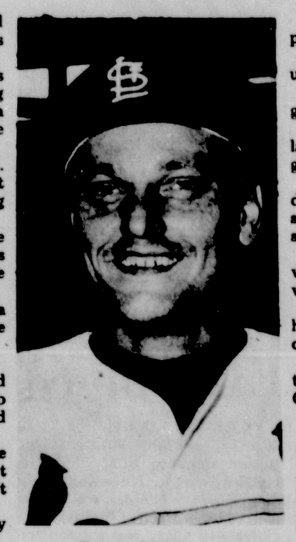

Cepeda had two hits and scored three runs to help winner Larry Jaster, 8-5, and Dick Hughes, who worked the last four innings.

"I didn't have to tell him Manager Red Schoendienst I wanted to play," Orlando said. "I was going to, but I saw my name was in the line - up."

Cepeda admittedly has had a bad time of it at the plate lately. Schoendienst was going to rest him, but Orlando said he doesn't need any rest.

"I felt great tonight," Orlando said. "I was tired last week. I felt good last night Monday too."

But sometimes when he was at bat he felt less than great.

Roger Maris

"I don't have any patience, I'm rushing. Unusually, when I go up to the plate I challenge anybody."

Jaster was rapped for all of Philly's runs, but he wasn't about to give back the victory.

"I'll take it," the Cardinals' quiet man said. "They beat me 1-0 last time I faced them, so I'll take this one. My control wasn't good. Everything was either up or not in a good spot."

Tony Gonzales drove in two runs off Jaster and Roberto Pena drove another pair. But when Rick Joseph hit a pinch hit homer to start the sixth that was it for Jaster. Dick Hughes held Philadelphia scoreless the rest of the way.

"I felt a little strange," Hughes laughed. "I'm usually good when I have my control. This time I was lucky to throw the ball where I wanted 50 per cent of the time."

Phillies' Manager Bob Skinner said it was just another case of his pitching not holding up. The hitting, he said, has been pretty consistent.

NEW YORK AP - Dr. Marvin Goldberg, American manager of Argentina heavyweight, Oscar Bonavena, said Tuesday night he had received word Bonavena had injured his right hand in training.

The injury forced postponement of his Aug. 3 Buenos Aires bout with Leotis Martin of Philadelphia. Goldberg said the fight had been rescheduled for Sept. 7.

NEW YORK AP - No successor to Donald C. Lillis as president and chief executive officer of the New York football Jets will be named until a meeting of the board of directors. Lillis, 66, died Tuesday of a heart ailment at Watch Hill, R.I.

OLIVETTE, Mo. (AP) — Police reported Thursday they arrested a 16-year-old girl and seized $1,400 in a shoe box which she said she made selling LSD and other drugs to high school students in Ladue, Olivette and other well-to-do high schools in west St. Louis County.

The girl was booked suspected of violating the juvenile code by sale of stimulant drugs. Her name was withheld.

Two officers said they saw a youth, who agreed to work with them in the case, receive an amphetamine capsule which the girl handed out her bedroom window. The sale was approved by telephone. The youth gave her two marked $5 bills.

The girl told officers she made the money during the last three weeks selling drugs. Police said she admitted obtaining the drugs from a man she met through a student at Washington University.

She said she paid the man $350 for 100 capsules of LSD, sending him a portion of the payment at an address in Oakland, Calif.

Police said they have been investigating reports of drug sales in the area for the last seven months.

MRS. WILLIAM POPE, 115 South Martin, East Prairie, arranges potato dumplings around sauerbraten.

Mrs. William Pope, East Prairie, Sews, Gardens

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 96th in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By RUTH DILLENDER

Mrs. Pope and her husband, William, have two sons, Billy, a graduate of Murray State University, Murray, Ky., and Tommy, who will be a senior at East Prairie high school this fall. The younger son is a member of the band, madrigal singers and mixed chorus. He served Boy Scout camp counselor last summer.

Pope ownes Pope Motor Sales. The family lives at 115 South Martin.

Mrs. Pope says her hobbies are gardening, reading, sewing and painting. She grows flowers and vegetables.

She is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Women's Improvement club.

The family attends Nelson Memorial Methodist church.

Receipes Mrs. Pope suggests are:

SAUERBRATEN

3 to 3½ pound boneless beef rump

Heat 1½ cups red wine vinegar and 2½ cups water to boiling. Remove from heat.

In large, deep crock or ovenware glass bowl, combine 2 bay leaves, ½ teaspoon peppercorns, 8 whole cloves, 1 large sliced onion, 1 small minced carrot and 1 stalk chopped celery.

Rub beef thoroughly with 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Place in crock. Pour hot vinegar mixture over beef. Cool. Refrigerate for 24- 48 hours, turning meat at least twice daily.

When ready to cook, remove heat from bowl. Dry with paper towels. Melt about ¼ cup of shortening in Dutch oven or large kettle and brown on all sides. Strain the liquid marinade and pour over meat. Cover tightly and simmer slowly 2½-3 hours or until tender.

Remove from kettle, slice and keep warm while making gingersnap gravy. Serve with the gravy and potato dumplings.

GINGERSNAP GRAVY

Melt 2 tablespoons sugar in skillet, stirring constantly until golden brown. Gradually stir in 1½ cups hot marinade from sauerbraten and ½ cup water. Add ½ cup gingersnap crumbs, about 6-8 gingersnaps. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens. This is a rather thin gravy. If desired, add ½ cup sour cream. Salt to taste. Ladle some oversauerbraten and pass remainder to gravy bowl.

WATERMELON PICKLE

3 cups vinegar
4 cups sugar
1 stick cinnamon, broken small
1 tablespon nutmeg
1 tablespoon mace, whole cloves
3 pounds watermelon rind
2 lemons

Boil vinegar and sugar. Add spices in a cheesecloth bag. Dice the watermelon rind which has been cut with a little of the pink left on. Cook the syrup for a few minutes. Pour over the watermelon and let stand overnight.

Next morning, drain off syrup, boil spices and syrup for a few minutes and again pour over rind. Repeat this for 2 more days. Then boil the rind in syrup for 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, cook 5 minutes and pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

STUFFED WHOLE CABBAGE

1 head cabbage
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup bread crumbs
1 beaten egg
1-1½ cups cooked pork or chicken
Salt and pepper

Cut out the heart of the cabbage. Mix together crumbs, egg and meat and season highly.

Place cabbage in plastic bag to keep leaves in place and place in deep saucepan or kettle. Cover with boiling water. Simmer until cabbage is tender, about ½ hour. Remove from water, take off bag, melt butter on top of cabbage.

Serves six to eight.

CORN SALAD OR RELISH

10 ears corn
1 green pepper
½ red pepper
2 onions
½ teaspoon celery seed
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
1 and one third cups vinegar
1 and one third cups sugar
One third teaspoon turmeric

Select fresh corn, remove from cob and mix with other ingredients. Boil all together, slowly for ½ hour. Seal in sterilized jars.

Zest for Living Keeps Albert on Go

EDITOR'S NOTE — Actor Eddie Albert's public personality at the moment is that of the innocent city sucker being victimized by the country slickers in the CBS comedy series, "Green Acres." Everyone knows, however, that it is merely acting, for in recent months he appeared with an inspirational reading on a variety show or as the narrator of a special "How Life Begins," describing sex for young viewers. Here Albert reveals his serious, offcamera self.

By EDDIE ALBERT

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I don't want to be the biggest star in the entertainment world, and the main reason is that there's so little time. The bigger you are, the more of your time it takes up, and the less time you have to investigate the world around you and its wonders.

In my youth I deliberately set out to become a vagabond and a drifter as part of my growth, but after I'd had my fill I realized that there are more subtle ways of exploring.

Once Burl Ives and I got the urge to see what it was like to be alone in a Mexican desert with a gun, a guitar and two cans of tomato juice. We got lost and came back across the border on Dec. 7, 1941.

My urge for adventure was taken care of for the next two years in the Pacific, where I saw action on Tarawa and came out of the war with spiritual shell shock.

For the past 12 years my major hobby has been horticulture. I practice two techniques, liquid culture and organic gardening. I grow normal and abnormal plants, giving the latter the chemical treatment, and I take special pride in the size and beauty of the flowers.

I get some of the seeds from the research people at Oak Ridge who study the effects of radiation on various substances. The mutations are unpredictable — I never know if I'm going to rear a monster or a marvel.

I read about a trip down the Danube in a canoe, so I flew to Europe and paddled my own canoe over the same route in 1965. I once read a book which sent me on an introspective journey to a tiny island off Nova Scotia to meditate. Unfortunately, I became ill and had to be brought out by oxcart.

I made a film called "Human Growth" which caused some controversy in 1947 because it taught 12-year-olds about sex. It is now something of a classroom classic, I understand, and to my great joy it won a prize at the Venice Film Festival in 1965.

I want to make a film short in which a Catholic boy explains Judaism to a Protestant boy, a Protestant boy explains Catholicism to a Jewish boy and a Jewish boy explains Protestantism to a Catholic boy.

I'd like to take that canoe trip down the Danube again, this time with my son, and stop at Budapest and sing with the Gypsies in Romania.

I want to live to be 100.

There's so little time.

Foreign Aid Bill Runs Into Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's foreign aid program, a continuing target of an economy-minded Congress, has suffered another setback.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday refused to restore the nearly $1 billion cut by the House last week from the President's original $2.9 billion request. In fact, the committee trimmed another $22.9 million on its own.

Observers said by the time the overseas proposals get through being worked over in today's committee hearings, future debate on the Senate floor, and certain reduction in separate appropriations bills the program might barely total half of what was asked.

The foreign assistance program has been in increasing difficulties since a year ago when Congress first demanded multibillion-dollar spending cuts in return for passage of the President's 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has predicted the money bill may be $400 million under the authorization an ultimate appropriation of less than $1.6 billion.

The authorization measure sets policy and money ceilings. The appropriations bill fixes the amount that may actually be spent.

A combination of factors has sent the aid program to its lowest level in its 21-year history.

It has its longtime critics who have termed it a giveaway that made no friends for this country.

They have been joined in recent years by former supporters who now oppose the program to register opposition to the Vietnam war and its costs. The bill contains substantial amounts for the civilian economy of Vietnam, but the major war costs are in the Defense Department budget.

Thompson Cited for Vietnam Service

FORT ORD, Calif. -- Major Joseph E. Thompson Jr., son of Mrs. Leon Payne, 619 Greer, Sikeston, Mo., and Joseph E. Thompson Sr. of Morehouse, Mo., received the bronze star medal and the air medal for meritorious service. He is an army 4th Brigade executive officer.

Major Thompson served with the 5th special forces in Vietnam from November of 1966 to November of 1967. He was cited for "his rapid assessment and solution of numberous problems inherent in a counter - insurgency environment.

From January of 1967 to May of 1967, Major Thompson participated in more than 25 aerial missions.

Thompson was reared in the Morehouse area. He has been in the service 19 years.

A LOT OF BOATS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — There are 200,000 registered pleasure boats in Florida, according to John T. Lowe, member of the Jacksonville-Duval County Recreation Planning Committee.

At present there is no age limit in Florida for owning or piloting a boat. All boats must be registered with the State Board of Conservation and are required to display the registration number at all times.

Otto Richmond, 87, a retired farmer, suffered a heart attack late Saturday at his home. He was taken by ambulance Saturday to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau and placed in the intensive care unit. He is responding to treatment.

Receipes Mrs. Pope suggests are:

SAUERBRATEN

3 to 3½ pound boneless beef rump

Heat 1½ cups red wine vinegar and 2½ cups water to boiling. Remove from heat.

In large, deep crock or ovenware glass bowl, combine 2 bay leaves, ½ teaspoon peppercorns, 8 whole cloves, 1 large sliced onion, 1 small minced carrot and 1 stalk chopped celery.

Rub beef thoroughly with 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Place in crock. Pour hot vinegar mixture over beef. Cool. Refrigerate for 24- 48 hours, turning meat at least twice daily.

When ready to cook, remove heat from bowl. Dry with paper towels. Melt about ¼ cup of shortening in Dutch oven or large kettle and brown on all sides. Strain the liquid marinade and pour over meat. Cover tightly and simmer slowly 2½-3 hours or until tender.

Remove from kettle, slice and keep warm while making gingersnap gravy. Serve with the gravy and potato dumplings.

GINGERSNAP GRAVY

Melt 2 tablespoons sugar in skillet, stirring constantly until golden brown. Gradually stir in 1½ cups hot marinade from sauerbraten and ½ cup water. Add ½ cup gingersnap crumbs, about 6-8 gingersnaps. Cook, stirring until mixture thickens. This is a rather thin gravy. If desired, add ½ cup sour cream. Salt to taste. Ladle some oversauerbraten and pass remainder to gravy bowl.

WATERMELON PICKLE

3 cups vinegar
4 cups sugar
1 stick cinnamon, broken small
1 tablespon nutmeg
1 tablespoon mace, whole cloves
3 pounds watermelon rind
2 lemons

Boil vinegar and sugar. Add spices in a cheesecloth bag. Dice the watermelon rind which has been cut with a little of the pink left on. Cook the syrup for a few minutes. Pour over the watermelon and let stand overnight.

Next morning, drain off syrup, boil spices and syrup for a few minutes and again pour over rind. Repeat this for 2 more days. Then boil the rind in syrup for 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, cook 5 minutes and pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

STUFFED WHOLE CABBAGE

1 head cabbage
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup bread crumbs
1 beaten egg
1-1½ cups cooked pork or chicken
Salt and pepper

Cut out the heart of the cabbage. Mix together crumbs, egg and meat and season highly.

Place cabbage in plastic bag to keep leaves in place and place in deep saucepan or kettle. Cover with boiling water. Simmer until cabbage is tender, about ½ hour. Remove from water, take off bag, melt butter on top of cabbage.

Serves six to eight.

CORN SALAD OR RELISH

10 ears corn
1 green pepper
½ red pepper
2 onions
½ teaspoon celery seed
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
1 and one third cups vinegar
1 and one third cups sugar
One third teaspoon turmeric

Select fresh corn, remove from cob and mix with other ingredients. Boil all together, slowly for ½ hour. Seal in sterilized jars.

Zest for Living Keeps Albert on Go

EDITOR'S NOTE — Actor Eddie Albert's public personality at the moment is that of the innocent city sucker being victimized by the country slickers in the CBS comedy series, "Green Acres." Everyone knows, however, that it is merely acting, for in recent months he appeared with an inspirational reading on a variety show or as the narrator of a special "How Life Begins," describing sex for young viewers. Here Albert reveals his serious, offcamera self.

By EDDIE ALBERT

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I don't want to be the biggest star in the entertainment world, and the main reason is that there's so little time. The bigger you are, the more of your time it takes up, and the less time you have to investigate the world around you and its wonders.

In my youth I deliberately set out to become a vagabond and a drifter as part of my growth, but after I'd had my fill I realized that there are more subtle ways of exploring.

Once Burl Ives and I got the urge to see what it was like to be alone in a Mexican desert with a gun, a guitar and two cans of tomato juice. We got lost and came back across the border on Dec. 7, 1941.

My urge for adventure was taken care of for the next two years in the Pacific, where I saw action on Tarawa and came out of the war with spiritual shell shock.

For the past 12 years my major hobby has been horticulture. I practice two techniques, liquid culture and organic gardening. I grow normal and abnormal plants, giving the latter the chemical treatment, and I take special pride in the size and beauty of the flowers.

I get some of the seeds from the research people at Oak Ridge who study the effects of radiation on various substances. The mutations are unpredictable — I never know if I'm going to rear a monster or a marvel.

I read about a trip down the Danube in a canoe, so I flew to Europe and paddled my own canoe over the same route in 1965. I once read a book which sent me on an introspective journey to a tiny island off Noya Scotia to meditate. Unfortunately, I became ill and had to be brought out by oxcart.

I made a film called "Human Growth" which caused some controversy in 1947 because it taught 12-year-olds about sex. It is now something of a classroom classic, I understand, and to my great joy it won a prize at the Venice Film Festival in 1965.

I want to make a film short in which a Catholic boy explains Judaism to a Protestant boy, a Protestant boy explains Catholicism to a Jewish boy and a Jewish boy explains Protestantism to a Catholic boy.

I'd like to take that canoe trip down the Danube again, this time with my son, and stop at Budapest and sing with the Gypsies in Romania.

I want to live to be 100.

There's so little time.

Foreign Aid Bill Runs Into Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's foreign aid program, a continuing target of an economy-minded Congress, has suffered another setback.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday refused to restore the nearly $1 billion cut by the House last week from the President's original $2.9 billion request. In fact, the committee trimmed another $22.9 million on its own.

Observers said by the time the overseas proposals get through being worked over in today's committee hearings, future debate on the Senate floor, and certain reduction in separate appropriations bills the program might barely total half of what was asked.

The foreign assistance program has been in increasing difficulties since a year ago when Congress first demanded multibillion-dollar spending cuts in return for passage of the President's 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has predicted the money bill may be $400 million under the authorization an ultimate appropriation of less than $1.6 billion.

The authorization measure sets policy and money ceilings. The appropriations bill fixes the amount that may actually be spent.

A combination of factors has sent the aid program to its lowest level in its 21-year history.

It has its longtime critics who have termed it a giveaway that made no friends for this country.

They have been joined in recent years by former supporters who now oppose the program to register opposition to the Vietnam war and its costs. The bill contains substantial amounts for the civilian economy of Vietnam, but the major war costs are in the Defense Department budget.

Thompson Cited for Vietnam Service

FORT ORD, Calif. -- Major Joseph E. Thompson Jr., son of Mrs. Leon Payne, 619 Greer, Sikeston, Mo., and Joseph E. Thompson Sr. of Morehouse, Mo., received the bronze star medal and the air medal for meritorious service. He is an army 4th Brigade executive officer.

Major Thompson served with the 5th special forces in Vietnam from November of 1966 to November of 1967. He was cited for "his rapid assessment and solution of numberous problems inherent in a counter - insurgency environment.

From January of 1967 to May of 1967, Major Thompson participated in more than 25 aerial missions.

Thompson was reared in the Morehouse area. He has been in the service 19 years.

A LOT OF BOATS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — There are 200,000 registered pleasure boats in Florida, according to John T. Lowe, member of the Jacksonville-Duval County Recreation Planning Committee.

At present there is no age limit in Florida for owning or piloting a boat. All boats must be registered with the State Board of Conservation and are required to display the registration number at all times.

Do-It-Yourself Path Leads Young to Self-Reliance

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)

A short time back a young college student approached a friend of mine with these astounding words:

"You were lucky. You grew up in the depression. You had a challenge that we don't have."

We have concentrated on giving our children knowledge. We have made certain they have had the educational, recreational and cultural opportunities we did not have. We have given them the best medical care in history. We have sheltered them from rough knocks, struggle and defeats.

Yet a number of young people this reporter knows believe they have been cheated by these advantages their parents struggled so hard to give them.

They feel they haven't had the opportunity of fending for themselves.

This reporter's three-year-old son doesn't want people doing things for him. He wants to do everything for himself, even when he falls flat on his face in the attempt.

When he succeeds, his face lights up with a look what's wonderful to behold. When he can't make it, he cries and shouts in frustration, but keeps on trying and continues to push away impatiently, even angrily, any sympathetic adult or child who wants to help him.

He gets a great deal more satisfaction out of what he does himself, even if he does it poorly, than anything his father does for him.

This is typical of three-year-olds. It is also typical of those five, eight, 10, 15, 19, 28, 35, 58 and 76-year-old who haven't been smothered by people who wanted, out of love and kindness, to do things for them they could have done for themselves, in order to save them bruises, worries, heartaches and failures.

Many young people have told me they have no confidence in themselves; so much has been done for them, and their roads so cleared of bumps, that they aren't sure of what they will be able to do when they have to do it alone.

Defeats, failures, responsibilities and rough spots are crucial to men and women. Books and higher education are very important things. Without them, our civilization would die. But they are no substitute for failing on your face when trying to do something on your own.

Even Mao Tse-tung has seen this on the other side of the world. The problem with Red China's youth, he says, is that they haven't had to struggle as did the young people in his revolutionary days.

Senate Hikes Aid for Air Congestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve the congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety, it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $963.4 million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to come in.

The traffic jams, which have mushroomed in recent weeks, are threatening to cause the cancellation of some flights, a cutback in FAA services and the possible closing of some facilities.

The controllers maintain that they are overworked, shortstaffed and underequipped to handle the increasing air traffic.

The bill was $153 million higher than a measure passed previously by the House and its sponsor said the extra money would provide for the hiring of 2,627 air-traffic controllers. The House bill allowed for only 1,851 controllers.

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an over-all $1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 82 to 2. Only Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., dissented.

An informed Senate source said he expects the House will agree to much, if not all, the increases in the Senate bill.

Quick action in the House will be necessary if the measure is to go into effect before fall since Congress takes a break for much of August due to the national political conventions.

In a related development, FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Oranization, a new union, to discuss the air tieups.

E. Lee Bailey, executive director of the union, said after the session his organization would seek meetings with industry and other interested parties this week to talk over immediate steps to end the problem.

Also, FAA administrator William F. McKee said a three-day meeting, starting today, would consider proposals on ways to relieve the congestion.

Mail Box

Dear Colonel Blanton,

This is forwarded in reference to an article written by a young Mr. Greer of Chaffee on July 20, 1968 concerning his points of political interest. His thinking is to be commended, however logic sometimes overpowers radical thinking.

Gun legislation would be wonderful, but let us also consider the criminal - minded person who doesn't adhere to the laws of the land. What protection would you have if a person with criminal intentions tried to enter your home forcefully? Legal relinquishment of fire arms places a frying pan in your hand a loaded revolver and a sick mind.

Also the sport of hunting is to be considered. Knowing a fire - arm is available, places rest into the first laws of nature. Self - preservation and remembering the old perable "Guns don't kill people - People kill people."

Each individual has opinion on civil rights. And that is exactly where correction and self - improvement should begin. The individual.

Mass involvements create a confusion of class. Therefore corrective discussion and decision begin in the township, and city, according to the problems.

Where there is a will, there is a way. I might add, here I don't hold a man and his ways to the color of his skin. In fact, a black face in Viet Nam is helpful on night patrols if your caucasian. Now why can't we live together in harmony at home.

In view of the United Nations, its still a place of communication to foreign powers and where no communication exist. Problems follow.

When I was eighteen, I was beginning to make own way of life on my own. It was a time of learning. I firmly believe that at that time, eighteen would be more personality than fact. True college service and working enter the picture, but the "green" is still there.

I personally don't know any eighteen year olds, who were forced into the service, they freely of their own decision entered voluntarily. They die because it's God's will. This is the supreme sacrifice for peace. When fighting in another's backyard, his environment and tactics prevail. Mr. Greer, do you suggest we stand in ranks as the British did or perhaps a large bomb on innocent people.

I know why I'm here. To help in a small part to preserve the life of our young Americans, the people who desire peace, want peace and live in terror and hell, and also our allies who are assisting. If a person isn't capable of helping himself. He wants help. This is Viet Nam. Have you ever been nauseated to see children with their heads missing. Put yourself, Mr. Greer in their father's place, where you have your own. My suggestion is as the younger set would say, "Come to where the active is and judge for yourself.

I'm sorry, I can't lend you my helmet or flak fragmentation jacket. They're my pajamas. However, I'll save a place in the bunker for you, provided your fast enough to get there.

To all at home, God Bless and pray for Peace.

I to am an American and a Missourian.

Sincerely,
Jim Walls
HMI U. S. Navy.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have a lovely, new, taffeta slip but it rustles every time I take a step. I wonder if any of the readers can tell me how to eliminate this rustle.—LAURA

A tossed salad will complement as well as nourish. Watch your family and friends respond to your attention to both the taste palate and the artist's pallette!

Broiled Chicken Patties

6 double Krispy Crackers	½ cup light cream
½ teaspoon salt	1 egg yolk beaten
½ teaspoon pepper	1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups ground or finely minced cooked chicken*	1 tablespoon minced parsley
	¼ cup melted butter (about)

Crush crackers into fine crumbs between two sheets of waxed paper. Mix with salt and pepper and set aside. Blend remaining ingredients together, except butter, and work in prepared crumbs. Shape into four patties about ½ to ¾ inch thick. Place on broiler rack and brush tops with butter. Brown about 3 inches from the broiler preheated to 450° F, for about 4 minutes. Turn, butter other sides and finish browning, during another 4 minutes. Serve with asparagus and a tossed salad.

DEAR POLLY—Last winter, when I got on a bus downtown to go home, I discovered my wallet was missing. The gentleman ahead of me saw my plight and paid my bus fare. Between that time and the next morning, when I could call the store where I had been, I kept thinking about how many things are in a wallet that must be replaced or might be used by others. Aside from $34 in mine, there were credit cards, driver's license, I.D. card (my husband is overseas and this would present difficulties) and other valuables and necessities. It dawned on me that one is very foolish to keep everything together in one wallet. I took the card case out of my wallet and put it in the zipper compartment in my purse, large bills were put in a money clip and then in the zipper compartment. My wallet now holds only change and small bills and I feel much safer about the situation. By the way, some honest person returned my wallet completely intact. —WANDA

DEAR WANDA— As an added precaution, you might try what one of my sons recently suggested to me and that was to copy the numbers and names of all credit cards you carry and have the list safely put away at home so time would be saved when reporting such a loss and none would be overlooked.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—How about the following message to mothers who take children to the beauty shop: "Ladies, please remember you are in a shop of beauty. So kindly do your duty. Before the children begin to jump and hop/Make them STOP, STOP, STOP."—BESSIE

DEAR POLLY—My son in Vietnam was always writing home for stationery. He often had to borrow paper from a buddy. I solved this by enclosing some in one of the letters I write him each week and there have been no more requests.—ETHEL

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

CUTTING FEDERAL SPENDING -- In several talks in the Senate recently, I have presented the need for this Administration to face up to the reality of our growing economic problems.

It is no secret now that we are currently running at a budgetary deficit for this year of over $20 billion.

Nor is it any secret that our balance of payments situation, on the downgrade for a great many years, continues to deteriorate.

This first priority decision for the new Administration that comes into office some six months from now will be to bring our governmental financial commitments at home and abroad into some reasonable line with our financial capacity. This can be made much less difficult for the next President if we in the Congress act now by expressing some financial responsibility.

NON-PROLIFERATION TREATY -- The Secretary of State and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were among the first witnesses heard this past week as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee began hearings on the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. Recently signed by the United States, this Treaty is subject to the advice and consent of the Senate.

In broad terms, the international agreement is designed to help stop the spread of nuclear weapons to nations which do not have them now; also to assure that such nations will benefit from the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

The Treaty provides a system for safeguards on the peaceful nuclear activities so as to assure that nuclear materials are not diverted to weapons. In other provisions, nuclear state signatories affirm their intention to work for agreements on arms control and disarmament.

Fifty-six other nations have already signed the Treaty, including the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom.

POULTRY INSPECTION -- The Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a Housepassed poultry inspection bill similar to the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967. Federal assistance would be provided to states to help assure minimum poultry inspection of poultry in interstate markets.

In states not meeting these standards in two years, Federal inspection laws would apply directly to plants processing poultry for distribution within the states.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION AMENDMENTS -- The Senate has approved a $2.6 billion four-year program designed to broaden assistance for vocational assistance. The House had previously passed a $1.2 billion, two-year plan, and differences must now be worked out in a joint conference between the two chambers.

The measure would authorize funds for the State grant programs, research in vocational education, exemplary vocation education programs and homemaking education.

HEAD START TRANSFER -- An amendment approved by the Senate would transfer the Head Start program from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Office of Education, effective July 1, 1969.

The Senate also voted $50 million a year authorization for two years in emergency funds for free - or reduced-price meals for needy children, just half the amount previously voted by the House.

Do-It-Yourself Path Leads Young to Self-Reliance

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A short time back a young college student approached a friend of mine with these astounding words:

"You were lucky. You grew up in the depression. You had a challenge that we don't have."

We have concentrated on giving our children knowledge. We have made certain they have had the educational, recreational and cultural opportunities we did not have. We have given them the best medical care in history. We have sheltered them from rough knocks, struggle and defeats.

Yet a number of young people this reporter knows believe they have been cheated by these advantages their parents struggled so hard to give them.

This reporter's three-year-old son doesn't want people doing things for him. He wants to do everything for himself, even when he falls flat on his face in the attempt.

When he succeeds, his face lights up with a look what's wonderful to behold. When he can't make it, he cries and shouts in frustration, but keeps on trying and continues to push away impatiently, even angrily, any sympathetic adult or child who wants to help him.

This is typical of three-year-olds. It is also typical of those five, eight, 10, 15, 19, 28, 35, 58 and 76-year-old who haven't been smothered by people who wanted, out of love and kindness, to do things for them they could have done for themselves, in order to save them bruises, worries, heartaches and failures.

Many young people have told me they have no confidence in themselves; so much has been done for them, and their goads so cleared of bumps, that they aren't sure of what they will be able to do when they have to do it alone.

Defeats, failures, responsibilities and rough goes are crucial to men and women. Books and higher education are very important things. Without them, our civilization would die. But they are no substitute for falling on your face when trying to do something on your own.

Even Mao Tse-tung has seen this on the other side of the world. The problem with Red China's youth, he says, is that they haven't had to struggle as did the young people in his revolutionary days.

Senate Hikes Aid for Air Congestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve the congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety, it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $962.4 million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to come in.

The traffic jams, which have mushroomed in recent weeks, are threatening to cause the cancellation of some flights, a cutback in FAA services and the possible closing of some facilities.

The controllers maintain that they are overworked, shortstaffed and underequipped to handle the increasing air traffic.

The bill was $153 million higher than a measure passed previously by the House and its sponsors said the extra money would provide for the hiring of 3,427 air-traffic controllers. The House bill allowed for only 1,535 controllers.

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an over-all $1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 52 to 2. Only Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., dissented.

An informed Senate source said he expects the House will agree to much, if not all, the increases in the Senate bill.

Quick action in the House will be necessary if the measure is to go into effect before fall since Congress takes a break for much of August due to the national political conventions.

In a related development, FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Oranization, a new union, to discuss the air tieups.

F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the union, said after the session his organization would seek meetings with industry and other interested parties this week to talk over immediate steps to end the problem.

Also, FAA administrator William F. McKee said a three-day meeting, starting today, would consider proposals on ways to relieve the congestion.

Mail Box

Dear Colonel Blanton,

This is forwarded in reference to an article written by a young Mr. Greer of Chaffee on July 20, 1968 concerning his points of political interest. His thinking is to be commended, however logic sometimes overpowers radical thinking.

Gun legislation would be wonderful, but let us also consider the criminal - minded person who doesn't adhere to the laws of the land. What protection would you have if a person with criminal intentions tried to enter your home forcefully? Legal relinquishment of fire arms places a frying pan in your hand a loaded revolver and a sick mind.

Also the sport of hunting is to be considered. Knowing a fire - arm is available, places rest into the first laws of nature. Self - preservation and remembering the old perable "Guns don't kill people - People kill people."

Each individual has opinion on civil rights. And that is exactly where correction and self - improvement should begin. The individual.

Mass involvements create a confusion of class. Therefore corrective discussion and decision begin in the township, and city, according to the problems.

Where there is a will, there is a way. I might add, here I don't hold a man and his ways to the color of his skin. In fact, a black face in Viet Nam is helpful on night patrols if your caucasian. Now why can't we live together in harmony at home.

In view of the United Nations, its still a place of communication to foreign powers and where no communication exist. Problems follow.

When I was eighteen, I was beginning to make own way of life on my own. It was a time of you suggest we stand in ranks as the British did or perhaps a large bomb on innocent people.

I know why I'm here. To help in a small part to preserve the life of our young Americans, the people who desire peace, want peace and live in terror and hell, and also our allies who are assisting. If a person isn't capable of helping himself. He wants help. This is Viet Nam. Have you ever been nauseated to see children with their heads missing. Put yourself, Mr. Greer in their father's place, where you have your own. My suggestion is the younger set would say, "Come to where the active is and judge for yourself.

I'm sorry, I can't lend you my helmet or flak fragmentation jacket. They're my pajamas. However, I'll save a place in the bunker for you, provided your fast enough to get there.

To all at home, God Bless and pray for Peace.

I to am an American and a Missourian.

Sincerely,
Jim Walls

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have a lovely, new, taffeta slip but it rustles every time I take a step. I wonder if any of the readers can tell me how to eliminate this rustle.—LAURA

DEAR POLLY—Last winter, when I got on a bus downtown to go home, I discovered my wallet was missing. The gentleman ahead of me saw my plight and paid my bus fare. Between that time and the next morning, when I could call the store where I had been, I kept thinking about how many things are in a wallet that must be replaced or might be used by others. Aside from $34 in mine, there were credit cards, driver's license, I.D. card (my husband is overseas and this would present difficulties) and other valuables and necessities. It dawned on me that one is very foolish to keep everything together in one wallet. I took the card case out of my wallet and put it in the zipper compartment in my purse. Large bills were put in a money clip and then in the zipper compartment. My wallet now holds only change and small bills and I feel much safer about the situation. By the way, some honest person returned my wallet completely intact. —WANDA

DEAR WANDA— As an added precaution, you might try what one of my sons recently suggested to me and that was to copy the numbers and names of all credit cards you carry and have the list safely put away at home so time would be saved when reporting such a loss and none would be overlooked.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—How about the following message to mothers who take children to the beauty shop: "Ladies, please remember you are in a shop of beauty/So kindly do your duty. Before the children begin to jump and hop/Make them STOP, STOP, STOP."—BESSIE

DEAR POLLY—My son in Vietnam was always writing home for stationery. He often had to borrow paper from a buddy. I solved this by enclosing some in each of the three letters I write him each week and there have been no more requests.—ETHEL

Green, the most restful color to the eye, is one of the most appetite-whetting colors also. During the summer months, many green vegetables are readily available to enhance main dishes. One entree particularly appealing for such warm-weather serving is Broiled Chicken Patties framed with asparagus.

The patties are light in texture because of the addition of Sunshine Krispy Crackers and because they are broiled, rather than fried. And happy is the homemaker who can include nourishing hot dishes on summer menus with the blessing of only eight minutes' cooking time! As if these plusses weren't enough, the cook's shelf of quick foods can turn up cans of the necessary chicken on a moment's inspiration.

Tossed salad will complement as well as nourish. Watch your family and friends respond to your attention to both the taste palate and the artist's palette!

Broiled Chicken Patties

6 double Krispy Crackers	½ cup light cream
¼ teaspoon salt	1 egg yolk beaten
½ teaspoon pepper	1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups ground or finely minced cooked chicken*	1 tablespoon minced parsley
	¼ cup melted butter (about)

Crush crackers into fine crumbs between two sheets of waxed paper. Mix with salt and pepper and set aside. Blend remaining ingredients together, except butter, and work in prepared crumbs. Shape into four patties about ½ to ¾ inch thick. Place on broiler rack and brush tops with butter. Brown about 3 inches from the broiler preheated to 450°F. for about 4 minutes. Turn, butter other sides and finish browning, during another 4 minutes. Serve with asparagus and a tossed salad.

Yield: 4 servings.

DEAR WANDA— As an added precaution, you might try what one of my sons recently suggested to me and that was to copy the numbers and names of all credit cards you carry and have the list safely put away at home so time would be saved when reporting such a loss and none would be overlooked.—POLLY

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

CUTTING FEDERAL SPENDING — In several talks in the Senate recently, I have presented the need that this Administration to face up to the reality of our growing economic problems.

It is no secret now that we are currently running at a budgetary deficit for this year of over $20 billion.

Nor is it any secret that our balance of payments situation, on the downgrade for a great many years, continues to deteriorate.

This first priority decision for the new Administration that comes into office some six months from now will be to bring our governmental financial commitments at home and abroad into some reasonable line with our financial capacity. This can be made much less difficult for the next President if we in the Congress act now by expressing some financial responsibility.

NON-PROLIFERATION TREATY — The Secretary of State and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were among the first witnesses heard this past week as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee began hearings on the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. Recently signed by the United States, this Treaty is subject to the advice and consent of the Senate.

In broad terms, the international agreement is designed to help stop the spread of nuclear weapons to nations which do not have them now; also to assure that such nations will benefit from the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

The Treaty provides a system for safeguards on the peaceful nuclear activities so as to assure that nuclear materials are not diverted to weapons. In other provisions, nuclear state signatories affirm their intention to work for agreements on arms control and disarmament.

Fifty-six other nations have already signed the Treaty, including the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom.

POULTRY INSPECTION — The Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a Housepassed poultry inspection bill similar to the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967. Federal assistance would be provided to states to help assure minimum poultry inspection of poultry in interstate markets.

In states not meeting these standards in two years, Federal inspection laws would apply directly to plants processing poultry for distribution within the states.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION AMENDMENTS — The Senate has approved a $2.6 billion four-year program designed to broaden assistance for vocational assistance. The House had previously passed a $1.2 billion, two-year plan, and differences must now be worked out in a joint conference between the two chambers.

The measure would authorize funds for the State grant programs, research in vocational education, exemplary vocation education programs and homemaking education.

HEAD START TRANSFER — An amendment approved by the Senate would transfer the Head Start program from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Office of Education, effective July 1, 1969.

The Senate also voted $50 million a year authorization for two years in emergency funds for free - or reduced-price meals for needy children, just half the amount previously voted by the House.

GREASED-POLE climbing calls for inventiveness if you're to succeed. This fellow uses a shirt to wipe the pole and a spread-legged technique to boost himself upward.

Coworkers Learn to Talk To Deaf Employe by Signs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The photogrammetric engineering office this spring.

Miller is a deaf mute and has to talk with his hands, but the others are learning just so they can communicate with Miller.

"It just sort of happened said Derald Sarratt, unit supervisor. "Actually, sign language isn't as difficult as I thought it would be. We're still slow at it, of course, but we're learning."

He's a cartographic draftsman and etches maps on film for reproduction, a process called scribing.

At first others in the office communicated with Miller by writing notes.

"Then one day I noticed he he had a book that looked interesting, and I asked him about it," said Linda Farr, a petite 20-year-old coworker.

"I got tired of writing notes, and anyway my writing isn't the easiest thing to read. So he showed me this card with the alphabet in sign language. I finally got the nerve to try it, and pretty soon the others were doing it, too."

The others say Linda is the best in the office at sign language--besides Miller--but she claims she's still pretty clumsy.

From simple alphabetical signs, the government employes are progressing to hand symbols which translate into whole words or phrases.

"Making sign language is one thing," Sarratt reported, "and reading it is something else. Everything is backward to the person watching, and you have to get used to it."

By now most of the office force can ask Miller simple questions and give brief replies to his queries. Carl Moore and Willie Godfrey at nearby desks even try an occasional joke in sign language.

"It's unbelievable that the whole unit is making such an effort," Miller wrote in reply to a question. "Usually you'll find maybe one or two interested-but not everyone."

Sarratt added Miller is quick to grasp a colleague's intent and often anticipates a question or statement before the coworker finishes laboriously spelling it out on his fingers.

"It's kind of deflating when I get all wound up to spell out a sentence, and halfway through Johnny's already nodding to show he understands," the supervisor chuckled.

Miller's fellow employes shrug off expressions of amazement that an entire office force would learn sign language to communicate with one person.

"It shouldn't be so unusal," said Miss Farr. "We just think enough of him to do it, that's all."

DANCE THERAPY

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — New techniques in dance therapy for the handicapped were taught to visiting teachers and nurses from all over the nation in the first clinic of its kind, held at the University of Dayton.

Students attending the three-day session will initiate or strengthen dance therapy programs in their community. At the clinic, they learned dancing techniques for deaf, blind and retarded people and those with cerebral palsy.

Kirkpatrick Only Unopposed Candidate

JEFFERSON CITY -- Unusual, but not unprecedented.

That is Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick's situation as the only unopposed candidate for state elective office in the 1968 Democratic primary.

Since the direct primary election came into being in Missouri in 1908, 17 candidates have reached this status. In baseball terms, this is 17 for 96, if the opportunities can be called times at bat.

Auditor Haskell Holman wears the triple crown, having been unopposed in 1954, 1958 and 1962. Doubles have been hit by the late Forrest Smith, who was unopposed as auditor in 1932 and 1944, and the late Walter Toberman, secretary of state, in 1952 and 1956.

The real world series year was 1936, when Frank Harris for lieutenant - governor, Bob Winn for treasurer, Dwight Brown for secretary of state and Roy McKittrick for attorney general all went through the primary without opposition. This was the year when a candidate had little chance unless he carried the endorsement of the late Tom Pendergast of Kansas City.

Others who have "soloed" to Democratic nominations were the late James T. Blair, Jr., for lieutenant - governor in 1948, J. E. Taylor for attorney general in the same year, and M. E. Morris for treasurer in 1956.

James Cowgill of Kansas City for treasurer and Elliott Major of Bowling Green for attorney general were unopposed in the first Democratic primary in 1908. Secretary of State Cornelius Roach, a Carthage newspaper publisher, had no opponent in 1912. George H. Middelkamp of Lincoln County had no opposition in 1916 for treasurer, Secretary of State John L. Sullivan of Sedalia had none in 1920, and Richard R. Nacy, Sr., of Jefferson City went without an opponent for treasurer in 1932.

$2 Million Fire Razes Records

CAIRO -- Fire early Monday swept through the First Bank and Trust Co. here, destroying or heavily damaging the quarters of 13 businesses and destroying city and school district financial records.

Estimates of damage ranged from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The bank resumed operations at 10 a.m. Monday in the Masonic Temple a block north of the bank building.

All services were available except for access to safety deposit boxes.

Harry Emerson, chairman of the board of directors of the bank, said that as soon as authorities determine that it is safe, someone will be stationed at the bank building to serve safety deposit box customers.

Emerson said all records, documents and currency in the bank were saved.

The Cairo municipal and Cairo school district financial records were in the Tracy - Cunningham accounting office for audit and were destroyed.

School and city officials indicated that there are no duplicate records.

Fire, which broke out about 3 a.m., was thought to have started on one of the two vacant floors above the drugstore, Fire Chief Lewis Edwards said.

Two firemen were injured. One suffered a hand cut and the other smoke inhalation. They were treated and returned to the scene.

The drugstore section of the building, originally the J. C. Penney store, was erected in 1911 and the bank portion was built in 1913.

Other businesses whose offices were destroyed were Dr. Wm. M. Kobler, a dentist; the L. J. Kleb Insurance Co., Profilet Insurance Co., Public Loan Co., and Wm. F. Means, a lawyer, all on the second floor; and the Washington National Insurance Co., the Metropolitan Insurance Co. John Holland, a lawyer, Dr. Emmett J. Gillespie, a dentist, and the Marinello Beauty Shop, all on the third floor.

The Kleb company, Tracy Cunningham and Public Loan Co. had found new quarters by 11 a.m. Monday.

Job Offer Dead Ends

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Applications for postmaster at nearby Echo will be received until Aug. 13, the U.S. Civil Service Commission announced here Monday.

Robins to Iran

COLUMBIA -- The director of the school of social work at the University of Missouri will spend next year as United Nations social welfare training advisor to the government of Iran in Teheran.

Dr. Arthur J. Robins has been granted a leave of absence by the board of curators to accept the appointment.

Q—Why has the statue Venus de Milo no arms?

A—It is generally believed by art authorities that the arms were broken off before the statue was discovered, after having been buried for a great period of time.

GREASED-POLE climbing calls for inventiveness if you're to succeed. This fellow uses a shirt to wipe the pole and a spread-legged technique to boost himself upward.

BORN TO CLIMB, boys can't resist a greased-pole contest. This one at the annual Everglades Jamboree in Monroe Station, Fla., offers prizes of $5 and $10 to anyone who can retrieve paper plates nailed to top of pole. Since anything goes, a boosting hand is considered legal.

Coworkers Learn to Talk To Deaf Employe by Signs

That's because many of the 17 employes are clustered in a corner talking in sign language. [illegible] is a deaf mute and has to talk with his hands, but the others are learning just so they can communicate with Miller.

"It just sort of happened said Derald Sarratt, unit supervisor. "Actually, sign language isn't as difficult as I thought it would be. We're still slow at it, of course, but we're learning."

He's a cartographic draftsman and etches maps on film for reproduction, a process called scribing.

At first others in the office communicated with Miller by writing notes.

"Then one day I noticed he he had a book that looked interesting, and I asked him about it," said Linda Farr, a petite 20-year-old coworker.

"I got tired of writing notes, and anyway my writing isn't the easiest thing to read. So he showed me this card with the alphabet in sign language. I finally got the nerve to try it, and pretty soon the others were doing it, too."

The others say Linda is the best in the office at sign language--besides Miller--but she claims she's still pretty clumsy.

From simple alphabetical signs, the government employes are progressing to hand symbols which translate into whole words or phrases.

"Making sign language is one thing," Sarratt reported, "and reading it is something else. Everything is backward to the person watching, and you have to get used to it."

By now most of the office force can ask Miller simple questions and give brief replies to his queries. Carl Moore and Willie Godfrey at nearby desks even try an occasional joke in sign language.

"It's unbelievable that the whole unit is making such an effort," Miller wrote in reply to a question. "Usually you'll find maybe one or two interested-but not everyone."

Sarratt added Miller is quick to grasp a colleague's intent and often anticipates a question or statement before the coworker finishes laboriously spelling it out on his fingers.

"It's kind of deflating when I get all wound up to spell out a sentence, and halfway through Johnny's already nodding to show he understands," the supervisor chuckled.

Miller's fellow employes shrug off expressions of amazement that an entire office force would learn sign language to communicate with one person.

"It shouldn't be so unusual," said Miss Farr. "We just think enough of him to do it, that's all."

DANCE THERAPY

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — New techniques in dance therapy for the handicapped were taught to visiting teachers and nurses from all over the nation in the first clinic of its kind, held at the University of Dayton.

Students attending the three-day session will initiate or strengthen dance therapy programs in their community. At the clinic, they learned dancing techniques for deaf, blind and retarded people and those with cerebral palsy.

Kirkpatrick Only Unopposed Candidate

JEFFERSON CITY -- Unusual, but not unprecedented.

That is Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick's situation as the only unopposed candidate for state elective office in the 1968 Democratic primary.

Since the direct primary election came into being in Missouri in 1908, 17 candidates have reached this status. In baseball terms, this is 17- for 96, if the opportunities can be called times at bat.

Auditor Haskell Holman wears the triple crown, having been unopposed in 1954, 1958 and 1962. Doubles have been hit by the late Forrest Smith, who was unopposed as auditor in 1932 and 1944, and the late Walter Toberman, secretary of state, in 1952 and 1956.

The real world series year was 1936, when Frank Harris for lieutenant - governor, Bob Winn for treasurer, Dwight Brown for secretary of state and Roy McKittrick for attorney general all went through the primary without opposition. This was the year when a candidate had little chance unless he carried the endorsement of the late Tom Pendergast of Kansas City.

Others who have "soloed" to Democratic nominations were the late James T. Blair, Jr., for lieutenant - governor in 1948, J. E. Taylor for attorney general in the same year, and M. E. Morris for treasurer in 1956.

James Cowgill of Kansas City for treasurer and Elliott Major of Bowling Green for attorney general were unopposed in the first Democratic primary in 1908. Secretary of State Cornelius Roach, a Carthage newspaper publisher, had no opponent in 1912. George H. Middelkamp of Lincoln County had no opposition in 1916 for treasurer, Secretary of State John L. Sullivan of Sedalia had none in 1920, and Richard R. Nacy, Sr., of Jefferson City went without an opponent for treasurer in 1932.

$2 Million Fire Razes Records

CAIRO -- Fire early Monday swept through the First Bank and Trust Co. here, destroying or heavily damaging the quarters of 13 businesses and destroying city and school district financial records.

Estimates of damage ranged from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The bank resumed operations at 10 a.m. Monday in the Masonic Temple a block north of the bank building.

All services were available except for access to safety deposit boxes.

Harry Emerson, chairman of the board of directors of the bank, said that as soon as authorities determine that it is safe, someone will be stationed at the bank building to serve safety deposit box customers.

Emerson said all records, documents and currency in the bank were saved.

The Cairo municipal and Cairo school district financial records were in the Tracy - Cunningham accounting office for audit and were destroyed.

School and city officials indicated that there are no duplicate records.

Fire, which broke out about 3 a.m., was thought to have started on one of the two vacant floors above the drugstore, Fire Chief Lewis Edwards said.

Two firemen were injured. One suffered a hand cut and the other smoke inhalation. They were treated and returned to the scene.

The drugstore section of the building, originally the J. C. Penney store, was erected in 1911 and the bank portion was built in 1913.

Other businesses whose offices were destroyed were Dr. Wm. M. Kobler, a dentist; the L. J. Kleb Insurance Co., Profilet Insurance Co., Public Loan Co., and Wm. F. Means, a lawyer, all on the second floor; and the Washington National Insurance Co., the Metropolitan Insurance Co. John Holland, a lawyer, Dr. Emmett J. Gillespie, a dentist, and the Marinello Beauty Shop, all on the third floor.

The Kleb company, Tracy Cunningham and Public Loan Co. had found new quarters by 11 a.m. Monday.

Fortas Law Firm Aided Callanan

ST. LOUIS - In an article on St. Louis steamfitter boss Lawrence Callanan this week, Life magazine discusses the role that Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas' law firm has played in Callanan's history.

Callanan was convicted in 1954 of extortion and sentenced to 12 years in federal prison and five years probation specifying he could not hold union office or serve in "any representative capacity" in a labor organization during the probation.

"From the day of sentencing it became Morris Shenker's mission to return Callanan to control his local," Life says. "To join him as counsel in that effort, Shenker brought in Thurman Arnold, of the prestigious Washington law firm of Arnold, Fortas and Porter.

"(PARTNER ABE Fortas, confidant and adviser to President Johnson, was named to the Supreme Court in 1965 and more recently has been under rigorous questioning by he Senate as Johnson's nominee for Chief Justice. The remaining partner is Paul A. Porter, a prominent Democratic fund-raiser.)

"Callanan eventually was granted commutation (by President Johnson) in curious circumstances," the magazine, dated July 26 and on the newsstands Monday, reports.

"The request to the Justice Department was processed by an aide in the office of Deputy Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach," the article goes on. "Katzenbach was virtually running the department in the absence of Robert Kennedy following President Kennedy's death.

"It had not even been checked as was the rule in such cases, with Assistant Attorney General Herbert J. Miller Jr., head of the criminal division."

The Commutation was also a fait accompli when William Hundley, head of the organized crime section, who would normally have been consulted, heard of it.

"President Johnson signed the commutation order on April 17, 1964, and Larry Callanan was once again-openly-in control of Local 562 and its overflowing cashboxes," Life says.

". . . Larry Callanan was eager to show his gratitude," the article says. "Within a few months, he and (John) Lawler (assistant business manager of 562 and under indictment with Callanan) met with Democratic National Chairman John Bailey and treasurer Richard R. Maguire in Washington to offer help in the 1964 Johnson-Humphrey campaign.

"On Oct. 16 Lawler drew a check for $25,000 on the Pipefitters' fund and, in accord with Maguire's instructions, sent it to Doyle Dane Bernbach Inc., the New York advertising agency handling the campaign."

Twelve days later, Lawler sent another $25,000 check to Fortas' partner Porter as treasurer of a committee called "Friends of LBJ."

It was Porter who found it so easy to convince the Justice Department there was nothing wrong with the contribution, apparently an individual donation from Lawler.

Steelworkers Arm Union With Vote to Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers union members have armed their negotiators with an overwhelming vote of confidence as they race against a strike deadline a week away.

Thousands of the rank and file, in meetings, by voice, and by ballot across the nation, told their bargainers they would walk out of the mills if no contract is signed by Aug. 1.

Although the negotiations are secret, no money is believed to be on the table for the big dollar items like wages, pensions, vacations and unemployment insurance.

The vote, taken Tuesday in 600 union halls across the country, was the first of its kind for the nation's third largest union.

Reports from 83 locals representing about 180,000 men showed that some 3,700, or just over 2 per cent, were opposed. Figures from a dozen that took secret paper ballots showed 14 per cent opposed.

Each local was allowed to take the vote as it pleased. Most held meetings as the shifts changed and asked for a show of hands, yeas and nays, or standup vote.

Most meetings were attended by a third or less of the total membership but union rules allowed the vote to stand for the entire local.

Union leadership is under strong pressure to match the 6 per cent it won in the can and aluminum industries earlier this year, despite President Johnson's plea for wage restraint.

Steelworkers averaged $3.84 an hour in May, and the industry says fringe benefits added another $1.09. But the union has lost ground in recent years to other big industrial unions, especially the autoworkers, who also won a 6 per cent increase this year.

The steel industry says a 6 per cent increase each year over a three-year contract will wipe out two-thirds of its profits and put some companies out of business.

YOUTHFUL APPRECIATION

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Fire Chief Paul Pennington and his men are often recipients of thanks, but they admit that one of the nicest came from a kindergarten class from the First Methodist Church after a visit. The youngsters wrote:

"We enjoyed seeing all the fire trucks, boots and boat, and most of all the men sliding down the pole. We are glad God planned for friends who keep us safe from fires. We are glad you work all night so we can sleep."

NOAH AT IT AGAIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — When the Florida Times-Union headlined a weather story concerning 10 days of rain, "You Started Building That Ark Yet, Noah?" they got a swift answer.

The letter stated, "In reply to your caption in today's paper, yes I am building my ark here at the beach, and it's about 90 percent complete. If you have any doubt about it you can call Tommy Sheets at the Beach Marine Service...and ask him if he knows Cmdr. Noah's Ark Bartell or the dry land admiral and ask him if it isn't true. He will also show you the ark if you wish."

The letter was signed by "Cmdr. Fred J. Bartell Ret." The ark turned out to be a houseboat being constructed by the retired Navy Commander. Bartell, 69 and a bachelor, has been working on the houseboat for a year and a half. He figures that he will be able to launch the houseboat in the fall. The boat measures 34 feet long and 13½ feet wide.

Bus-Train Crash Kills 9 Migrants

NEWTONVILLE, N.J. (AP) — A two-car passenger train plowed into a farm labor bus Tuesday night, killing nine of the migrants and injuring 20 others in this South Jersey community.

State police said the two selfpropelled diesel cars of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, carrying some 100 passengers, tore the old school bus in two and threw the rear half 300 feet down the track. No one on the train was injured.

State police accounted for 39 bus passengers, but did not know exactly how many were aboard.

State police said the train was southbound from Philadelphia to Jersey shore points where it passed the crossing, which is marked with painted railroad warning signs but no lights. It was not known how fast the train was traveling.

The speed limit for trains in that section is 70 miles an hour, according to state police.

The farm bus was returning migrant workers from a dairy farm to Chester, Pa., according to Mayor John Krokos of Buena Vista Township.

State Trooper John Caruso said the bus driver, Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, Del., had with him a Delaware driver's license which had expired in March 1968.

Clark was in Kessler Memorial Hospital, Hammonton, with injuries, and no statement had been taken from him.

It is tragic that, after we have educated our young people, they leave because they cannot find adequate employment here. Hearnes Birthday Dinner Sell Out

Approximately 1,400 persons have paid more than $51,000 for tickets to the event at Ramada Inn's Pepper Mill restaurant, he said. More than 200 have bought $100 sponsor's tickets. Others are $25 each.

Closed circuit television will carry proceedings throughout the dining rooms.

Congressman James E. Wright, Fort Worth, will be principal speaker.

Hahn said the previous birthday dinners have netted for the Democratic state committee more than $129,000.

"This dinner will add at least $40,000 to that," Hahn said. "Governor and Mrs. Hearnes are to be complimented for dedicating all these funds to the state committee, especially in this year when they have their own campaign to finance."

Hahn said he will present a check for $40,000 to the state committee Saturday night. Remaining net proceeds will be given as soon as all expenses are paid.

Smith Joins M.U.

COLUMBIA -- Dr. Paul E. Smith, former member of the Michigan State University faculty, has assumed duties as professor of economics at the University of Missouri.

Dr. Smith, whose major fields are economic theory, public finance and quantitative economics, is widely known in his profession as a teacher and writer.

YOUTHFUL APPRECIATION

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Fire Chief Paul Pennington and his men are often recipients of thanks, but they admit that one of the nicest came from a kindergarten class from the First Methodist Church after a visit. The youngsters wrote:

"We enjoyed seeing all the fire trucks, boots and boat, and most of all the men sliding down the pole. We are glad God planned for friends who keep us safe from fires. We are glad you work all night so we can sleep."

NOAH AT IT AGAIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — When the Florida Times-Union headlined a weather story concerning 10 days of rain, "You Started Building That Ark Yet, Noah?" they got a swift answer.

The letter stated, "In reply to your caption in today's paper, yes I am building my ark here at the beach, and it's about 90 percent complete. If you have any doubt about it you can call Tommy Sheets at the Beach Marine Service...and ask him if he knows Cmdr. Noah's Ark Bartell or the dry land admiral and ask him if it isn't true. He will also show you the ark if you wish."

The letter was signed by "Cmdr. Fred J. Bartell Ret." The ark turned out to be a houseboat being constructed by the retired Navy Commander. Bartell, 69 and a bachelor, has been working on the houseboat for a year and a half. He figures that he will be able to launch the houseboat in the fall. The boat measures 34 feet long and 13½ feet wide.

Bus-Train Crash Kills 9 Migrants

NEWTONVILLE, N.J. (AP) — A two-car passenger train plowed into a farm labor bus Tuesday night, killing nine of the migrants and injuring 20 others in this South Jersey community.

State police said the two selfpropelled diesel cars of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, carrying some 100 passengers, tore the old school bus in two and threw the rear half 300 feet down the track. No one on the train was injured.

State police accounted for 39 bus passengers, but did not know exactly how many were aboard.

State police said the train was southbound from Philadelphia to Jersey shore points where it passed the crossing, which is marked with painted railroad warning signs but no lights. It was not known how fast the train was traveling.

The speed limit for trains in that section is 70 miles an hour, according to state police.

The farm bus was returning migrant workers from a dairy farm to Chester, Pa., according to Mayor John Krokos of Buena Vista Township.

State Trooper John Caruso said the bus driver, Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, Del., had with him a Delaware driver's license which had expired in March 1968.

Clark was in Kessler Memorial Hospital, Hammonton, with injuries, and no statement had been taken from him.

BILL D. BURLISON
Democrat

EXPERIENCE INCLUDES:

Assistant Attorney-General of Missouri.

Three-term prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau County

Past president, Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys' Association.

One of our grave concerns must be the exodus of our people from the 10th district. For the 10 years covered by our last population census, we lost 8.7% of our people while the state of Missouri gained 9.2% and the nation 18.5%. It is tragic that, after we have educated our young people, they leave because they cannot find adequate employment here. A U.S. Congressman can do much to insure location of private and public industry in his district. I pledge that, if elected, the acquisition of jobs will be a number one priority of my administration.

Credit Card Business Booming

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to hunt polar bear in Alaska, entertain your mother-in-law at a Paris restaurant, rent a houseboat for a Mississippi cruise, hire a big-name orchestra for your daughter's wedding reception—and charge it?

All you need is a credit card.

These are some of the more bizarre ways you can use a credit card but their purchasing power covers the whole gamut of goods and services.

It's estimated that Americans are carrying 200 million credit cards and using them to spend around $50 billion a year.

As a result of the proliferation of credit cards, there has been widespread speculation about the possibilities of a checkless, cashless society in the future.

Some bankers envision a nationwide system in which a single identification card would be used in place of all checks and almost all cash.

But American Express, a big name in the credit card industry, says, "The single-card system couldn't be further from reality today. The most striking feature of our present system of transferring money is the multiplicity of credit cards."

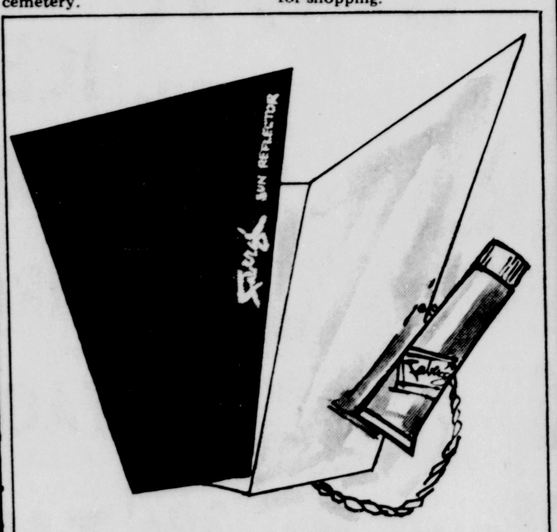

Credit cards as we know them today were pioneered in 1950 by Diners' Club, which was created with 200 members, an initial investment of $18,000 and a handful of restaurants in the New York City area. Within a year it had grown to 10,000 members who could charge at more than 1,000 establishments.

Credit cards now fall into three categories:

—Travel and entertainment. Operators in this field are American Express, Diners' Club and Carte Blanche. These cards are held primarily by business and professional men.

—Private label. Oil companies, airlines, hotels, car rental companies and department stores offer these cards primarily to promote their services or products.

—Revolving credit cards. These cards, largely regional or local in nature, are issued mainly by banks and financial organizations and are meant primarily for use by housewives for shopping.

MACON, Mo. (AP) — The Quarterback Club is the backbone of athletic-oriented projects in many cities and towns. This is true in Macon, but the local club is going a step beyond to help a young athlete who was graduated last spring from Macon High School.

The club has launched a Joe Terry fund with $200 from its treasury to help pay expenses for Terry, a three-sport athlete, now suffering from a kidney disease. Terry travels to Kansas City twice each week to use a special kidney machine and may require a transplant.

Cinch the Waist for Summer

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

Now there's no hideaway at the waist for a bulge or spare tire. It simply has to be smoothed away for summer clothes.

For most of us, this summer shape-up must include the old one-two. Exercise is essential in maintaining a trim figure, especially for anyone over 21.

Persuasive foundations are important, too. It's amazing what a stretch of elastic can do in sculpting a waistline, shaping a bustline or narrowing a hipline.

Co-ordinate under with outer silhouettes, covering what you want to control. A long-line bra or a high-rising girdle will be ideal under a dress that belts or sashes the waistline.

The sinuous 1930s styles being revived offer an excellent reason why a one-piece foundation should be in every woman's wardrobe—a second-skin type for the youthful figure; a more controlling type for the more rounded woman.

Co-ordinate under with outer necklines. Plenty of brassieres now are scooped out under the arms or plunge in front or back to accommodate the most daring of decolletages.

Lingerie should also co-ordinate with outer fabrics. Under knits and crepes you'll want not only a smooth, seam-free bra and girdle but also a simply tailored slip.

Bulkier or fuller outer fashions permit foundations and lingerie to be ruffled or lavish with lace.

Team under with outer colors. This means far more today than merely observing the old rule of "white under light, black under dark dresses." Now you can match prints under solids or solids under prints. The color and pattern range is a delight in both lingerie and foundation departments.

Underpinnings have come out into the light and are big fashion news this season.

SUMMER HOUSES along New York's Long Island are certainly individual and architecturally unconventional. They share only one similarity: all comply with a local law requiring they be built on pilings as a safety measure against high tides. Building lots in the area start at about $30,000. June-to-September rentals range from $1,100 to $12,000. A high-priced neighborhood in which to build "castles" in the sand. These photos, made at Westhampton Beach and Quoque, show a sampling of the odd shapes including one that resembles a flying saucer and a non-barn barn.

Wise Women Learn about Electricity

NEW YORK (AP) — Although women use electricity every day, and why. Her ability to understand labeling of electrical products and to spot potentially dangerous conditions in her home can prevent accidents.

When purchasing appliances, keep in mind that rubber is the best cord insulation. The products of reputable manufacturers will usually carry a label of approval from the Underwriter's Laboratory, which sets up safety standards.

Faulty electric cords can cause shocks or start fires. They should be handled gently to preserve their insulation. Pull out a cord by the plug, not the wire. You may coil the cord, but excessive bending or sqeezing can crack the insulation. Plugs should never be pried out of an outlet with a metal tool. And don't switch cords between appliances; an iron must have a heavier insulated cord than a food mixer.

Inspect appliance and lamp cords regularly. Disconnect cords where wires are beginning to show through wrapping and have them repaired.

Octopus wiring, where an outlet meant for two plugs is being used for six or seven, isn't just unsightly, it's dangerous. Too many appliances drawing power from one electrical circuit can generate heat and cause fires. A fuse is a safety valve which breaks the circuit when it overloads and before it can overheat. If a short circuit occurs, find the cause, disconnect the culprit that has caused the overload or which is faulty, and replace the fuse.

If a handy husband or son uses portable power tools, or if you are thinking of buying one as a gift, double insulation is a safety necessity. Power tools must sometimes be used around wet surfaces such as damp grass or a wet driveway after the car has been washed, both unsafe situations. Therefore the tool should offer two types of insulation: to prevent short circuits, and to prevent shocks.

Shock-proof electric drills, saws or sanders provide the hobbyist the greatest protection against electrical accident. Since women purchasers know so little about electric tools, it is wisest to consider only products made by reputable firms and to check double insulation and safety factors with the salesman.

Water and metal are conductors of electricity, that is, they serve as a channel to transmit the current. A metal lightning rod attracts lightning away from the house and channels it harmlessly through wires into the ground. Otherwise conductors should be avoided in conjunction with electric current. Don't handle a connected plug or light switch with wet hands or when standing in water.

If you must remove an obstruction from a socket, use a wooden or plastic tool and wear rubber gloves. These are all non-conductors. But it is best to call an electrician.

Most houses or apartments offer several electric circuits. Often all outlets in one room are part of the same circuit. Where you might have the most need for power, the kitchen perhaps, an electrician can install another socket drawn from a second circuit to share the power load and forestall blown fuses.

PEACE OF MIND. . .This wife is relaxed as her husband begins a building project because he's using a shock-proof electric drill that provides double insulation.

DOUBLE DANGER. . .Too many cords drawing power from one circuit and pulling a plug out by its cord can cause serious trouble. Looks like a second circuit is needed.

Persuasive foundations are nportant, too. It's amazing hat a stretch of elastic can in sculpting a waistline, haping a bustline or narrow- g a hipline.

Co-ordinate under with outer ilhouettes, covering what you ant to control. A long-line ra or a high-rising girdle will e ideal under a dress that elts or sashes the waistline.

The sinuous 1930s styles be- ng revived offer an excel- ent reason why a one-piece oundation should be in ev- ry woman's wardrobe—a econd-skin type for the outhful figure; a more con- rolling type for the more ounded woman.

Co-ordinate under with outer ecklines. Plenty of brassieres now are scooped out under the arms or plunge in front or back to accommodate the most daring of decolletages.

Lingerie should also coordinate with outer fabrics. Under knits and crepes you'll want not only a smooth, seam-free bra and girdle but also a simply tailored slip.

Bulkier or fuller outer fashions permit foundations and lingerie to be ruffled or lavish with lace.

Team under with outer colors. This means far more today than merely observing the old rule of "white under light, black under dark dresses." Now you can match prints under solids or solids under prints. The color and pattern range is a delight in both lingerie and foundation departments.

Underpinnings have come out into the light and are big fashion news this season.

SUMMER HOUSES along New York's Long Island are certainly individual and architecturally unconventional. They share only one similarity: all comply with a local law requiring they be built on pilings as a safety measure against high tides. Building lots in the area start at about $30,000. June-to-September rentals range from $1,100 to $12,000. A high-priced neighborhood in which to build "castles" in the sand. These photos, made at Westhampton Beach and Quoque, show a sampling of the odd shapes including one that resembles a flying saucer and a non-barn barn.

Wise Women Learn about Electricity

NEW YORK (AP) — Although women use electricity every day, the basics of this universal power sometimes seems to be beyond most female comprehension.

You put a plug into the socket and the vacuum works. If all the lights blow out a thingamajig called a fuse seems to be the villain. Sometimes you can get a shock from electrical equipment and sometimes not. Why?

Perhaps because little girls play with dolls and boys with electric trains, men are more familiar with the virtues and dangers of electricity. But the woman who is a wife and mother owes it to the safety of her family to know what precautions should be taken with electricity, and why. Her ability to understand labeling of electrical products and to spot potentially dangerous conditions in her home can prevent accidents.

When purchasing appliances, keep in mind that rubber is the best cord insulation. The products of reputable manufacturers will usually carry a label of approval from the Underwriter's Laboratory, which sets up safety standards.

Faulty electric cords can cause shocks or start fires. They should be handled gently to preserve their insulation. Pull out a cord by the plug, not the wire. You may coil the cord, but excessive bending or sqeezing can crack the insulation. Plugs should never be pried out of an outlet with a metal tool. And don't switch cords between appliances; an iron must have a heavier insulated cord than a food mixer.

Inspect appliance and lamp cords regularly. Disconnect cords where wires are beginning to show through wrapping and have them repaired.

Octopus wiring, where an outlet meant for two plugs is being used for six or seven, isn't just unsightly, it's dangerous. Too many appliances drawing power from one electrical circuit can generate heat and cause fires. A fuse is a safety valve which breaks the circuit when it overloads and before it can overheat. If a short circuit occurs, find the cause, disconnect the culprit that has caused the overload or which is faulty, and replace the fuse.

If a handy husband or son uses portable power tools, or if you are thinking of buying one as a gift, double insulation is a safety necessity. Power tools must sometimes be used around wet surfaces such as damp grass or a wet driveway after the car has been washed, both unsafe situations. Therefore the tool should offer two types of insulation: to prevent short circuits, and to prevent shocks.

Shock-proof electric drills, saws or sanders provide the hobbyist the greatest protection against electrical accident. Since women purchasers know so little about electric tools, it is wisest to consider only products made by reputable firms and to check double insulation and safety factors with the salesman.

Water and metal are conductors of electricity, that is, they serve as a channel to transmit the current. A metal lightning rod attracts lightning away from the house and channels it harmlessly through wires into the ground. Otherwise conductors should be avoided in conjunction with electric current. Don't handle a connected plug or light switch with wet hands or when standing in water.

If you must remove an obstruction from a socket, use a wooden or plastic tool and wear rubber gloves. These are all non-conductors. But it is best to call an electrician.

Most houses or apartments offer several electric circuits. Often all outlets in one room are part of the same circuit. Where you might have the most need for power, the kitchen perhaps, an electrician can install another socket drawn from a second circuit to share the power load and forestall blown fuses.

PEACE OF MIND. . .This wife is relaxed as her husband begins a building project because he's using a shock-proof electric drill that provides double insulation.

DOUBLE DANGER. . .Too many cords drawing power from one circuit and pulling a plug out by its cord can cause serious trouble. Looks like a second circuit is needed.

California Population Outnumbers Canada

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's population is 20 million, larger than Canada's, and 1.5 million ahead of New York's, the Chamber of Commerce reported.

Almost half of the state's 20 million people live in the five counties surrounding Los Angeles, said the chamber's research committee. The report Monday was based on census and state agency figures.

For eight years California has averaged a gain of approximately 500,000 a year and the state's population could double by the year 2000, the report said.

Canada's population is 19.9 million.

Numerous Appeals for Gifts Cause Unhappiness in Family

Dear Ann Landers: Six months ago my husband's sister Janet announced that her mind was made up -- she was going into a convent. The family decided to give her a big going away shower. We all figured since we wouldn't have to buy her a wedding present or baby gifts we'd go all out.

Two weeks ago Janet came out of the convent and decided to marry the boy she had been going with before she chose the religious life. They plan to marry in September. There are now plans for a big bridal shower. Then, of course, there will be the wedding gift, and naturally baby gifts will follow. Do you think this is fair? -- MEAGER BAND ACCOUNT

Dear Meager: Do you feel Janet should stay single to save friends and relatives the price of a shower gift? I don't. Those in the family who don't wish to spend any more money on her can convey their best wishes and let it go at that.

Dear Ann Landers: Sometimes I think you take a stand you don't believe just to provoke controversy. I strongly suspect you did just that when you told the daughter whose father had been a selfish, no good bum all of his life that she should take care of him in his old age.

I have lived through the same hell as the person who write and I consider myself an authority on rotton fathers. Unless you have grown up with alcoholism, screaming, fighting, breaking of furniture and dishes, you can't imagine what it's like. I remember Mama taking me and my little brother next door -- in the middle of the night, wrapped in a blanket. Father had been beating her with his fists and threatened to set the house on fire.

Mom died when I was 13. My brother and I went to live with an aunt. Father disappeared for 10 years and I can truthfully say nobody missed him. Now I am happily married and have two small children.

Father turned up six months ago. He lives in a shabby rooming house on the other end of town. He has criticized me to the family because I will not take him into our nice home and let him enjoy his grandchildren. I have him to dinner once in a while and it's all I can stand. My husband has nothing to say to him and my children fear him. He told me last time he was here that I should read the Bible more, especially the part that says, "Honor thy father and thy mother."

Please stop playing to the grandstand and answer me honestly. Is a married daughter obligated to take in an aged parent who has never done anything but cause misery and trouble? -- WAITING TO HEAR

Dear Waiting: I have never recommended that a married daughter or son move an aged parent into the home when the relationship is poor. This can only lead to trouble. What I did say, however, is that a child has the moral obligation to see to it that parents do not go hungry or without shelter -- and the advice stands.

Dear Ann Landers: My cousin who is always putting on airs got a fur stole for Mother's Day. She told everyone it was Siberian mink. The first time she wore it she got caught in the rain. It has smelled musty -- like skunk -- ever since. Can it be that her stole is actually not mink, but something a little less fancy? -- SUSPICIOUS

Dear Sis: Mink is a member of the weasel family and so is the skunk, the muskrat and a few other less glamorous cousins. They all smell musty when rained on -- even their Siberian relatives.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

If You Were the Judge

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Some like it hot, but Hector liked it cold; real cold. Consequently, he wasn't satisfied with just installing the normal air-conditioning unit in his home. He installed a unit that had a BTU capacity almost six times greater than the average air-conditioner and, while this made him and his family very comfortable, it made his next door neighbors very uncomfortable, particularly at night.

The noise, they claimed, was loud enough to make a clam clamor. It prevented them from sleeping and, in general, was driving them nuts. What's more, Hector refused to heed their complaints.

The result? The neighbors finally went to court demanding damages and an order that Hector tone down his air-conditioner.

"The air-conditioner is completely on my property," was Hector's answer, "and a person has a right to use his property as he sees fit. If I want my house to be as cool as an ice box, that's my business!

"We don't care if he freezes to death," retorted the irate neighbors, "but he's killing us with insomnia in doing it. While science hasn't been able to abolish sleep, he has. We haven't had a night's sleep in two months."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you award damages to the neighbors and make Hector cut down the noise of his air-conditioner?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that a person may not install and unreasonably use air-conditioning equipment that materially affects the comfort, enjoyment and occupancy of a neighbor's home and interferes with the neighbor's use and enjoyment of his property. Therefore, the neighbor, in this case, is entitled to the order and money for damages as well.

State License Plates To Be Black and White

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri's automobile license plates for 1969 will feature black characters on a white background, the State Department of Revenue announced last week. Plates for local farm trucks will have yellow characters on a black background.

Robert Debo, of the State Revenue dept., explained that they are alternating colors so that the new plates will be easy to distinguish from old plates. He also said that, although the 1969 plates are not of the reflector type, the department intends to stick to colors that are used in reflector plates, "Just in case" a law should be passed requiring them.

Another change that has been suggested is to provide each car with two plates, but the 1969 plates will still be one to a car.

A third suggested change came from the direction of the Missouri Tourism Commission. They wanted a tourism slogan to be placed on the plates.

The reflectorization, two plates and the tourism slogan many come at some time in the future, but Debo doesn't know of any specific moves to introduce legislation to bring them about.

Debo said the major consideration of plate design is to make the job of law officers easier. Reflectorization and two plates would probably do this, but a tourism slogan would require smaller numbers that would be harder to ead.

A change to two plates would, of course, about double the cost of production which is nw about nine cents a plate. The prison, where the plates are made, has the capability of producing twice as many plates, Debo said.

Reflectorization is even more expensive. It would triple the production cost. Reflectorization and two plates per car would increase the nine cents per plate to over 50 cents per set. Although this increase in the production costs for plates for more than 2.3 million vehicles would be substantial, Debo said it would be a minor cost compared to the cost of plate registration.
